STOCKS RALLY; NET GAINS HELD UNDER SELLING

U. S. Steel Expansion and Cuts in Rediscount Rates Helpful.

SITUATION IS NORMAL, SAYS BANKING GROUP

Decrease of $1,096,000,000 in Brokers' Loans Is Revealed.

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Prices of securities in all of the leading exchanges of the country rallied sharply again today in response to a tremendous investment and speculative demand created by a long succession of bullish financial developments.

When the New York Stock Exchange opened at noon, two hours later than usual, there was such a huge accumulation of buying orders that prices of active issues were whirled up $5 to $30 a share as blocks of 5,000 to 50,000 shares changed hands.

These gains were cut down in the subsequent waves of selling, representing profit taking by traders who had bought stocks in Tuesday's reaction, and the liquidation of stocks bought for supporting purposes, but final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains of $2 to $20 in the leading stocks.

Total Sales, 7,149,300.

Total sales in the three-hour trading period on the New York Stock Exchange were 7,149,300 shares, or well above the average five-hour session.

Long before the New York markets opened, London cables carried the report that the Bank of England had reduced its discount rate from 6½ to 6 per cent, signalizing the passing of the world credit stringency created by the wild securities speculation earlier in the year. This was followed by a long series of increased and extra dividends by industrial and public utility companies and the announcement of the purchase by the United States Steel Corporation of the Columbia Steel Co. of California.

After the market closed the New York Federal Reserve Bank reduced its discount rate from 6 to 5 per cent, and reported a record-breaking decrease of $1,096,000,000 in brokers' loans as a result of the huge liquidation of securities during the past week. Loans for the account of others dropped more than $2,000,000,000, indicating the wholesale withdrawal of funds from the call loan market by corporations and financial institutions, presumably to take advantage of the bargain prices prevailing, for a time, in the securities markets, whereas New York bankers increased their loans more than $1,000,000,000 during the stock market crisis.

Normal, Say Bankers.

The New York banking group, which was formed a week ago today to effect an orderly market in securities when a wave of hysterical selling threatened to bring about a complete collapse in prices, held no meetings today and contemplated none over the week-end because of the improvement in the general situation. Thomas W. Lamont, senior partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., spokesman for the group, said he regarded today's market as normal after the events of the past week.

The New York Stock Exchange, and nearly all of the other leading security markets of the country, will be closed Friday and Saturday to give overworked employes a rest, and to permit brokerage firms to catch up with a vast accumulation of work. All floor brokers and specialists on the New York Stock Exchange have been ordered to report at 10 a. m. each business day the exchange is closed until all open transactions on their books are adjusted. Failure to report will subject them to punishment for violation of the rules of the exchange.

Chicago Close Is High.

A majority of the leaders receded shortly after the opening but rallied around the close to finish near the high levels of the day.

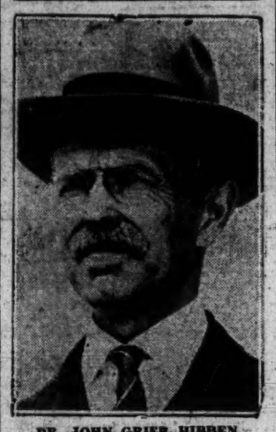
DESCRIBES GOD



DR. JOHN GRIER HIBBEN.

Definite God Faith Voiced By Educator

Chicago, Oct. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, set forth his belief in a personal god at the 100th anniversary of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary today. The educator's description of God caused wide comment.

He waved aside such definitions as "the unknowable," "the underlying cosmic force," and the latest, "the fourth dimension." He indicated that limitations deny infinity, and that closing Deity out of the finite would deny Him the quality most highly prized by human life, personality, thus leaving as a net result the grand "it" instead of the great "I am."

Dr. Hibben stated that men dare not ascribe a bodily form to God, but conceptions of Him must be in

Woman Loses Life In Leap at $10 Fire

Fright Over Blaze, Soon Put Out, Causes Her to Jump Three Stories.

New York, Oct. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Fear and a $10 apartment fire cost the life of Mrs. Alfred Olsen, 52, who jumped from her third-floor kitchen in the Bronx today to escape a blazing curtain.

A painter, Henry Walters, 29, was removing the varnish from the floor of a short vestibule which led from the Olsen kitchen to the dining room. The kitchen opened onto a fire escape.

Suddenly the rubber glove with which Walters was working burst into flame. He flung the glove off and it fell into a small pile of scrapings, which blazed up like powder.

A curtain hanging in the vestibule was ignited. Mrs. Olsen, in the kitchen, saw the flames. She slammed the door in Walters' face, locked it, then ran to the window and jumped. They found her later, dead.

Only the vestibule walls had been blackened.

Four Hurt in Explosion At Oil Field Structure

Rock Springs, Wyo., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Four men were injured today when a meter house in the North Baxter Basin oil field in which they were working blew up.

They are Earl Koerner, of Indianapolis, Ind; Sam Burger, Springfield, Mo.; Goinne Pebow, Cairo, Ill., and C. R. Allen, of Camden, N. J.

Expert Apple Nipper's Jaws Are Dislocated

Louisville, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Alfred Ormes, star apple nipper of Louisville's Halloween apple bobbing team, will be on the bench for the rest of the season.

In a practice game last night Ormes took a particularly daring dive and nip at an extra large apple. He came up with the apple, but the effort dislocated both of his jaws.

ONE MAN DIES, SIX MISSING IN SHIP DISASTER

VESSEL IS RAMMED BY S. S. MARQUETTE

THIRD LIKE TRAGEDY IN LAST TEN DAYS

Fog Is Blamed for Steamer's Loss, but Officials Are Loath to Talk.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Plowing through a heavy fog, two big lake freighters collided twenty miles off Port Washington today, sending one of them, the Senator, down with the probable loss of seven lives. It was the third major lake tragedy near here within the last ten days and only heroic rescues kept the casualty list from including the entire crew of 28 on the Senator.

The ore carrier, Marquette, headed for Indiana Harbor, Ind., rammed broadside into the Senator, crushing its port side, laden with a cargo of 241 autos. The Senator rolled quickly over and sank before its crew had a chance to man the lifeboats.

Fifteen of them managed to cling to liferafts and were picked up 45 minutes later by the fishing tug Delos H. Smith, of Port Washington. Three others were saved by the Marquette, which stood by for a time, although badly damaged itself and in grave danger. Three more were saved by the Thomas Walters, another freighter. One body was recovered, but the six others on board are still missing.

Revised Disaster List.

The revised dead, missing and rescued list of the freighter Senator follows:

The known dead:

Peter Smith, wheelsman, Fredonia, N. Y., body at Port Washington, Wis.

Six other persons, including Capt. George Kinch, and Mrs. Minnie Gormley, the cook and wife of the steward, Matthew Gormley, are missing.

Rescued and at Port Washington: Charles Sampson, chief engineer, Sodus Point, N. Y.; Owen Merle, second assistant engineer, Ecorse, Mich.; Stanley Hough, fireman, Detroit; Herbert Petting, wheelsman, Fredonia, N. Y.; Harvey Nicholson, second mate, Port Huron, Mich.; William Driscoll, deckhand, Detroit; William Dorsch, fireman, Detroit; Dennis McGann, fireman, Marquette, Mich.; J. W. Harris, coal passer, Lenoir, N. C.; John Weaver, coal passer, Detroit; Albert Carder, oiler, Sandwich, Ontario; Duane Precious, oiler, Port Huron; Matthew Gormley, steward, Detroit; Douglass Allingham, wheelsman, Corruna, Ontario; Harold Breen, deckhand, Alpena, Mich.

Rescued and at Milwaukee:

Ralph Ellis, radio operator, South Bend, Ind.; Leonard Bossi, lookout, Suterville, Pa., and William Philbeck, deckhand, Deerfield, Kans.

Three others, according to radio reports, are aboard the freighter Thomas Walters. The whereabouts of this boat were not known here tonight.

Marquette in Danger.

With its prow split, the Marquette quickly began drawing water but was able to keep afloat until tugs, answering S O S calls, came to its rescue and towed it into port at Milwaukee.

Members of the crews of both freighters were agreed that the crash

G. O. P. CHIEFS ADMIT DEFEAT IN TARIFF ROW

Plea of President to Pass Bill Is Greeted by Coalition Jeers.

TWO WEEKS CALLED INSUFFICIENT TIME

Borah Asks Some Measure Be Approved and Sent White House.

HOOVER STATEMENT SUBJECT OF JOKING

Senators Ask One Another if Its Authenticity Has Been Determined.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

A White House statement on the tariff gave the Senate another field day yesterday, but out of it came the admission of the Old Guard that the coalition had it licked and at the same time the expressed willingness to let the coalition go ahead and write a bill that will go into conference, at least.

The change of front on the part of the Old Guard followed conferences by the President with Republican leaders Wednesday. Realizing for some time that the coalition had the votes against them, Old Guard senators have been calling for the death of the bill. Senator Watson, the Republican leader, however, has been insisting that a bill be passed and sent to conference, and apparently this was the President's attitude in his Wednesday's conferences.

In the White House statement yesterday the President called for the bill's passage in two weeks. This was hooted at by Democratic senators and it is unlikely that it can be done. In view of the determination of the Progressives to pass a bill of their writing, however, together with the desire of many Democrats for a bill, indications are that consideration of the measure will at least be expedited.

Borah Urges Bill Passage.

It is considered significant that in the midst of the Senate's oratorical reception of the White House statement Senator Borah made this brief observation:

"The thing to do now is to pass a bill and send it to the President and then he may properly pass upon it." Senator Norris, of Nebraska, also took advantage of the President's intervention to urge that "all this talk of the death of the bill be stopped."

Senator Reed of the Old Guard, who had previously declared the bill to be dead, was, in the light of changed conditions, prepared to admit the coalition's strength to pass a measure, but he foresaw death of the bill when it goes into conference with the House.

President Noncommittal.

The White House statement purported to be a narrative of what happened between the President and his senatorial callers Wednesday, particularly his conference with Senators Watson, McNary of Oregon, and Claudius C. Huston, Republican national committeeman. It studiously avoided committing the President to either side of the fight, although it did make another bid for retention of the President's flexible tariff power.

At first it was interpreted as a move by the President to get from under any possibility for the killing of the bill. But, taken in the light with the conferences with Republican leaders and the subsequent changed attitudes of men like Reed, it became apparent that what the President wants is a bill of some kind, and before the regular session in December.

It is known that he was apprised at the conference that he could not get a bill out of the Senate except one of the coalition's making.

Coalition Questions Text.

The Democrats and some of the Progressives immediately seized upon the statement as not being clear, as not yet telling what kind of a bill the President wanted. Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, read it, and Senator Hiram Johnson immediately asked, referring to the President's request that the Republican leaders get together:

"What leaders? Get together on what? Is that all he says? Do you mean to tell me that is a statement by the President of the United States? Why, that's preposterous. It couldn't be."

Whereupon McKellar, with a perfect air of innocence, suggested that he may have been imposed upon, that all he knew was that some newspaper man had sent the statement in to him. He was willing to agree with the California senator that there must be a mistake. He would ask some of the senators, he said, and turning to Senator Reed:

"Can the senator from Pennsylvania tell us whether this is the President's statement?"

Reed assured him quite seriously that he had never seen it before.

POLICE CHIEF DENIES RAISING "WHITE FLAG"

Proposal of Retraction Did Not Emanate From Him, Pratt Says.

CIVILIAN TRIAL BOARD IS REFUSED TO ALLEN

Commissioners Turn Down Suspended Policeman on Bias Plea.

Counsel for Capt. Robert E. Doyle, suspended commander of the Eighth Police Precinct, asked District officials to drop charges of unbecoming conduct against their client on the basis of a letter of retraction to be written by Doyle, William W. Bride, corporation counsel, disclosed yesterday.

The offer by his counsel to have the suspended police captain retract the statements in his report supporting Private Robert J. Allen, which form the basis of the charges against him, was made to Robert E. Lynch, assistant corporation counsel assigned by Bride to prosecute the charges against both Doyle and Allen, suspended member of Doyle's former command.

Agreement on the phraseology of the letter of retraction which was to have been written by Doyle to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, could not be reached by the captain's attorneys and the corporation counsel, "although fully considered" and "all negotiations are now definitely off," Bride said.

Truce Hint Is Published.

Bride's statement was prompted by a published statement to the effect that Pratt had raised the white flag of truce and had had word "passed" to Doyle that the charges would be dropped if the captain would apologize and retract the statements which prompted the police chief to cite him before a trial board for conduct prejudicial to the good order and reputation of the police force.

"One of the attorneys for Capt. Doyle approached Robert E. Lynch, one of my assistants, with a suggestion that Capt. Doyle write a letter to Maj. Pratt as a basis for the withdrawal of the charges against him," Bride said.

"The matter was fully considered between attorneys for Capt. Doyle and representatives of my office. But no letter has been finally agreed to and all negotiations are now definitely off.

"I want to make it clear that no overtures to Capt. Doyle or his attorneys originated in my office or with any of my assistants."

Pratt Denies Overtures.

Maj. Pratt bluntly described the report as a canard and declared that he not only had not initiated such a proposal but never had discussed it with Doyle or his attorneys.

Pratt said there was involved no question of a personal apology to him from Doyle. Doyle's statements, for which he was charged with conduct unbecoming a police captain, were acted on as an impersonal matter affecting the administration of the police department, Pratt said.

Although officials refused to discuss what might have been the result if Doyle had submitted a retraction, it was believed that such a retraction would have been considered as removing the basis of the charge against him and, in view of his long years of service in the department, the matter probably would have been dropped by the commissioners with the approval of Pratt.

Doyle Move Is Surprise.

The announcement yesterday that it had been proposed that Doyle submit a letter of retraction came as

DEPRIEST FOLDER DECLARED TRAILED

HIS AFFIDAVITS DENIED

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Henry W. Anderson, Republican leader, in a statement tonight said he had affidavits in his possession to the effect that a member of the Richmond City Democratic committee distributed the "De Priest circular" and that a woman caller at State Democratic headquarters was told that she could get some of the circulars by calling later in the day.

"I do not give the names of persons furnishing me with these written statements, and affidavits because I do not wish to involve them in the controversy unless it is necessary, but I am authorized to show these documents to Dr. Pollard (John Garland Pollard, Democratic candidate for governor) if he desires to see them," Mr. Anderson said. His statement was issued just before he departed for Portsmouth to deliver a campaign address in the interest of Dr. William Moseley Brown, anti-Smith and Republican gubernatorial nominee.

A denial that the "De Priest circular" was printed or distributed from State Democratic headquarters was issued by T. McCall Frazier, headquarters director, when Mr. Anderson first called official attention to the pamphlet in a letter to Dr. Pollard asking the Democratic nominee if he "authorized or approved" its issuance. Dr. Pollard also replied by denying knowledge of the circular and terming the Anderson letter to him "a brazen piece of insolence."

The circular itself contained pictures of Oscar De Priest, Negro member of Congress, and his wife as well as printed excerpts from De Priest speeches and asserted that Mr. Anderson, Dr. Brown and the Republican State platform stood for poll-tax repeal as a prerequisite to voting. Anderson termed the poll-tax statement "an absolute falsehood," and Dr. Pollard in his reply stated it was a part of the Republican platform in 1921 when Anderson ran for governor.

Mr. Anderson tonight asserted he had "definite and reliable information that these pamphlets were printed by the firm of Clyde W. Saunders, a member of the city Democratic committee, and one of the printers for the Democratic headquarters.

Mr. Frazier tonight said he had not seen Mr. Anderson's new statement and consequently had no comment to make other than to reiterate his assertion that State Democratic headquarters had not issued or distributed this pamphlet.

Barney Bowman, chairman of the city Democratic committee, whose name was mentioned in one of the affidavits, said he had no knowledge of a conversation described in one affidavit in which Mr. Bowman and Clyde W. Saunders were said to be participants. Mr. Saunders joined Mr. Bowman in denying knowledge of the conversation.

TARDIEU ATTEMPTS TO FORM CABINET

CALLS ON BRIAND FIRST

Paris, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The task of attempting to form a cabinet in succession to the Briand government, which resigned October 22, will be undertaken by Andre Tardieu, who was French high commissioner in the United States in the closing years of the World War. Tardieu tonight accepted President Doumergue's invitation to try to accomplish what two representatives of the Radical-Socialists failed to do.

The presidential invitation to Tardieu marks a drift in the parliamentary situation from the left, as represented by the Radical-Socialists under Edouard Daladier and Etienne Clementel, toward the right. The successive failures of two Radical-Socialists to get a cabinet that could command a sufficient majority of the Chamber of Deputies, has left the French political situation in a state of chaos that has seldom been equaled in the history of the third French Republic.

Internal political maneuvering alone is held responsible for this development. Daladier tried for four days to get a cabinet from the Radical-Socialists and neighboring left groups. When he failed, he blamed Aristide Briand, the resigned premier, for his ill luck, and the resulting controversy between the two men raged for days.

Clementel's attempts to get a group of ministers that would command support from the moderate center elements of the chamber also came

Pilsudski Invades Diet With 80 Army Officers

Warsaw, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, former dictator of Poland, today climaxed his long-standing feud with the Polish Diet by invading the parliamentary building with 80 army officers and stopping the opening session of the national legislature.

The upshot of this strange maneuver was postponement of Parliament until after the marshal and Ignace Daszinski, speaker of the Diet, have had opportunity to confer with President Moscicki.

Members of the Diet were nonplussed by the happenings of the day, but could only speculate as to what might happen next. Newspapers of the capital issued extra editions de-

Bank Directors to Repay $800,000 Employes Stole

Amount Small Compared To Institution's Resources, Say Officials.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Charles S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors Corporation and chairman of the board of directors of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, and Grant J. Brown, president of the bank, announced this afternoon that approximately $800,000 of the bank's money had been misappropriated by several employes.

They said the amount of money misused was "small" in comparison with the resources of the bank and its affiliations and that Mott and the board of directors had guaranteed the amount taken. The Union Industrial Bank is part of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., with capital of $75,000,000 and total resources of over $500,000,000.

a surprise inasmuch as T. Morris Wampler, one of Doyle's attorneys, had on Wednesday night branded rumors of such negotiations as a "lie." Wampler declared that the rumors arose from the activities of two or three persons "who were always sticking their nose in other people's business," who had approached Doyle and suggested that he retract the statements which have been described as insubordinate.

Earlier yesterday the District Commissioners rejected the plea of H. Ralph Burton and Tench T. Marye, attorneys, that an extraordinary civilian trial board be appointed to try Allen.

A short time later Maj. Pratt told Chapman W. Fowler and Wampler, attorneys for Doyle, that they had incorrectly addressed to him letters demanding appointment of a special trial board composed of business and professional men of Washington, and challenging the reorganized trial board and all alternates. Pratt wrote:

Text of Pratt's Reply.

"Replying to your letters of the 30th instant your attention is invited to Section 15 (of the police manual) reading:

"'If a continuance of a hearing is desired, the accused shall make application therefor to the chairman of the trial board, prior to the time set for hearing.'

"And Section 21:

"'A challenge to any member of the trial board shall be made to the chairman thereof at least 48 hours before the date set for the hearing.'"

Pratt Withholds Request.

Pratt did not forward the letters to the Commissioners, although he informed them of his reply to the Doyle attorneys. Consequently the Commissioners have no request before them for appointment of a special board to try the suspended captain, and they seemed to be content with the technical situation in view of the threat of Fowler and Wampler to employ technicalities to force the appointment of a civilian trial board by challenging every police officer or private who might be named on a board to try Doyle.

Bride characterized as unsound the contention of Wampler and Fowler that they could challenge alternates indefinitely until they had disposed of the entire Police Department and finally got a board satisfactory to themselves.

"No court in the land would uphold such a contention," Bride said. "Why, under the sweeping challenge made by Capt. Doyle's attorneys, not even President Hoover or Chief Justice Taft could sit on the trial board and a man could challenge and challenge until he had a board composed of his grandmothers, mother and wife to try the charges against him."

Text of Reply on Allen.

The reply of the District Commissioners to Allen's attorneys, refusing to name an extraordinary trial board of civilians, follows:

"The Commissioners of the District of Columbia have given careful consideration to your letters of October 28, 1929, as attorneys for and on behalf of Private R. J. Allen and in connection with the pending charges against him as a member of the Metropolitan Police Department.

"In your letter of October 28 you state that you object to the Police Trial Board as at present constituted and request that Private Allen be tried by a board composed entirely of persons not connected with the Police Department on the ground that you think it impossible for any of the present members of the present Police Department to give Private Allen an impartial trial. You appeared before the Commissioners on October 29, 1929, and submitted an oral argument in support of your written request.

"The Commissioners have also given careful consideration to the oral argument presented by you.

Regulations Are Cited.

"Under the law and under the rules and regulations of the Metropolitan Police Department of the District of Columbia the Commissioners are authorized to set up trial boards for the consideration of charges against members of the Police Department arising out of alleged misconduct. At the trial before such boards the accused is entitled to be represented by counsel and to bring witnesses. The testimony at such trials is stenographically reported.

"The findings of the trial board are forwarded to the Commissioners together with the testimony, and the accused has a right to appeal to the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia. The Commissioners can hear such appeal either orally or on written brief submitted by the accused or his attorney.

"The Commissioners can affirm or modify the finding of the trial board and the penalty imposed, or remand the case to the trial board which tried it, or to a new trial board for a new hearing, as they may deem proper.

"Nothing which has been submitted by you either in writing or orally to the Commissioners has convinced them that Private Allen can not obtain an impartial trial before the police trial board as regularly constituted.

"The Commissioners believe that the procedure provided for by the manual insures that justice will be done to the accused.

"They therefore deny your request that Private Allen be tried by a board composed entirely of persons not connected with the Police Department."

(Signed), PROCTOR L. DOUGHERTY, Commissioner, D. C.

Suspensions by Pratt Hit in Mechanics' Vote

Action of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, in suspending Capt. Robert E. Doyle and Patrolman Robert J. Allen, of the Eighth Precinct, from the police force pending action of the Police Trial Board last night was opposed in a resolution adopted by the Star-Spangled Banner Council of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

The resolution stated "the splendid record of Capt. Doyle and Private Allen is deserving of commendation" and petitioned that a copy of it be forwarded to the District Commissioners and the Senate District committee.

Car and Truck Collide; Two Persons Injured

Two persons received minor injuries at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Twenty-ninth and N streets northwest when an automobile operated by Emmett O'Malley, 24 years old, of Georgetown University, collided with a truck driven by Lynn Glover, jr., 21 years old, of 415 Cedar street, Takoma Park, Md., the impact causing the first car to strike a parked unoccupied machine owned by William Girard, of 2820 N street northwest.

CITY HEAD DEFENDED BY DEPUTY MARSHAL

CRITICISM IS DEPLORED

The District Commissioners, Police Department and judiciary were defended last night in an address made before a meeting in the Congress Street Methodist Church, Thirty-first, near M street northwest, by Deputy United States Marshal James S. McCarthy. Other speakers at the meeting included Police Inspector W. H. Harrison, president of the Harrison Bible class of the church, and the Rev. H. A. Kester, pastor of the church.

McCarthy directed his remarks at those who have attacked the District government from the pulpit and from their positions as men of prominence in the Capital. He declared: "The Commissioners and Police Department are honorable and the District Attorney's office is batting 100 per cent." He defended the jury system.

"I am employed at the courthouse and can testify to the fact that our seven judges are on the job more than any set of men I know of. They reach their chambers before 9 o'clock in the morning, attend to preliminary matters there before going on the bench at 10, where they sit until 11:30. After an hour's lunch period they return to the bench and sit very often until 4 o'clock, and even later, and return to their chambers, where preliminary matters are heard, records read, cases studied, and the law examined far past the quitting time of less hard-working men. Then, too, it must be remembered that judges hearing cases on the bench must shape their work to accommodate attorneys who simply have to give time to routine matters in the offices.

Enemies Elude Police Vigil and Fight Duel

San Juan, P. R., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Although watched by the police for three weeks, Alfonso Lastra Charritz, a member of the Porto Rican Legislature, and Jesus Benitez Castano, a former government official, yesterday fought a sword duel, in which both received slight wounds. The police acknowledged today they had been outwitted.

Benitez, togther with Felix Cordova Davila, resident commissioner, was expelled two months ago from the Allianza party. He took offense later at a published statement credited to Lastra which questioned his political integrity.

Confederate Soldier, 87, Takes Fourth Wife, 17

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Miss Emma Johnson, 17, and Capt. J. R. Spurlin, 87, commander of the local camp, United Confederate Veterans, were married at Geneva, Ala., today. Capt. Spurlin is the father of fourteen children, all living, by his first marriage. This is his fourth matrimonial venture.

At the recent reunion of veterans in Dothan, the captain was one of the spryest present. He is the only surviving member of Company A, Thirty-third Alabama Infantry.

Woman, 70, Is Indicted For Killing of Mate, 78

Elizabeth[illegible], Oct. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A Union County grand jury today voted an indictment charging Mrs. Laura Mathilda Titus, 70, with the first-degree murder of her 78-year-old husband, James, to whom she had been married eight years.

Mrs. Titus, who had been in jail since October 16, had previously made a confession, officials declared, in which she said that she had quarreled with her husband over his drinking. As he lay inert on the floor, face downward, she said, she debated as to whether to dispatch him or not. Finally, authorities declared, she decided she would, procured an ax and committed murder.

Lawyers Ask $30,000 Fees Cut to $10,000

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Allen B. Endicott, jr., of Atlantic City, and Lewis Starr, of Camden, today protested as excessive $30,000 counsel fees allowed them.

The protest was filed with County Judge J. A. Corio after he had entered an order allowing $60,000 fees to the attorneys in the Carroll Doughty will case. Endicott and Star, who were to have received half of this, said $5,000 each was what they or plaintiff counsel were entitled to. They were counsel for Miss Phoebe E. Doughty, who, as a result of the trial, must share the $500,000 estate equally with a brother and a sister.

Zionist Organization Will Elect Officers

Election of officers of the District Zionist organization will take place at a meeting at the Jewish Community Center next Tuesday night. A successor to Charles J. Stein, who has held the post of president for two terms, will be chosen.

Preparations will be made at this meeting for the participation of the District in the national Zionist roll call. Louis E. Speigler, chairman of the last united Palestine appeal, will direct the roll call here. An attempt will be made to have every Jewish resident in the Capital register his faith in the upbuilding of the Jewish homeland during a ten-day period beginning November 19.

HAMILTON, ON TRIAL FOR MURDER, WEEPS

PAIR DESCRIBES SLAYING

Weatherford, Tex., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Dry eyed as two defense witnesses testified today of the scuffle in which he killed his unwelcome son-in-law, Judge R. H. Hamilton wept when his former teacher, Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, stated on the stand that the defendant's reputation was good while he was a student and later a professor at the university.

The austere attorney is charged with having shot to death Tom Walton, jr., who secretly married his daughter, Theresa, while the couple was attending the University of Texas together. Tom and Theresa were married last winter and the shooting occurred in the spring when the son-in-law went to Hamilton's office in Amarillo to break the news, knowing that the father-in-law had been opposed to the courtship. He decided to bare the truth, however, upon the advice of his mother, Mrs. Grace Walton. Hamilton formerly was a judge on the Texas Supreme Court bench.

Hamilton's stenographer, Miss Florence Hendricks, daughter of the defendant's partner, Harry Hendricks, and J. W. Burks, Amarillo real estate dealer, were the persons who described the scuffle and shooting.

Saw Hamilton With Gun.

Miss Hendricks declared she was at her desk when Walton entered. A few seconds later, she declared, Hamilton stepped into the reception room from his adjoining office with the gun in his hand. There was a scuffle, several shots, she said, and Walton fell to the floor. Miss Hendricks, somewhat confused on the stand, said she did not remember everything that happened because she was nervous and excited.

Burks, however, had a clearer memory. He described the position in which the men were standing when each of the five shots was fired. He clapped his hands to indicate the rapidity with which they were fired. It took him 12 seconds. Burks said Hamilton had his back to a bookcase when a bullet plunged into it, breaking the glass.

At no time, Burks declared, did he see the revolver with which Walton was killed. The State was balked in every effort to get him to say Hamilton had the gun.

Claimed Self-Defense at Time.

Burks insisted that after Walton fell to the floor no more shots were fired. Hamilton, he declared, walked back into his office with a pistol in his hand, put it into a desk drawer, and said:

"Mr. Burks, I hated to have to do that, but I had to to save my own life."

Burks denied he heard anyone say after the first shot was fired:

"Oh, oh, don't do that," as Mrs. Lorain Hill, elevator operator and State witness, had testified.

Tears rolled down Hamilton's face while Dr. Brooks was on the stand. As Dr. Brooks declared Hamilton's reputation while he was a student at Baylor and later while a professor, was good, Hamilton covered his eyes with his hands.

JAILED REPORTERS FREED UNDER BOND

HEARING SLATED NOV. 4

Gorman Hendrick, Linton Burkett and John E. Nevin, jr., newspaper reporters who were sentenced to jail Wednesday for contempt of court, were released yesterday afternoon on $500 bonds pending a hearing on writs of habeas corpus.

The writs were signed by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in District Supreme Court a little more than 24 hours after Justice Peyton Gordon had imposed sentences of 45 days in jail.

The three men, who are employed by the Washington Times, were convicted of contempt on their refusal to appear before the grand jury and testify as to names of persons and addresses from whom and at which they had purchased whisky in attempting to support a series of articles dealing with the liquor situation in the Capital, which the paper has been running.

Attorneys Lambert, Yeatman and Horning, who represented the reporters at their hearings, obtained the writs, which demanded that the trio be brought immediately into court. Little time elapsed before the three men faced Justice Siddons. The attorneys asked for a continuance, and Justice Siddons set a hearing for November 4. Pending the hearing he fixed bnod for each of the men at $500.

B. E. Germann, representing the George H. Price Co., Inc., went surety for the trio.

25-Cent Embezzlement Draws Sentence of Year

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Walter B. Pierce, a notary public, has been sentenced to serve one year on the State Penal Farm for the embezzlement of 25 cents. The sentence was imposed when he pleaded guilty in the court of Judge John P. Jeffries.

Pierce is alleged to have failed to forward to the secretar, of State a fee of 25 cents collected from Wilbur Murdock for an automobile driver's license.

Three Welfare Groups To Enter Council Here

Three new agencies, the Jewish Welfare Federation; Hebrew Home for the Aged, and the United Hebrew Relief Society, were recommended for election to the Council of Social Agencies at the monthly meeting of the council yesterday.

The council now has 60 member agencies. Representatives from these various organizations have representation on committees active in the Social Service field of work in the community.

TARIFF SOCIETY'S OUTLAY DESCRIBED

FLYING LOBBY ALLEGED

(Associated Press.)

Expenditure of $40,000 to $80,000 annually by the Southern Tariff Association was revealed to the Senate committee investigating lobbies yesterday by its president, John Henry Kirby, of Houston, Tex.

After saying he had about $30,000,000 invested in lumber, Kirby denied that he or the association had advocated a lower tariff on lumber. He said association funds were used to promote the interests of farmers and stock raisers in eighteen Southern States.

Kirby was not questioned about activities of the association in Washington, but its vice president and general manager, J. A. Arnold, testified its members agreed upon what rates they needed in the pending tariff legislation and representatives appeared before the House and Senate committees in charge of the bill.

Aviation Lobby Charged.

Meanwhile a new field for possible investigation by the committee was opened through a letter to Chairman Caraway from Thomas L. Hill, president of the American Society for Promotion of Aviation. It charged that a "pernicious and superlobby representing the air trust" existed in Washington and that Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, was its "mouthpiece."

Hill's letter said he was convinced an "honest preliminary investigation" by the committee would "open up leads that not only will involve Senator Bingham and cohorts in the House of Representatives, but will reach the White House itself."

Caraway said he had instructed John Holland, special investigator for the committee, to go over "documentary evidence" filed by Hill, after which the committee would decide whether it should investigate. Senator Bingham declined to comment on Hill's charges.

Tells of Contributions.

Kirby told the committee he had contributed about $2,000 a year to the tariff association since its inception 10 years ago and had contributed to the American Taxpayers League. He also is president of the National Council of State Legislators, but had given only $10 to that so far as he could recall. The three organizations have joint offices in Washington.

The committee questioned Arnold about the three organizations and he testified he was manager of the American Taxpayers League and occasionally did some clerical work for the National Council of State Legislators.

Asked about his salary, Arnold said he was "presumed" to draw $1,000 a month from the tariff association and taxpayers league, but that he did not always get it because "we didn't always have it."

Arnold said the revenue of the taxpayers association, which is organized in every State, was $150,000 to $250,000 a year.

TRUCE KEEPS BACK NORRIS RESOLUTION

NEW ENGLANDER'S MOVE

(Associated Press.)

A truce was in effect overnight as mutual friends of Senators Bingham, of Connecticut, and Norris, of Nebraska, sought to bring about an understanding between the two which would prevent presentation of the Norris resolution proposing censure of Bingham.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, voluntarily intervened yesterday when the Nebraska senator came into the Senate chamber with his resolution asking condemnation of Bingham for his relations with the Connecticut Manufacturers Association on the tariff legislation.

Neither of the principals would discuss the proposal last night pending further conferences with friends. But the Nebraskan by withholding his resolution showed his intent to give the Connecticut senator an opportunity to make a statement of explanation to the Senate. Norris indicated he would prefer not to present the resolution if Senator Bingham would explain.

Despite the day of conferences, there was no indication that Bingham would recede from his position. He would say only that out of respect for his friends in the Senate he had the matter under consideration.

Senator Norris drafted the resolution as chairman of the judiciary committee. He named the lobby committee which investigated Bingham and which committee, the Connecticut senator contended in the Senate, was "framed against any friend of the administration."

It was understood that Norris felt Bingham should explain to the Senate both his views over the use of a salaried employe of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association to help him in framing the tariff bill, and also clarify his statement to the Senate that Norris had "framed" the lobby committee against him.

NYE SEEKS INQUIRY IN STOCK GAMBLING

EARLY ACTION UNLIKELY

(Associated Press.)

Senate investigation of speculative operations on the stock exchanges was proposed yesterday by Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, but with the tariff measure holding sway there seemed some doubt last night of early action on his resolution.

Senator Nye announced he would seek consideration of the resolution at today's session. He proposed that a committee of five be appointed by Vice President Curtis, to include the chairmen and ranking Democrats of the committees on banking and judiciary.

The resolution would direct the committee "to investigate the facts as to the practices concerning or relating to speculative operations conducted with stock exchanges and to report their findings, together with such recommendations as they deem necessary, to the Senate not later than February 1, 1930."

Nye is not a member of the banking committee, which already has before it a resolution by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, proposing an investigation into the credit situation and the stock markets.

There has been little prospect for a meeting of the committee during the tariff struggle.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, a former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, and a member also of the banking committee, said last night:

"I don't think now is the time to investigate the stock exchange. Besides, what would you find that everyone doesn't know already?"

Glass has pending an amendment to the tariff bill proposing a 5 per cent tax on speculative stock market transactions.

The chairman of the banking and judiciary committees are Senators Norbeck, South Dakota, and Norris, Nebraska, respectively. The ranking Democrats are Senators Fletcher, Florida, and Overman, North Carolina, respectively.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

RAHN'S troubles now have to do with the fact that he is really responsible for Schall being in the Senate. Rahn was terribly anxious to "redeem" his State back in 1924. It had elected Henrik Shipstead to the Senate in 1922, defeating Senator Frank B. Kellogg, one of the golfing companions of the President, and later to become Ambassador to Great Britain, Secretary of State, and author of the Kellogg pact. It had elected Magnus Johnson, radical of the radicals, for a short term succeeding the sage and conservative Knute Nelson.

How to elect a regular, especially when La Follette was running independent for President and threatening to carry the State, was the question.

THOMAS D. SCHALL, blind senator from Minnesota, is going to make his vote against President Hoover on the flexible provision of the tariff one of his chief issues in his fight for reelection, it is learned, and Senator William E. Borah is threatening to go into Minnesota on a whirlwind speaking tour if the "regulars" dare to oppose Schall on this ground.

All of which is highly embarrassing to that outstanding statesman, Shrine Potentate, and lumberman, A. A. D. Rahn, of the Twin Cities. It will bring out the "I told you so" brigade up in the Northwest in full cry against "Andy," as Rahn is called by his friends and political lieutenants.

For Rahn is a regular of the regulars, except that his foot did slip a little back in 1912 when he supported Theodore Roosevelt while all his friends were supporting Taft—that is such friends as Rahn could not influence. But the State went for Roosevelt, and much is forgiven in victory. A rebellion becomes a revolution.

Johnson was apparently strong. The regulars intended making a fight, but they had little hope. Then Rahn entered the situation with the suggestion that the regulars get behind Schall.

The regulars were aghast.

"Why, Schall is not a Republican," man after man of them said to Rahn. "Why should we support him? That man voted for Champ Clark to be Speaker of the House after the 1916 election, when the Republicans had really elected a majority of the House?" And then he got his pay for it by being put on the powerful House rules committee, although a mugwump, and by being sent to France with his wife by Secretary of War Baker right in the middle of the war."

* * * *

RAHN had a hard time meeting these objections. He rang all the changes on the effect on the rest of the country that would be produced by the reelection of Magnus Johnson, as indicating that Minnesota was solidly radical. He pleaded the need of a regular Republican in the Senate to uphold President Coolidge's hands. There was no doubt then that Coolidge would be elected, although there was much doubt as to how Minnesota would go.

So, accepting Rahn's word that Schall was all right, the regulars turned in and supported Schall, and Magnus Johnson was defeated. Minnesota had a regular senator.

But all along Schall has shown desires to insurge, and this desire was rather quickened the other day when the Seventh District in Minnesota elected a Farmer-Labor candidate by three-to-one vote over the regular Republican nominee.

"How about your regular now?" his friends are asking Rahn. "Did you carry him a spiritualistic message from Roosevelt to vote against President Hoover on the flexible tariff? Or is it Coolidge this time?"

SURVIVORS RELATE HOW SENATOR SANK

Unable to Launch Lifeboats as Marquette Looms Suddenly in Fog.

CAPTAIN THOUGHT LOST

Port Washington, Wis., Oct. 31 (A. P.).—The story of a crew unable to help itself, unable to launch lifeboats, unable to see through the fog was told by fifteen survivors of the ill-fated freighter, the Senator, who were brought here tonight by the rescue tug Delos H. Smith.

Clinging to wreckage and hoarsely shouting for help, the men were rescued 45 minutes after the Senator went down with a gaping hole in her side where the bow of the ore carrier Marquette struck her.

They were suffering from the cold and the buffeting by waves, which more than once threatened to pull them under.

Tug Crew Effects Rescue.

Slowly the tug cruised about the wreckage. As lines were cast out, the maddened men all reached for them at once, shoving their mates away. Finally all were on board, exhausted and, on the way in, the body of Peter Smith, wheelsman from Fredonia, N. Y., was recovered.

The survivors said the Senator was moving slowly when the Marquette loomed up less than 1,000 feet away. There was a clanging of bells, a shouting of "reverse engines." Both boats started to turn and both turned the wrong way.

With her whistle shrieking, the long, heavily loaded Marquette poked her nose into the side of the Senator. Five minutes later the Senator had turned over slowly and sank.

Woman Cook Perishes.

The story of how Mrs. Matthew Gormly, the cook, perished came from William Harris, of Lenore, N. C., a coal passer.

"I met her on the deck," he related. "She was hollering. I pulled her up on the side and she and I jumped off. I got on one end of the raft and she caught on the other one. The waves turned that raft over twice. They nearly strangled us. A couple of times I thought 'what's the use? I'm going to turn loose and give it up.' But I hung on. Pretty soon Mrs. Gormley called out 'Help me, help me, help me.' Then she went under."

Herbert Petting, of Fredonia, N. Y., a wheelsman, said he believed he was the last man to see the captain.

LAKE SHIPS CRASH; 1 DIES, 6 MISSING

TUG CREW SAVES MANY

occurred so quickly and without warning that it was difficult to say just how it happened. Capt. W. F. Amsbary, skipper of the Marquette, declined to talk much and Capt. George Finch, commander of the Senator, is believed to have gone down with his ship.

M. D. McCloud, Nova Scotia seaman, who was on watch on the Marquette when the crash occurred, said the fog was so thick he did not even see the Senator until it poked its nose before the prow of his boat, less than 100 yards ahead. There was no time to act, he said, and an instant later the Senator was rammed port side and was lost.

Two Saved by Leap.

Two of the Senator's crew, Leonard Boss and William Filbeck, leaped down on the Marquette and saved themselves. The third brought in by the freighter was Ralph Ellis, of South Bend, radio operator of the Senator, who was taken from the water. He had succeeded in fastening a lifebelt around himself.

R. H. Edgerton, of Seattle, first mate of the Marquette, said he was off duty and asleep when the crash woke him up. He said almost before he could get out on deck the Senator rolled over and down.

The Senator was headed for Detroit and points East with its cargo of automobiles. She left Milwaukee this morning. The Marquette set out from Escanaba last night with a load of ore for the steel mills at Indiana Harbor. It was due there tonight. The time of the collision was fixed at 10:40 a. m., but the disabled Marquette did not make port here until dark.

Coast Guard Searches Waters.

The 15 picked up from life rafts were taken ashore at Port Washington, 25 miles north of here. Coast Guard crews searched the vicinity of the crash for other survivors but, so far as could be learned, no others were found. Mrs. Matthew Gormley, wife of the Senator's steward, was believed to have been among those lost. One of the survivors said he saw her slip from the raft and sink. She had been among the last to leave the boat.

Capt. Amsbary, reluctant to talk at all, refused to say anything after he had talked to representatives of his company, the Cleveland Cliff Iron Co., of Cleveland, who met him at the docks. He admitted the Senator had not been sighted until just before the crash. The Senator was owned by the Nicholson Universal Steamship Co., of Detroit. Both were steel ships and were about the same size, weighing more than 4,000 gross tons.

The collision of the two freighters followed closely the sinking of the passenger-freighter Wisconsin off Kenosha Tuesday morning with a loss of more than a dozen lives, and the sinking of the car ferry Milwaukee near the same spot last week, at a loss of more than 50 lives. Seamen said the fog today was one of the worst they had ever seen at this time of the year.

Goode was killed in Giles County, where he was employed as a lineman on the Norfolk & Western Railroad. He was in a tree cutting limbs for electric wires when one of the rebounding branches hurled him 10 feet clear of the tree. He died before arriving at a hospital.

BANK OF ENGLAND DISCOUNT RATE CUT

Lowering of Figure Hailed in Stock Market; Shares Show Improvement.

EUROPEAN MARTS CALM

London, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Cheerfulness reigned over London's money and stock markets today in sharp contrast with the anxiety of the last few days, when the stock exchange became unsteady in reaction to the fluctuations of prices in Wall street.

The directors of the Bank of England, to every one's surprise, reduced the discount rate from 6½ to 6 per cent. This was attributed directly to the collapse of the Wall street boom, though no official explanation was given.

Reduction Is Unexpected.

The reduction was received with joy in commercial and financial circles, which considered it an indication of the gradual return to normal conditions after five weeks of an emergency high bank rate of 6½ per cent. The lowered rate is still a half per cent higher than the rate which prevailed for a long time before the increase a month ago. No change in the rate had been expected before the new year.

The Bank of England has not yet by any means replenished its heavy losses in gold during recent months, but the return flow to London has begun. The action of the bank is interpreted as showing confidence in the future.

Stocks showed a marked improvement. Although there was a large attendance in Throgmorton street and Shorters court after the exchange had officially closed, the high excitement of recent evenings was absent. A large business was done in American values. As soon as the indicator marked the new 6 per cent rate, dealers began marking up gilt-edge stocks. A sigh of relief went up from borrowers, who have been hard hit since the higher rate went into effect.

Dutch Rate Also Cut.

Amsterdam, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The Bank of the Netherlands announced tonight that its discount rate will be lowered, beginning tomorrow, from 5½ to 5 per cent.

In consequence of the closing of the New York Stock Exchange Friday and Saturday a number of members of the Amsterdam exchange have asked the committee to close the Amsterdam exchange on Saturday. The committee will announce its decision tomorrow.

Paris, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The bourse today showed almost immediate reaction to Wall street's improved condition and securities which weakened yesterday gained back most, if not all, of their losses in the early hours of trading, particularly international shares.

Banks, railroads, chemicals and electricity shared the improvement. The closing was calm but sustained.

In the opinion of leading bankers here there had been unjustified speculation in the American market for a considerable time in shares that long ago had gone far above their actual value and the leveling process was inevitable.

Dublin, Oct 31 (A.P.).—The Irish bank rate was today reduced from 7 per cent to 6½ per cent.

"GREEN HAT" CASSIDY HELD ON RUM COUNT

M. Little and Policeman Leo Murray and H. O. Tutt, of the police "flying squadron," and accused of transporting and possessing liquor.

The policemen had trailed Cassidy from his residence on Seventeenth street southeast to the Senate Building. When captured, Sergt. Little said that Cassidy refused to reveal the identity of the person he visited in the building, but declared:

"You got me right this time."

After the arrest the policemen visited Cassidy's home, where a seizure of 266 quarts of choice liquors was made, they said, in addition to Cassidy's automobile.

Sergt. Little declared he and his squad were "planted" in front of Cassidy's home during the early afternoon, and while so engaged sighted a suspected bootleg automobile. After a futile chase, Little said, they returned to the Cassidy residence and discovered his automobile gone.

Acting on a "hunch," Little said he and his men hurried to Capitol Hill and spied Cassidy's car parked on Delaware avenue northeast near B street. They secreted themselves, Little said, and a few minutes later the excitement began.

Cassidy emerged from the Senate Office Building, unlocked his car and, as he started again in the direction of the office building with a newspaper-wrapped package, Sergt Little and his men placed him under arrest. They reported the package contained a pint of whisky and two and a half quarts additional were found in the car.

A visit to Cassidy's home, police reported, revealed 266 quarts of assorted liquor. Little reported that one 15-gallon charred keg was found full and another keg held 10 gallons. Bottles bearing labels of such whiskies as "Old Carstairs," "Club Banquet," "Robertson's Perfect Scotch," "Old Homestead" and "McGinnis Whisky," in addition to one bottle of gin, were found, it was declared.

About four years ago, a man carrying a brief case was stopped by a policeman as he entered the Capitol building. The man dropped the case and escaped from the suspicious policeman. The brief case contained several bottles of liquor and after an intensive search for 'the Man in the Green Hat," Cassidy was captured and identified as the fugitive.

Since gaining national prominence in the Capitol case, Cassidy has been arrested several times recently on liquor charges.

At the Sixth Precinct last evening, Cassidy was charged with transporting and possessing the liquor found in his car and possession of the liquor found in his home.

RATE CUT ALLOWED BY RESERVE BOARD

ENGLISH CREDIT EASES

(Associated Press.)

Directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank were permitted yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank Board to lower the rediscount rate at that institution from 6 to 5 per cent.

The step restored the level of interest rates which were in effect under reserve system auspices in New York last August, and which were stepped up then to a higher level largely, in the opinion of credit and finance observers, because of the growing credit demands entailed by security speculation.

As the New York rate came down, the reserve board announced as well an unprecedented shrinkage of loans to brokers and dealers in securities in New York, which amounted to $1,096,000,000 for the week.

Earlier in the day, also, the Bank of England reduced a rediscount rate that was raised in the late summer. There was the customary absence of official comment by the board on rediscount action, and there was no indication of any communication between American credit authority and central bank managements in England or elsewhere.

The dropping of the New York rate had been anticipated in nearly all banking circles as soon as the prospect of subsidence in stock market activity was given this week.

Those familiar with board procedure in Washington considered that the rediscount rate drops in both New York and London on the same day did not mean any concerted action of Central Bank authority, but could be regarded as a coincidence in a world-wide financial situation of easing strains on credit.

Most of the regional banks of the reserve system outside of New York have been on a 5 per cent rate, and the maintenance of the New York rated at a higher level was held to be a necessity deplored in nearly all financial quarters.

Demand for lowering of the England Bank rate at the first opportunity is understood to have been general in that country, and the separate actions were believed here to register merely the recognition of general credit conditions which had altered for both institutions.

Recent reactions in the stock markets will not reduce the volume of Christmas trade this year, in the view of the Treasury, which expects the holiday buying for 1929 to equal that of the last two years.

Pointing to the condition of business, the Treasury said there need to be no fear that Christmas buying would be affected in volume because of losses in stocks.

At present it was said the tendency in the money markets was for easier money which would make is possible for merchants to secure necessary capital with which to purchase attractive stocks at cheaper rates than for the last few months. This, together with general conditions, was said to point to a large and satisfactory trade from now until the holiday buying is over.

California Plant Sold to U. S. Steel

$46,630,000 in Stock Is Paid for Columbia Corporation.

New York, Oct 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The largest expansion move in several years by the United States Steel Corporation was made today when the corporation announced it had arranged to acquire the Columbia Steel Corporation of San Francisco, for approximately $46,630,000 in common stock.

Acquisition of Columbia Steel, one of the largest producers on the Pacific Coast, gives the steel corporation plants and properties in virtually every important steel producing center in the country.

The corporation will use about 233,440 shares of its common stock in payment for the assets of the Columbia organization. Based on the purchase price as announced, it means that the steel corporation's stock was valued at about $199.75 a share. It closed on the New York Stock Exchange today at $193.25 a share.

New Step Planned To Rush RumCases

Hart to Group Old and New Charges in Effort to End Congestion.

Determined to clear up, if possible, the congestion that has developed in the trial of liquor cases before juries in Police Court, Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart has inaugurated a new plan which he hopes will result in more and faster convictions on prohibition charges.

Hart announced that in future he would seek to group old cases with new ones and, where it was believed defendants were employed by another defendant, to put all charges in one information. He declared that the new plan was tantamount to a conspiracy indictment through a criminal information.

The prosecutor said that he expected his new policy to be especially effective in breaking up the operations of speakeasies, delicatessen stores, restaurants and other places where whisky is sold.

NAVY PACT PIVOTING ON MEDITERRANEAN

Preliminary Accord Sought With British Joining in Discussions.

MAY NEED LONGER TIME

Paris, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The Mediterranean Sea, cradle of ancient civilizations and of ancient sea power, promises to be one of the main factors in determining the success or failure of the five-power naval conference in London next January.

The impression took form tonight in responsible international circles here that an understanding between Italy and France, with Great Britain participating as the third power which possesses vital interests in the Mediterranean, would go a long way toward assuring satisfactory results at London.

It was said that such a three-way understanding would be almost equal in effect at London to the Anglo-American accord negotiated by Ramsay MacDonald and Herbert Hoover.

Might Solve Tonnage Impasse.

The Associated Press learned from reliable quarters that if Italy and France can settle their political questions in the Mediterranean there would be reasonable prospects that this country would abandon her hitherto firm decision not to discuss tonnage questions at London. It was said that in such an event France might agree on figures that would be conditional, as to their coming into force, upon later settlement of land and air forces, and especially of world-wide naval arrangements which would take into consideration such countries as Spain, Greece and Sweden.

It was pointed out here that the Hoover-MacDonald accord, while not preceded by any political consideration, was nevertheless hastened by discussion of general political subjects and by the visit of MacDonald to the United States. Moreover, the conviction is growing that the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war by its implication that the United States will refrain from extending direct or indirect support to any nation violating that pact, removes the greatest obstacle to a solution of the Anglo-American problem generally known as "the liberty of the seas."

Accord Held Essential.

It is therefore being asked whether the naval conversations, which are about to open between Italy and France, would not stand a better chance of success if they also had a political character.

So important do well-informed persons here regard the necessity of a Mediterranean political agreement, that there is apprehension lest complete success of the five-power conference may be jeopardized by insufficient time to conclude such an understanding. An Italian-French accord on unsettled problems is deemed essential, in these circles, to any agreement concerning naval percentages or any special accord on total naval tonnages.

The writer was given to understand today that the projected conversations between Italy and France will not be restricted to an exchange of diplomatic notes. They are more likely to become personal conferences in Paris between representatives of the two countries aided by technical experts and appropriate documents. Indications exist that sincere efforts will be made by France to solve the political problems as the surest means of reaching an agreement upon naval questions.

France Feels Misunderstood.

With Spain manifesting intentions to increase her naval strength, with Great Britain strong at Gibraltar and in the Mediterranean, and with the Italian fleet naturally concentrated in that sea, many French experts are convinced that the world generally fails to understand France's potential necessity of maintaining a strong relative position on her southern coast. They point out that she must be sure of constant communication with her north African possessions as she must depend upon getting troops from there in great emergencies.

They therefore believe that if foreign nations studied this problem more closely there would be better realization of how much a solution of the Mediterranean questions would contribute to the success of the London naval conference.

GIRL IN SHIP KILLING IS NIECE OF ADMIRAL

Gloria Rouzar's Father Is Revealed as Executive of Wardman Park.

MOTHER GOES TO HER AID

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 31.—A suddenly revealed background of wealth and aristocracy acted like a sounding board tonight to send the plight of New York's madcap debutante brunette, Gloria Rouzar, echoing from her dingy Louisiana cell through the highest circles of American society.

The girl who assumed the name of Ione Ord when she set out upon the adventure which ended when she was seized after the mysterious murder of her traveling companion, Jack Kraft, aboard the liner Creole near New Orleans was revealed as the niece of a rear admiral and daughter of Capt. Leigh H. Rouzar, whose mining millions were wiped away in the Mexican revolution and who now, according to his former wife, is connected with the Wardman Park Hotel in Washington, D. C., in an executive capacity.

Her mother, Mrs. Gloria M. Rouzar, confirmed the relationship tonight in her West Side apartment. There, by wire and telephone, she sought to console the daughter who vanished six weeks ago and marshaled legal aid to rescue the 21-year-old Gloria from consequences of the tragedy.

Fears She May Be Accused.

Both the mother and her New York attorney, Dorothy Frooks, worked all day to take the first steps in the delayed defense. Both were frankly worried that the careful preparation of the murder defense of John McGouldrick, indicted second mate of the Creole, might leave Gloria facing a jury charged with firing the bullet found in Kraft's heart.

To the daughter in her cell in the ancient jail at Pointe a la Hache the mother wired from New York:

"Dear Gloria Child: I know everything about your trouble. Everything will be done to help you. Don't talk or write to any one until you have seen my lawyer. Always remember that I love you and appreciate your foolish courage in trying to protect the family name. Be brave. Letter follows. MOTHER."

Hardly had the mother filed the message from New York than press dispatches described the terror of the once buoyant girl when she learned that her identity had been revealed.

Known in Two Worlds.

"My mother never will see me alive in this jail," she screamed. "I would not have her know about me for anything in the world. I will not tell anybody anything. I can not get a square deal here."

In two widely different circles—that to which the girl had been born and the smartest dress shops of Fifth avenue, where she had been a model since her return from Paris over a year ago—the revelation of "Ione Ord's" true identity spread yesterday.

The wealthy she knew in Paris, where she was schooled, and on the Riviera, where she eloped at 18 with an English movie actor, Michael Powell, were no more surprised than the models and Manhattan night club habitues who knew her as "Gay Powell."

The style rooms of Patou's, in Paris, and several smart New York shops had been the theater in which the once wealthy girl under the name of Gay Powell displayed their modish frocks.

Her entry into this work as well as her mother's into costume designing came two years ago when financial reverses wiped out what remained of their fortune and cut the mother's alimony to a point that made further residence abroad impossible.

Rouzar Disclaims Knowledge.

L. H. Rouzar, who is assistant manager at Wardman Park Hotel, refused to admit last night that he was the father of the girl who has been jailed under the name of Ione Ord.

"I don't know what you are talking about," he repeated in answer to several questions. "I know nothing about the case."

Pressed by the direct inquiry as to whether the girl held in the Kraft case is his daughter, he hesitantly answered, "I don't think so."

conformity to those qualities which constitute the highest in man's nature.

"It has been said we are creating God after our own image," President Hibben continued. "We can conceive of God only after our own image, and we justify that conception on the ground that we are made in the image of God Himself."

"This, in my opinion," said President Hibben, in speaking of the modern attempts at names for God, "is a reduction of the divine equation not to infinity, but to zero. It may be possible to say it is the fourth dimension in which we live and move and have our being; but can we say in sincerity and with significant feeling that 'the fourth dimension is our refuge and strength.'

"Take the divine element, potential in us, that enables us to recognize and entertain ideas of wisdom, justice, mercy, goodness, truth, which are imperfectly realized in us; and yet we are constrained in our thoughts to raise them to their highest power and then ascribe them as a tribute to perfection to the being whom we reverently acknowledge as our God."

COALITION ON TARIFF WINS

whereupon McKellar asked Senator Smoot, who was nervously fidgeting with the bill, trying to get the Senate back to the consideration of it. Smoot replied tartly that he knew nothing about the statement.

Whereupon, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, with considerable feeling, agreed it was a fair question to ask if the statement really was that of the President's because his demand for passage of the bill in two weeks was "preposterous."

Harrison Causes Laughter.

At this juncture and to the merriment of all, Senator Pat Harrison suggested that a committee be appointed to find out if it was really the President's statement.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, explaining that he was willing to accept it as authentic, then took the President to task for not coming to the assistance of the "leaders of his disorganized army." They go up to the White House pleading, he said, that the President exercise his leadership, that he do something about his "mob," and he turns a deaf ear.

"All he says," declared Swanson, "is 'give me this power to fix rates.'"

Glass Enters Discussion.

Senator Glass said the most amazing light existed about the situation in the Senate that he has known in all his career. When the bill came from the House it was "universally denounced by the press of the country," he declared, "even by such a sane paper as the New York Times.

"Yet when a majority of the members of this Senate try to rectify that situation, that same paper denounces us as the coalition."

He asserted that he knew nothing about any coalition. The proper picture of the situation, he declared, is that simply a "majority of the members of the Senate disapprove the bill as it came from the finance committee."

Walsh Deprecates Opposition.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, deprecated "this constant hammering away at those opposed to the bill, these charges of obstruction. It's all a part of the campaign to wear these forces down," he declared.

The keynote of the frolic seemed to be that the progressives would take advantage of the White House statement to go ahead and pass the bill with the view that the conference with the House will take care of itself. This was Senator Norris' plea. And the Old Guard has apparently been brought to the point of view of letting this be done.

The Democratic leaders, while seizing upon the occasion to emphasize the discord in the Republican ranks, are, nevertheless, not so keen about quick passage of the bill, although they gave voice assurances that the Senate should go right ahead and pass it as quickly as possible. It is not believed, however, that the Democratic leaders, successful in holding their lines thus far, could, at this stage, invoke a strategy designed to kill the bill or fall back upon their original plan of letting the Republicans in the final analysis adopt a monstrosity. They have held their lines so far on the understanding that the progressives will pass a bill.

Allen Would "Improve" Senate.

Before the probe was over, Senator Allen, the Senate excoriator, got into it to say that the press of the country will say "the President again spanks the Senate and the country will applaud."

Senators Caraway, of Arkansas, and Harrison, both jumped on him, the former asking:

"Don't you like the Senate?"

"Yes," Allen replied. "I came here thinking I could improve it." It is obvious, though, that Caraway does not think Allen has made for an improvement.

Harrison States Views.

Harrison insisted that it was not fair to place the Senate in an obstructionist light. The President, he said, could have facilitated the passage of the bill months ago by saying how he stood on this and that point. He complained that even now the President will not commit himself.

Developments in the tariff fight had begun to fly thick and fast, however, even before this outbreak. Senator Reed made public correspondence between him and F. E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, one of the Middle West's most conservative publications, and a warm Hoover supporter in the campaign. It sided with Coolidge, too, in his fight against the McNary-Haugen bill.

Reed Writes to Murphy.

Murphy wrote Reed that the attitude of the "so-called regulars" was embarrassing to his newspapers and other stanch Republican journals of the Middle West, and Reed replied:

"My best suggestion is that you send us a few senators who will look at this problem as Americans and not as factionalists, sectionalists and Populists.

This is not an indictment of Senators Shipstead and Schall, but rather of some of their colleagues whose attitude with respect to the present tariff bill is, to my mind, far more dangerous to our economic security than all of the Communists combined."

Surely, the senator was talking about Senators Borah and Norris.

Murphy had written to Reed that "coincident" with the embarrassing situation in which the regulars placed the Middle Western Republican papers "is another of equal humiliation. These same Republican newspapers and workers find themselves inescapably aligned with political forces with whom they otherwise have nothing in common."

Farmers Feel 'Humiliated.'

Regardless of the motives of these forces, Murphy wrote, they are trying to make the Republican party carry out its campaign pledges.

Reed replied that the agriculturists "could not hope to improve their condition by dragging industry down to a level of common misery."

"It is senseless," Reed said, "to expect to build up agriculture by changing tariff duties in a way which threatens to put several million industrial workers on the streets."

Watson Given Ovation.

Early in the session, Senator Watson had gotten to his feet to make a plea that both sides of the chamber get together and pass a bill.

When he sat down he was given an unusual tribute.

"I am sure the Senate will pardon me for speaking just a moment in a personal vein," Senator Hiram Johnson said. "As one of those who has served fairly long, I wish to express to the senator from Indiana my very deep regret that he is compelled by physical necessity to leave the chamber, as we all know he is compelled to do, and to express to him my hope that within a very brief time he will return to us wholly restored in health."

Harrison Lauds Watson.

Harrison made a similiar statement and then senators on both sides of the chamber applauded. Watson's hearty laughter has been silent for several days because of his enfeebled condition and it has been missed.

"When a man's physical energies are somewhat depleted," he told the Senate, "and his nervous system running at a low ebb he probably takes a more meditative and reflective view of situations and a less pugnacious one than under other conditions. Therefore, I am viewing the situation in the Senate at this time in a contemplative way.

"This is the Senate of the United States and it is its function to legislate. I am not prepared to say that the Senate is incapable of functioning as the fathers designed in the Constitution, and as has been its wont and its ability from the foundation of the Government up to this hour.

Agricultural Bloc Cited.

"There are men enough in this body who represent agricultural States and who realize that there must be additional rates imposed upon agricultural imports to pass a tariff bill. There are men here representing industrial States who believe that some of their industries are entitled to higher rates. These two groups could facilitate the passage of the tariff bill. But the trouble is that they do not get together and accomplish the common purpose. The sane and sensible thing is for these men to sit down and find out what are the reasonable rates to be imposed in the pending measure and then pass it.

* * * *

"The President is anxious to have a bill passed; it is a part of his presidential program. This session was called especially for two purposes, farm relief, which is behind us, and tariff revision. Whatever the President may have had in mind the House of Representatives passed a bill and sent it over here and the Senate had nothing to do but to consider that bill.

Bill Twice Acted Upon.

"This body has twice acted upon the proposition to consider the agricultural schedule alone and twice it has decided that industrial schedules must be considered. Therefore the same thing to do is to find out what rates ought to be imposed. This may be a difficult task, but the will-to-do will accomplish the deed.

"I am assuming there are men enough in this body who want to pass a tariff bill and who feel that the industries in their States really need additional protection to do so. The trouble is we have not gone about it in a conciliatory fashion and at the present time there is a disposition on the part of many to adjourn Congress and go away without acting. I am compelled to go away under the advice of doctors for a little while, but if I were here I never should agree to a proposition to adjourn this Congress without passing the tariff bill."

Asked by Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, whether much time would not be consumed in considering new rates, Watson replied that it would if all of the 21,000 items were debated. He wanted, however, a "meeting of best minds" and by a "give-and-take" procedure, he believed the bill could be passed.

Watson Urges Cooperation.

"We could sit down," he said, "men from the Northwest and men from the East, men on both sides of the Chamber, and come to a conclusion about rates.

"We must either do that or acknowledge that the Senate of the United States is an impotent body."

It should not be forgotten, he said, that the men of the East voted for the farm bill.

Fund Increase Endorsed.

The executive committee of the Council of Social Agencies yesterday endorsed the recommendation of the child welfare division of the Board of Public Welfare for an increased appropriation in order to employ two additional workers and extra clerical employes.

Hoover Urges Senators To Expedite Tariff Bill

The President was visited yesterday by a number of senators, all of whom called at their own suggestions, and presented to him the grave situation that has arisen by delay in tariff legislation. They called attention to the fact that the Senate has had the tariff bill since June, with 15 schedules to work out, and has not yet completed Schedule No. 1. It was pointed out that a large amount of important legislation must be undertaken at the regular session which would be prevented by carrying the debate into the next session. some of the senators considered progress hopeless, as it appeared to them that the coalition intended to delay or defeat legislation, or did not intend to give adequate protection to industry. Others felt that some understanding should be attempted among Senate leaders by which the bill could be sent into conference with the House at an early date.

The President said, as he has uniformly stated his position, that campaign promises should be carried out by which adequate protection should be given to agriculture and to the industries where the changes in economic situation demand their assistance. He stated that he could not believe and, therefore, would not admit that the United States Senate was unable to legislate and that the interests of the country required that legislation should be completed during the special session.

The President has declined to interfere or to express any opinion on the details of rates or any compromise thereof, as it is obvious that, if for no other reason, he could not pretend to have the necessary information in respect to many thousands of different commodities which such determination requires, but he pointed out that the wide difference of opinion and the length of the discussions in the Senate were themselves ample demonstration of the desirability of a real flexible clause in order that injustice in rates could be promptly corrected by scientific and impartial investigation and put in action without such delays as the present discussions give proof. He urged the Republican leaders to get together and see if they could not expedite the early completion of the schedules and thus send the bill to conference with the House within the next two weeks.

REED DEMANDS NEW WESTERN SENATORS

Pennsylvanian, Irked, Says "Sectionalists" Seek to Drag Down Industry.

SCHALL DENIES CHARGE

(Associated Press.)

The suggestion that the West send to Washington "a few senators" who will look at the agricultural problem "as Americans and not as factionalists, sectionalists and Populists" was made in a letter made public here last night by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

The letter, addressed to F. E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, contended that "our agriculturists can not hope to improve their condition by dragging industry down to a level of common misery."

An immediate response to the letter came in a statement from Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota, who argued that an effort was being made to lift agriculture to the level of industry.

"The special session was called for this express purpose," Schall said, "not, as Senator Reed evidently thinks, to further aggrandize industry. I do not believe that Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, and I are factionalists, sectionalists or Populists."

Reed had concluded his letter with the assertion that it was "not an indictment of Senators Schall and Shipstead, but rather of some of their colleagues whose attitude with respect to the present tariff bill is, to my mind, far more dangerous to our economic security than all of the Communists combined."

Reed argued, "It is senseless to expect to build up agriculture by changing tariff duties in a way that threatens to put several million industrial workers on the streets."

Young Plan Gives Margin to Britain

Hague Conferences and Dole Bill Explained in Parliament.

London, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Explanations of ministerial actions at The Hague conference on the Young plan, of the government bill for pensions extension and additional "doles" and of attempts to settle the coal problem were given in the House of Commons today.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, said that the Young plan, as adopted at The Hague, would provide Great Britain with sufficient German reparations to cover this country's debt payments to the United States. He added that the advantages of The Hague settlement could be approximated at about $10,000,000 yearly for 37 years.

In the current financial year, Mr. Snowden estimated, the exchequer will receive approximately $165,920,000 on account of reparations and allied war debts, while the amount payable to the United States is $160,690,000.

BUTLER TO ADDRESS LEGIONNAIRES' FETE

Quantico Commandant to Be Honor Guest in Hotel Meeting Tonight.

NEW FIRE TRUCK IS DUE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commandant of the Quantico Marine Post, will address the members of Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, at their monthly gathering tonight in the George Mason Hotel. Many visitors from nearby posts, in addition to the local legionnaires, are expected to hear Gen. Butler, one of the outstanding figures in the military service of the country.

The committee in charge of this meeting has arranged for a musical program which will include selections by a Negro quartet, known as the "King Fish Quartet."

The post will hold a cabaret supper and dance the evening of November 11, in observance of Armistice Day. Owing to restoration work on historic Gadsby's Tavern, which has been purchased by a committee of citizens of Alexandria and will be presented to the post as a memorial to the World War dead of Alexandria, and a post home, the proposed Halloween dance there has been dropped. The post members hope to have this work completed by December 1, after which post meetings will be held there.

This meeting promises to be the banner one of the season so far under the leadership of Commander Howard L. Arnold. The program tonight was arranged by F. Clinton Knight, past commander of the post and past State commander of Virginia.

The 75-foot American La France aerial truck, which is said to be the last word in firefighting apparatus and which was ordered several months ago by the city council, will arrive here this morning and will be taken to the truck house of the Relief Truck and Engine Company, on Prince street between Royal and Fairfax streets. The truck was purchased at a cost of $15,500. It has six-wheel brakes and is equipped with eleven ladders as well as every other modern known appliance. The truck left Spencer, N. C., via the Southern Railway yesterday morning and is expected to reach Alexandria at 8 o'clock this morning.

The apparatus has been on exhibition at the fifty-seventh annual convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs at Birmingham, Ala., which was attended by Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., of this city, and which closed yesterday. On its arrival the truck will replace the present equipment of No. 1 Truck and Engine Company, and this latter equipment will after January 1 be installed in the Town of Potomac.

The aerial ladder can be raised and lowered by one man, releasing other men for duty elsewhere. It can be used as a water tower for fires in high buildings, and for this purpose a section of 3-inch hose with an assortment of tips is provided.

The mother of the baby girl found abandoned on a vacant lot on North Fayette street several days ago has been located and taken into custody by the local police force, and her case will be heard in police court today. Police say she is Ardell Clegg, 19 years old, who lives with her father, 9 miles from Front Royal, Va., and is unmarried. There are said to be twelve children in her family, of whom she is the oldest.

According to Police Capt. Campbell, the woman told him that last Saturday she came to Alexandria, accompanied by her younger sister and bringing her baby, in the hope of having the infant taken care of by some family here. She was unsuccessful in this and finally, in desperation, she says she deposited the infant on the ground, expecting that it soon would be found. The child was discovered shortly after by two Negro women, who reported their discovery to the police, and the child was taken to the Alexandria Hospital by Police Sergts. Sims and Everly.

The mother is understood to be anxious for her child to be adopted by some local family.

Miss Alice H. Whitton, chairman for the annual Red Cross roll call to be conducted from November 11 to 28, inclusive, under the direction of the local Business and Professional Women's Club, has arranged for workers to be stationad in banks and business houses to receive the memberships. The quota for Alexandria is $1,500.

The club will have a speaker from Red Cross headquarters present at its meeting on November 12 to participate in the program.

The local United Daughters of the Confederacy chapter will give an oyster supper this evening from 5:30 to 7:30 at Lee Camp Hall, 804 Prince street, for the benefit of the heating plant fund, Mrs. Charles W. Howell, the president, will be in charge, assisted by a number of the members of the chapter.

All Saints' Day will be observed in the Episcopal and Catholic churches today. Masses in St. Mary's Catholic Church are scheduled at 6, 7 and 9 o'clock. At Christ Episcopal Church Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:30 a. m.; at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, at 10:30 a. m., and in Grace Episcopal Church, at 7:30 a. m.

S. A. Mellott, 315 North St. Asaph street, reported to the police department of Alexandria at 8:20 yesterday morning that his automobile was missing from Franklin and Washington streets, and at 8:30 he stated it was found, having been pushed from where he had parked it. Mellott then drove to Washington, and before 9 o'clock was arrested in that city for having a car reported stolen, and, although he had his license card, Police Capt. W. W. Campbell, of this city, had to vouch for him before he was released.

Halloween was celebrated last night with throngs of costumed merrymakers on the streets, and automobile traffic on King street was practically impossible after dusk. The police patrolled the streets and preserved order, the crowd being in a holiday mood, and not disorderly.

Thousands Celebrate Halloween in Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 31.—Twenty thousand people frolicked in seven blocks of Main street here tonight in the annual Halloween jamboree which was held under auspices of the Muncipal Department of Recreation. Thousands were in Halloween costumes. The jamboree followed a parade to the City Stadium, where Miss Mabel Burkes was crowned the carnival queen.

After that the carnival reigned until 11 o'clock. All vehicular traffic was barred from Main street for five hours.

Petersburg Residents Celebrate Halloween

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 31.—Halloween was more generally observed in Petersburg tonight than it has been for many years. Early in the evening the merrymakers began to mobilize, and by 9 o'clock there were thousands of them clad in the most grotesque costumes on the streets. An interesting feature of the observance was a parade of the masqueraders, headed by a band. The celebration ended with a masquerade ball at the Petersburg Grays Armory.

There was an elaborate Halloween celebration at Hopewell, which was participated in by a large number of masqueraders. The celebration concluded with a masquerade ball.

FAIRFAX TREASURER MAKES ITINERARY

PARTIES ARE PLANNED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Phone Vienna 64.

County Treasurer Frank W. Huddleson announces that although the law only requires that the treasurer shall display the tax books one day in each district of the county, he will have the books open for inspection at several places close to each neighborhood beginning to day. Either he or his deputies will sit in the different districts of Fairfax County so that the taxpayers who are not able to come to the courthouse can pay their taxes at these localities.

The schedule announced by the treasurer is as follows:

November 1—The books for Centerville and Lee districts will be in Clifton at Buckley's store.

November 2—Books for Lee and Mount Vernon districts can be seen at Springman's store in Lorton.

November 4—Taxes may be paid at Broder's store in Franconia on the Falls Church and Mount Vernon district books.

November 7—The books for Danesville district and the Town of Herndon will be at the First National Bank in Herndon.

November 8—The Danesville books will be in Forestville at Follin's store.

November 9—The treasurer will have the books at the Fairfax Mutual offices, corner of Prince and Royal streets, in Alexandria for the Falls Church, Lee and Mount Vernon districts.

November 11—Falls Church district's books will be at Oliver's store at Barleys crossroads, and on November 12 the same books will be at Carter's store in Lincolnia.

November 13—Dranesville and Providence districts books may be consulted at Oliver's store at Kenmore.

November 14—Taxpayers may pay their taxes for Providence district at Storm's store at McLean.

November 15—The Treasurer will go to Falls Church with the books of Providence and Falls Church districts and the town of Falls Church. He will be located at the Falls Church National Bank, corner of Broad and Washington streets.

November 16, he will have the books for Providence district and the town of Vienna at the bank in Vienna.

This schedule is quite different from that of the past several years and communities that were visited in previous years have been omitted this time. The plan this year is to be located as centrally as can be done to benefit the most people.

Tax bills are now due and payable as soon as they have been received. If they are not paid before December 5 this year a 5 per cent penalty will be added and on June 15, 1930, the penalty will be 10 per cent with a 6 per cent interest charge added until date of payment.

The county is collecting all of the school taxes this year so most of the tax bills of those living in incorporated towns show an increase. This, however, will be offset by a decrease in the corporation rates.

The rates on the hundred for the districts are Dranesville District, $3.65; Falls Church District, $3.45; Mount Vernon District, $2.60; Providence District, $2.60; Centerville District, $2.40; Lee District, $2.40.

The rates for the towns on each hundred are Herndon, $2.85; Falls Church, $2.40; Vienna, $1.75; Fairfax, $1.50, and Clifton, $1.45. The rates are for county taxes. Only the town rates are yet to be fixed in most towns. The capitation taxes for those living in incorporated towns in the county must be paid before December 5 or they will be unable to take part in the town elections which will be held next June.

Capt. Heywood Durrer, of county police, found two young women striding along the Washington-Richmond highway yesterday.

Upon being questioned they gave their names as Loraine Mills, 485 M street southwest and Margaret Clarke, 521 M street southwest, Washington. They were later turned over to the District authorities.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr announces that Fairfax County 4 H Club members are invited to tune in on a radio program for their benefit over WRC in Washington, November 2, from 1:45 in the afternoon. C. B. Smith, chief of the extension division, will give Thanksgiving greetings. Ruby Richardson, of Tippecanoe County, Indiana, and Sam Neel, of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, will tell of their club experiences. I. W. Hill, field agent of the extension office, will tell what is happening among the 4-H clubs. The National Broadcasting Co. will furnish music. If these programs meet with approval they will be continued. The agent hopes to have a radio installed in the Agricultural Clubrooms in the old clerk's office at Fairfax Courthouse, for the benefit of those who do not have a radio in their homes.

On November 9, from 1 to 1:45 p. m., on WRC, there will be a program for the home demonstration members. C. B. Smith will give a review of home demonstration work. Miss Florence Ward will talk on "New Social Horizons of the Farm Woman." Mrs. Ola Powell Malcolm will talk on "The Farm Home and the Home Maker." The farm women of the State will be represented by Mrs. Nelson Beck, Charlottesville, Va., who will talk on "What Home Demonstration Work Means to Me." The music will be furnished by the National Broadcasting's orchestra and soloists.

The Centerville School and Community League will give a Halloween dance tonight in the schoolhouse. Every one will be in costume. Mrs. John De Bell, Mrs. J. E. Harrison and Mrs. A. B. Roby comprise the committee in charge of arrangements.

The ladies of the Methodist Chapel in Forestville will hold a chicken dinner tomorrow night in the Grange Hall. The committee in charge of the work will be Mrs. A. C. Speigert, chairman; Mrs. Elsie Goode and Mrs. William Walker.

The young people of the Oakton Church of the Brethren will give a Halloween party tonight at the home of J. W. Probst, on Lee highway, near Hatmark. The committee in charge of the entertainment is Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Miller, Russell Miller, the Misses Cleo and Crystal Driver, Erman Myres and Mrs. Fred Cunningham.

G. O. P. PLUMS SEEN IN BROWN VICTORY

STAUNTON VOTERS MEET

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 31.—Anti-Smith Democrats can not expect to share in the political plums should Dr. William Mosely Brown, coalition candidate, be elected Governor of Virginia next Tuesday, speakers here tonight in behalf of the Democratic State ticket asserted. If Brown is elected, they argued, it would be by a vote that would be 50 per cent Republican; hence favors from Brown would fall into the laps of regular Republicans and not anti-Smiths.

Sponsored by the city and county Democratic committees, the mass meeting tonight heard James H. Price of Richmond, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, and former State Senator C. O'Connor Goolrich, of Fredericksburg. Both defended the Democratic administration of Gov. Harry F. Byrd, Goolrich declaring it had been the best administration within his time. They contrasted what had been accomplished under Byrd's regime with promises made by the coalition leaders.

The three Democratic candidates for State offices were referred to as men of experience in affairs of the Old Dominion, Price naturally omitted reference to himself, but was paid a fine tribute by his colleague on the hustings. Against the Democratic standard bearers, the speakers lined up the coalition candidates—Brown, "without a day's experience in State governmental problems;" Callom B. Jones, candidate for lieutenant governor, "who doesn't know a thing about State affairs," and Carter C. Berkeley, of Newport News, candidate for attorney general, "who has had no experience in State affairs at the seat of government."

Mr. Price, in referring to the candidate (himself) for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, stated that "he expects to be elected." The speaker asserted that he is "disappointed in the standards Dr. J. Brown has set in the conduct of this campaign," adding that the coalition nominee for governor "didn't learn these lessons of prejudice at old Washington and Lee, but he has had a tutor since leaving that institution to enter politics."

Bank Teller Held On Theft Charge

Fred Ryon Posts Bond for Appearance in $5,000 Embezzlement Case.

Fred Ryon, receiving and paying teller for the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., was released late yesterday on $1,000 bond for his appearance next Friday before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on charges of embezzling $5,000 of the bank's funds.

Milton S. Kronheim, professional bondsman, went as surety for the teller.

Special Justice Department Agent Thomas G. Melvin arrested Ryon yesterday afternoon on a commissioner's warrant. He later took him before Commissioner Turnage, where the teller pleaded not guilty. U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover demanded the $1,000 bond.

COMMERCIAL ZONING IS ASKED FOR BLOCK

Two Pleas for Changes in Prince Georges Town Are Approved.

TROUBLE SAVING CITED

In approving two applications for zoning amendments in Brentwood, Prince Georges County, at a meeting last night in the Tower Building, Washington, the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission adopted a resolution recommending to the Prince Georges County Commissioners that the entire block 13, of Holloday's Addition, Brentwood, be zoned as commercial.

The planning commission held that inasmuch as the majority of the block will be commercial or industrial if these two permits are approved by the county commissioners, that it will be only a question of time until the other owners will file applications for changes in zoning and offered the opinion that much trouble could be saved all around if the entire block is zoned as commercial.

The two petitions which were approved were those of Moses Edlavitch, who asks a change in classification from residential "A" to industrial "E" of lots 1 and 2, block 13, and Edward N. Lightbown, lots 16 and 17, for which he asks classifications as commercial "D," both of the parcels being in Holloday's Addition, Brentwood.

The commission postponed action on an application for change in classification from residential "A" to commercial "D" of property at Riggs road and Eureka avenue, Chillum, asked by J. Albert Miller.

THRONGS PAY LAST HONORS TO BURTON

Senator's Body Buried in Cleveland Cemetery With Templar Rites.

BISHOP LAUDS CAREER

Cleveland, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The body of Senator Theodore Elijah Burton lay at final rest tonight in beautiful Lake View Cemetery a few yards from the grave of another of Cleveland's distinguished sons, Myron T. Herrick. Thousands of Cleveland's humble folk gave up their lunch hour to pass with State and National officers before the flag-draped bier of the senator and his body lay in state in the huge auditorium of public hall.

More thousands thronged Euclid avenue as the cortege wended its way under a dark, cloud-mantled sky to the Euclid avenue Congregational Church where pews were packed to overflowing by friends of the senator.

McDowell Praises Career.

From the rostrum, banked high with floral offerings from persons in all walks of life, Bishop William McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, paid high tribute to the statesmanship and honest purposefulness of the man who represented his county and State in Washington for 40 years.

Senator Burton's now famous speech in Congress for reduction of armaments looking toward world peace was pictured by Bishop McDowell as the high spot of a remarkable career in national and international affairs. Asserting that Burton would have succeeded in any profession, the bishop added:

"He might readily have accepted the proffered Secretaryship of the Treasury and he would have adorned the Secretaryship of State, or shone as two other Clevelanders, John Hay and Myron Herrick, have done as ambassadors to friendly nations.

"A week ago, at his request, I administered to him the Holy Communion. He took it with the simple faith and reverence with which he has been accustomed to receive it through the years.

"On the evening of that day the President of the United States visited him as he had done more than once during his illness. With mind clear, this elder statesman held glad, proud converse with his friend whom he highly honored and who equally honored him. Next day the clouds began to overshadow him, and at last at eventide he entered into light.

Pastor Offers Prayer.

"Theodore Burton has come to his own, and his own have received him affectionately, gratefully, proudly. The favor of the Lord was upon him and the work of his hand is established."

The prayer was offered by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Ferdinand Q. Blanchard.

Outside the huge church the streets were dense with humanity awaiting a last chance to offer homage. During the three processions, from the station to the Public Hall, from the hall to the church and finally to Lake View Cemetery the crowds which lined the thoroughfares were silent. The tribute of silence was the greater as men and women paused in the hurried rush hours of the day to offer simple respect to Burton's passing body.

At the grave throngs again witnessed the solemn burial ceremony of the Knights Templar as the silver gray coffin was lowered from sight into a valley of flowers.

Quakers Send Hoover Praise for His Work

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Phrased in the quaint language of the Society of Friends, a letter was sent to President Hoover, who is a Friend, from the closing session of the Baltimore yearly meeting of the religious Society of Friends. The letter commended the President on his work for the advancement of the cause of world peace and for enforcement of prohibition.

Another letter to the President asked him to use his influence to obtain funds for the Indian Bureau to carry out its plans for improvement of conditions among the Indians.

scribing the affair, but most of them were confiscated as quickly as they appeared on the streets.

The Diet had been called for the prosaic purpose of discussing the budget. There had been rumors that the opposition to Premier Switalski, who is a close follower of Marshal Pilsudski, was preparing a resolution of nonconfidence, but there was nothing concrete in these reports.

Then it was learned that the premier had fallen ill and that Marshal Pilsudski would take his place at the opening of the Diet. The house assembled at 4 p. m., but the former dictator had not appeared. The next thing the members of Parliament knew the lobby was filled with military officers in full uniform.

Again there was a long wait and then, after nearly an hour, Pilsudski arrived. He was enthusiastically cheered by the soldiers. Speaker Daszinski sent a sergeant at arms to the lobby with the request that the officers leave the building, but they refused on the ground that the request had been made in a rude manner.

The speaker then sent a letter to the president acquainting him with the circumstances and saying that he was unable to follow out executive instructions and open the Diet. Marshal Pilsudski then went to see the president himself and the announcement of postponement followed.

propriated the bank's money were not disclosed.

"We deeply regret this unfortunate incident," Mott said, "more for the employes concerned than the amount, which is small in comparison to the resources of the bank and its affiliations. While the directors as individuals have paid more than the sum involved, I personally have guaranteed the entire amount."

Mott is said to be one of the three largest stockholders of General Motors.

Rudolph E. Reichert, State banking commissioner, issued a statement in which he said: "With the situation as Mr. Mott and his associates have stated and our knowledge of the Union Industrial Bank and its affiliations, the condition of the bank has not been impaired by this unfortunate incident."

SHEPPARD HITS RUM BUYING AS CRIMINAL

Texas Senator Declares Man Who Purchases Is as Guilty as Seller.

RADIO DEBATE STARTED

(Associated Press.)

Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, asserted last night that "logic and justice" require that the purchaser of illicit liquor be made equally punishable with the seller.

In an address over a Nation-wide radio hook-up, Sheppard contended that his recent proposal to Congress that the law be amended to make the buyer equally punishable would be valid under the Constitution.

He pointed out that one section of the Volstead act provides that purchase can be made only upon permit. This section, he said, "in effect forbids purchase for beverage purposes, because no permit to a buyer for such an objective could be lawfully obtained."

Purchase Criminal, Is Claim.

"If the sale of intoxicating liquor is a crime," he continued, "and it is made so by the Volstead act under the authority of the eighteenth amendment, purchase is also a crime, because a purchase is a necessary part of a sale.

"Does not the law already punish the man who purchases narcotics except under the conditions prescribed by the statute?"

Senator Sheppard termed prohibition as stronger today than ever, and said that since it became a part of the Constitution, elections in the House and Senate had brought a larger majority for prohibition than at any previous time.

Progress Made in 10 Years.

"During this period of nearly ten years the American people have made more progress in three fundamental phases of human welfare," he said, "to wit—savings, life insurance and home building—than in all the 131 years of this republic before the advent of national prohibition."

He said that since his recent proposal to the Senate two Federal judges had announced the buyer may be penalized under the law, one instructing his grand jurors to indict.

Another decision by a Federal judge to the effect that the purchaser could not be punished under the Volstead act he gave as the immediate cause of his proposal.

Regarding the constitutionality of his amendment, he said, "no doctrine is more firmly established in American jurisprudence than the doctrine that Congress may enact any legislation reasonably necessary to carry out the purpose of the constitution."

Sheppard's speech was the presentation of the affirmative side of a radio debate over prohibition with Senator Hawes (Democrat), Missouri. Hawes will speak next Thursday night.

to naught after 36 hours of consultations. The senator blamed Daladier, his party chief, for this, saying that the latter's stubbornness in insisting upon being appointed to the ministry of the interior, had made the combination impossible.

Tardieu has been minister of the interior for the past eighteen months in the cabinet of Briand and Raymond Poincare. It is the department which controls France's police and nominates prefects for the 89 departments into which the country is divided for administrative purposes. Hence it is an invaluable ministry from a political viewpoint because of the patronage which it distributes and the effect that this has on elections.

The first move that Tardieu made after being invited to try to do in the right center what the left center could not accomplish, was to call upon Briand. It was noted that both Daladier and Clementel visited the former premier immediately after being requested to form a cabinet and observers are convinced that no matter how the present confusion is resolved, Briand will be back in his old post at the foreign ministry.

There was much pessimism, however, around the Parliament Building tonight. Deputies in considerable number agreed that Tardieu and his record in politics are so objectionable to the parties of the left that he will have extreme difficulty in forming a government which will command a workable majority in the chamber. Some talk was still heard that Briand and might yet be called upon to reconstitute the government, but there were many more whose thoughts turned with regret to the sick bed of Raymond Poincare, who was forced out of office by ill health several months ago.

"Poincare is sorely missed," was the remark heard on all sides, alike from friends and foes of the sick man.

Forged Prescription Seen in Dope Arrest

Walter Cchiou, 34 years old, of Lancaster, Pa., was arrested late yesterday on Wisconsin avenue near the Fourteenth Precinct Police Station after Patrolman J. Mills had found a quantity of alleged narcotics in his possession. He was lodged in the Fourteenth Precinct Jail pending an investigation by members on the narcotic squad.

In addition to violating the law prohibiting the possession of narcotics, police said they believed Schiou has obtained his drugs on forged prescriptions.

Frank Harbin, 72, Mission Aid, iDes

Central Union Institution's Night Clerk Succumbs Suddenly.

Frank Harbin, night clerk at the Central Union Mission, died suddenly in his room in the mission at 613 O street northwest yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed last night.

Harbin, despite his 72 years of age, had a ready smile and a firm handshake for any man who sought shelter at the mission. He was a former resident of Memphis, Tenn., where he was a prosperous druggist until overtaken by business reverses. Coming to Washington during the World War, he secured a position in the United States Shipping Board.

After leaving that position he was unemployed for some time and spent two nights at the Central Union Mission without making known his identity. Applying for aid to the United States Employment Bureau, he was advised by an official there to return to the mission and make known his circumstances to Superintendent Bennett. As a result, three years ago he was regularly employed as the mission's night clerk, a position he held until his death.

STATE RUM LEADS NOVA SCOTIA VOTE

Majorities, However, Polled for Both Control and for Prohibition.

ONTARIO VICTORY GROWS

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Tabulation of the votes in two-thirds of the polls in today's plebiscite on the liquor question showed that 14,700 more persons voted for government control than for retention of the prohibition law now in force.

Two questions were submitted to the voters—whether the present Nova Scotia temperance act should be retained or whether a system of government control and sale should be substituted. Tabulations available gave a majority for the affirmative of each question.

Wet Majority Is 29,000.

The majority for prohibition was 3,500, and for government control 29,000. The returns showed that thousands answered only one question. The final vote will be interpreted by the government.

The plebiscite was preceded by four weeks of intense campaigning by the prohibitionists and the Temperance Reform Association. Advocates of government control were aided by nearly all the outstanding supporters of the present provincial government.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—With the Conservative government of Premier G. Howard Ferguson overwhelmingly the victor, definite results of yesterday's general election, in which the liquor control act was the chief issue, were established tonight.

Only the riding of North Bruce, where the election was deferred owing to the death of E. P. McWhinney, Liberal nominee, was out of the alignment.

The Ferguson government, which supported government liquor control, will have 90 members in the next house, against 21 members of other groups, among whom are included two Independent conservatives.

Liberals Gain Nine.

The Liberals will have 12 members, nine more than they acquired in the last election, and the Progressives, having lost eight, will be represented by three.

Three seats were removed from the doubtful column this morning, two going to the Conservatives and one to the Liberals. In Victoria North, D. McQuarrie, Conservative, captured the seat from William Newman, Liberal, while in Russell C. A. Seguin, Conservative, gained the seat from Aurelian Belanger, the Liberal member of the last House.

Woman Injured by Auto.

Struck by an automobile at Seventh and E streets northwest yesterday, Margaret Clark, colored, 24 years old, of Halls Hill, Va., suffered bruises and burns on the body, for which she was treated at Emergency Hospital. The automobile, police reported, was driven by Walter Kerwin, of 2809 Twenty-sixth street northwest.

Policeman Fined In Drinking Case

Ellery Keeps Job, but Loses $75 After Trial Board Hears Plea.

The anxiety over the prospect of becoming a father should not result in Bicycle Policeman William F. Ellery of the First Precinct losing his job, the Police Trial Board decided after hearing Ellery's explanation of why he took two drinks while on duty.

Ellery told the board that he had been up all night awaiting the advent of a son and then had been under the strain of fear of the death of his wife. Reporting to duty at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he had gone to a drug store and got medicine to relieve a severe headache. Later he had met a friend who proposed a drink of liquor as the thing to relieve him. But the two drinks he took, he said, nauseated him and resulted in a charge of drinking while on duty although he was fully able to conduct himself without assistance.

Capt. F. S. Burke and Lieut. Beckett, Ellery's superior officers, told the trial board that the policeman was a man of splendid character and unblemished record. A fine of $75 for drinking on duty was announced by the board yesterday. Ellery has been restored to duty. The baby and Mrs. Ellery are said to be doing well.

YOUNG PAIR KILLED; GIRL'S SUITOR HELD

Texan, 23, Admits His Love for Her, but Denies He Committed Crime.

COUPLE WAS AMBUSHED

Port Arthur, Tex., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Luther Berwick, 23, was formally charged with the fatal shooting of Miss Belle Crow, 18, and William Byrd, 21, in front of the girl's home last night.

Steadfastly maintaining his innocence, Berwick was taken to Beaumont and lodged in the county jail.

Miss Crow and Byrd were killed from ambush as they walked arm in arm toward the front door of the rooming house where the girl lived. They fell with hands tightly clasped. Berwick wept when he first viewed the girl's body at the morgue. Admitting he loved her, the youth denied he knew anything about the slaying.

The murder charge was filed after a justice of the peace inquest returned a verdict of "death caused by gunshot inflicted by an unknown party." Berwick was taken from the city jail on authority of two warrants, issued by the grand jury, which went into session this morning.

The grand jury adjourned late today without making a report and it is considered likely that the report will be made to District Judge Raymond L. Murray at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. It could not be learned whether the jury had decided to return any indictment in connection with the murder.

BEAN HOLE BEANS

Beans have always been good food. Van Camp experts made them better. Then we searched for the BEST Baked Beans in the world.

The search ended in the far forests of Northern Maine where old camp cooks baked their "bean hole" beans underground. Sealed in the great, iron bean pot, buried the night through in glowing embers, the fragrant forest added its tang to the layers of beans and pork, sweetened with brown sugar and molasses to make the BEST baked beans the world ever knew.

Even the "baked outdoors" flavor

Van Camp's preserved every part of this recipe, discovered how to give even the "outdoors" fragrance of the forest to this dish you can serve tonight.

No need for you to travel the world over in your search for the BEST baked beans. No journey to the forest depths to secure this brawn-building food with its most appetizing taste. The World's Best Beans are yours NOW—at YOUR grocery. Two sizes, medium, 15c; large, 25c.

HOOVER'S TARIFF APPEAL.

President Hoover's appeal for action on the tariff bill is an appeal to the country rather than an appeal to the coalition-controlled Senate at the fag end of a wasted and useless extra session. It will at least permit the people to place the blame for the failure of tariff legislation.

There is scant prospect that the bill will be passed and sent to conference in two weeks in conformity with the President's expressed desire. The Republican leaders with whom Mr. Hoover has conferred are powerless to expedite the legislation. The Senate's immediate reaction to the President's statement showed clearly that the coalition forces were so aroused or upset that they promptly precipitated a field day of mingled criticism, sarcasm and reproach directed at the President. The chances of expediting action in the Senate are rendered more than ever remote as a consequence of the White House statement and the way it has been received by senators who are trying to dodge responsibility for the defeat of tariff legislation.

But the country sees an issue raised which every man, woman and child can understand. Mr. Hoover wants action and the Senate responds by explaining why it is impotent to act. The President's publicly expressed desire to see the Senate function as a legislative body and carry out the pledges of the majority and the purpose of the extra session in aid of American industry and agriculture is met by the Senate's confession that it is impotent to legislate one way or the other on the tariff question. As pointed out by the President, there are fifteen schedules in the tariff bill, and not one of them has been disposed of. It was frankly admitted by members of the coalition that 30 weeks might be required to accomplish what the President suggests in two weeks. A coalition-controlled Senate is a highly deliberative body, and at the present rate of progress 30 weeks might scarcely suffice to get started. Most of yesterday was consumed in explaining why the coalition could not function at all.

Senator Reed, who regards the tariff bill as dead, annoyed the coalition leaders by the philosophical way in which he discussed the prospective funeral. It was a question for the Senate majority to deal with, the Pennsylvania senator said, and the Democrats and some twelve or fourteen senators who "sit on the Republican side" constitute that majority. Since the coalition has the votes and has taken charge of the bill, it would seem to be the duty of the coalition to take charge of the cadaver and arrange for interment.

Senator Borah pretended to detect a spark of life in the tariff corpse. He suggested that the Senate proceed to discuss the bill instead of consuming time in discussing why there could be no tariff legislation. In the debate over the responsibility for the tariff debacle Senator Copeland expressed the fear that the country would hold the Senate responsible, and he resented the President's statement for that reason. Senator Allen brought scant comfort to the coalition by announcing flatly that the people would blame the Senate.

President Hoover has been sincere in his effort to fulfill the pledge to the people. As the session draws to a close he publicly suggests that it accomplish at least something by enacting a tariff bill, good, bad or indifferent. The people will not be satisfied with a controversial explanation of the Senate's impotency as a legislative body.

Republican regulars have worked hard to pass a bill that would benefit agriculture and hard pressed industries. Senator Watson is on the verge of a physical breakdown as a result of his incessant labor. His appeal to both sides to get together for the common welfare sharply accentuated Mr. Hoover's statement. The breakdown of the Senate is chargeable to party treachery. Those who have betrayed agriculture and industry can not hope to evade a reckoning.

A PARTISAN PANIC.

Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, rises nobly to expound upon the recent unpleasantness in Wall street. "With the whole world copying the efficiencies of the United States," he says, "we witness the humiliating spectacle presented in the collapse of the New York Stock Exchange." Americans, he adds, "shrink with shame." The power and the prestige of the United States has been lessened in the eyes of every one. Who does the Democratic floor leader hold responsible for this shameful state of affairs? The Republican party, of course.

Well he might. The Republican party has been in power lo these many years. It makes the laws and, when it can, the tariff. Its candidate was openly supported in the recent campaign by "the moneyed interests." Its spokesmen have told the public frequently that the country was prosperous. These are all privileges that the Democratic party would enjoy, so it is entirely natural that its leader should call attention to the fact that this has been a partisan panic, which he pictures vividly as follows:

> Everywhere the surface of the financial sea reveals broken masts and fallen spars. Along the beach are stranded shattered hulks and wasted cargoes. Will the scavengers of the financial sea feast and fatten upon the garbage and the refuse?

Yesterday there seemed to be a decided tendency to partake of the garbage and refuse. To eyes still smarting from the sting of the storm the flotsam and jetsam took on a desirable appearance and there was a rush to feast and fatten. But Democrats, no doubt, held back. Since they played no part in creating the storm in propriety they had no right to partake of its left-overs. Joe Robinson's constituents, especially, held back. Living, as they do, in one of Joe Grundy's backward States, they are not interested in stock markets or income tax returns.

A BREATHING SPELL.

The stock and curb exchanges will be closed today and tomorrow to enable brokers' staffs to catch up with their work. An idea of the necessity for closing the exchanges is gained from consideration of the great volume of trading during the past week. Since last Thursday almost 65,000,000 shares have changed hands. This represents more than three times the volume in an ordinary week.

While the exchanges are closed only for the purpose of giving bookkeepers a chance to catch up, the holiday promises to serve another useful purpose. The slump was a direct result of hysteria. Actual values behind stocks are no less now than they were a week ago. The future is equally as promising. The holiday will give the investing public an opportunity to consider and digest these salient facts. It should give a breathing space in which common sense can assert itself. The moral of the disaster is plain: "Buy stocks outright."

BRITAIN'S CRUCIAL PROBLEM.

With the visit of Prime Minister MacDonald to America the problem of unemployment in Great Britain was temporarily overshadowed by that of naval armaments. Nevertheless, this issue is the most serious one confronting the Labor government, and upon its solution depends the fate of Mr. MacDonald's administration.

Figures quoted by J. H. Thomas, lord of the privy seal, at the Labor party conference at Brighton, show the enormous cost of unemployment to Great Britain. Since the war that country has spent $4,859,000,000 to relieve its jobless men. A large portion of this has been spent on unemployment insurance, more commonly known as the dole system. Other vast sums have been spent under the poor relief law and in the form of various grants, subsidies and other palliative measures. The total is considerably higher than that of the entire British budget last year. In addition Mr. Thomas reported that municipalities have mortgaged themselves to the point where they are no longer able to give further aid.

Despite these vast expenditures, unemployment is increasing. About 1,200,000 persons are out of work. If the program of naval construction is abandoned that number will be considerably increased. It is not surprising that Mr. Thomas has concluded that the pouring out of money is not the solution of the unemployment problem. "Tested by every experience up to date," he said, "every million pounds of public money spent doesn't provide work for more than 2,000 directly and 2,000 indirectly."

Britain has had a bitter experience with the dole system, and its problem is yet unsolved. It would be interesting to know what might have been accomplished if that $4,859,000,000 had been expended to remove the causes of unemployment.

EXIT BOULDER DAM.

The doom of the Boulder Canyon project is sounded by Arizona's decision to test the constitutionality of the act of Congress which attempts to empower six States to take away the rights of a seventh. The act is palpably beyond the power of Congress to make effective. It must fail if the equal rights of the States are to be maintained. The vicious intent of the act is made worse by the proposed discriminatory allocation of power, which also attempts to disregard the equal rights of States. On top of this, the scheme is encountering the determined opposition of Mexico, which is entitled under international law to an equitable portion of the waters of the Colorado River, as well as to the enjoyment of the natural flow of the river.

The taxpayers of the United States will have occasion to rejoice when the Supreme Court sweeps the Boulder Dam bill from the books. There was never any reason for the proposed drain upon the Treasury. The only excuse ever given was that the Colorado River project was necessary in order to protect Imperial Valley settlers from floods. If the Government were really concerned over the danger of floods it would have provided for flood control without attaching to it a plan to develop an immense water reservoir for the use of cities and a huge power plant which would require years to complete. If the settlers are drowned out while waiting for the completion of Boulder Canyon Dam the responsibility will rest squarely upon legislators who ignored the plain duty of providing flood relief. This flood relief could be provided within a few months at a cost of about $15,000,000, while Boulder Dam, with all its fancy trimmings, would cost $175,000,000.

The only charge that can be legitimately laid upon the people of the United States is the cost of protecting the Imperial Valley against floods. The public is willing to meet this charge. In view of the breakdown of the Boulder Dam scheme Congress should pass an Imperial Valley flood relief bill before a catastrophe calls everybody to account.

THE GUGGENHEIM FUND.

The Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aeronautics, after four years of work, considers its purpose accomplished. On the 1st of January, having disbursed nearly $5,000,000, the fund will pass out of existence.

To it probably more than to any other individual agency should be accorded credit for influencing the expansion that has taken place in American aeronautics. The fund financed the country-wide tours of Byrd and Lindbergh following their transatlantic flights. It made large outright grants of funds to leading educational institutions for the founding of aeronautical and aeronautical engineering schools. With its full flying laboratory placed under the command of Lieut. Doolittle it solved, in theory, the problems of fog flying and it remains only for the industry to mold its findings to commercial practice. Its safe flying contest, with prizes totaling $150,000, which will be concluded next month, stimulated interest in improved design, as a result of which not one, but a dozen planes aerodynamically safer than those of former design have been produced. In addition the fund was instrumental in the establishment of improved meteorological services and it played a prominent part in the town marking campaign.

Daniel Guggenheim has made available an additional $500,000 with which the fund will wind up its work. This sum will be applied principally to establish schools and to endow a chair at the Library of Congress for the organization of a complete aeronautical library. The fund's contribution to the advancement of aeronautics reflects great honor upon its founder and its president.

SMALL TOWN STUFF

From the New York World.

Cities, like individuals, have personalities, and being thus endowed, they sometimes manifest idiosyncrasies as interesting as those of their citizens, as recent news dispatches make evident.

The authorities of Caney, Kans., have posted on the park benches notices reading, "If you must whittle call at the city hall and register and suitable whittling sticks will be provided." This unusual courtesy is less altruistic than might be supposed at first glance. It was necessary to save the benches from being destroyed.

Another Kansas community that entered the prints recently was Colby, the city council of which voted against any tax levy for next year. The municipal light and water plant produced sufficient revenue to meet the city's expenses. The earnings from this source have made it possible to reduce the water rate 25 per cent.

Until lately South River, N. J., had the enviable distinction of being the taxless town. But it has gone modern and has decided to have paved thoroughfares. Pavements cost money. The municipal fathers reluctantly voted a tax.

Illinois communities have had an unusual run of peculiar situations the last few months. Lyons has had the rather sad experience of seeing a bill collector drive off with the new village fire truck because Lyons was $9,000 in arrears in payments. It was a beautiful red truck, too, and the village was loath to let it go.

Even greater woe has fallen upon Burksville, Ill., the town hall, jail, road grader, scraper and a lot being announced for auction on the vote of the 63 members of the electorate to sell the town. Burksville is the oldest English-speaking community in the State. Elimination of liquor license revenues brought an increasing depression in the public finances.

Hoopeston, Ill., has a contrary attitude toward prohibition's effects. It hasn't had a saloon since 1877, yet it was able some weeks ago to announce such a prosperity among its population of 6,000 as to place a surplus of $29,000 in the treasury of the town. And now its citizens borrow from this treasury at 6 per cent! One cause of the happy situation is that the mayor is content with a salary of 50 cents a year and the aldermen are willing to hold their jobs for 25 cents a year, rates established in the town charter. Mayoralty candidates have been known to spend considerable sums campaigning for the 50-cent post.

Palatine, Ill., drew wide attention recently by being compelled to postpone the elaborate program for the opening of its new escape-proof jail because the lone prisoner selfishly broke out on the eve of the scheduled celebration. His departure was the more inexcusable because the police had been to considerable trouble in getting a prisoner for the occasion. The fair name of Palatine was saved, however, by his recapture in Chicago a week later. Though late, the ceremonies eventually went through with splendor.

EDUCATION.

Education is worth what it costs, observes the Noblesville Ledger, only if it shall have built up higher character and morality. A mere knowledge of books, the ability to make a living, to instruct others in some branches of learning, these are important, of course, but if education does not build up a sense of right and justice, of good will to others, of ability to see the duty to the community, state and country, then the real purpose of education has failed.

There is sometimes the idea that college life is frivolous, that college styles and manners and even morals are not on a high plane, but that is not true. It is merely the froth on the glass of the college life which is easily blown away and the real, solid student body appears in its strength and stability.

The republic needs, just at this time, such an element of morality and solid, substantial citizenship in the lead, that those of lesser character and even of wrongful motives and actions may be submerged. The headlines should not be taken by crime and criminals, by traitors, by those who have had no education and have attained no moral principles, but by the men and women who have been educated in the schools and colleges and who have thus attained the highest ideals of morality and good citizenship.

It is with such a purpose in mind that the taxpayers pour forth their money so willingly for the advancement of the schools.

COMMON LANGUAGE.

Wander where you will,
Go travel up and down,
Or east or west, and still
You'll see men smile and frown.
And this in every land
Is speech you'll understand.

The light that's in the eye,
The smile upon the lip
World-over will supply
The touch of fellowship.
The tongue is strange, but, oh!
The friendly glance you know.

In Germany or Spain,
In Italy or France,
You'll find the meaning plain
In every human glance.
The smile and frown of home
You'll find where'er you roam.

And by this common touch
The traveler comes to see
We're all alike in much.
Who make earth's company.
By smile and frown we reach
Beyond the shades of speech.

The Longer You Dam the Water, the More Wreckage It Will Move

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE curse of modern industrialism is monotony.

The ox in a treadmill suffers no anguish of spirit because he has no imagination, and men who are ox-like by nature or able to induce an ox-like state of coma can do treadmill work without risk of mental derangement.

But a man of nervous temperament, forced to perform the same trivial, uninspiring task hour after hour and day after day, must find relief in excess or excitement when the day's monotony is finished or face a breakdown.

The difference is one of attitude. One man fattens in contentment because he enjoys work that requires no mental effort, and the other goes mad because he hates his work and does it in self-pity and rebellion of spirit.

That is the whole story. Boredom is not in the task or the situation, but in the individual. Any job is a good job to the man who likes it, and the easiest task is slavery to the man who abominates it.

Whether a job is hard or easy depends on the way it affects the individual, not on the expenditure of energy it requires.

Congenial work is no more tiresome than golf.

The tired feeling men have is the result of accumulated waste—the ashes of exertion. When the work is pleasant, the ash is made by physical exertion only; when the work is done resentfully, the mind grows heavy with weariness as the body does, and the worker carries a double burden. At night he feels the fatigue of a laborer plus the fatigue of a brain worker.

Men who study mental disorders have learned that one of the most prolific causes of insanity is the unrelieved boredom of a dull, monotonous existence endured resentfully.

The woman who keeps house joyously keeps her sanity; but the one who cooks and cleans and eats and sleeps in an unbroken routine that fills her heart with bitterness is courting disaster. Whether her spirit beats against the bars as a caged jungle creature does or represses itself in silent and sullen self-pity, she is preparing herself for a sanitarium.

And men who resent the monotonous and unprofitable sameness of home and office routine—hiding their resentment and enduring in silent rebellion—these, also, are training for a break.

It is better to open a safety valve than to wait for an explosion; and it is better to sacrifice much and escape an uncongenial environment than to wallow in self-pity until the ambulance comes.

THE ROCKET BRIDEGROOM.

("Fritz von Opel, German rocket flier, weds."—News item.)

Mrs. von Opel (as he returns late for dinner)—Well, where have you been?

Mr. von Opel—I was unavoidably delayed, my dear.

Mrs. von Opel—What's the excuse this time?

Mr. von Opel—The fuse didn't go off.

Mrs. von Opel—If it isn't one thing, it's another. The last time you didn't come home on time you had another one.

Mr. von Opel—What was it that time, dear?

Mrs. von Opel—You said it went off prematurely.

Mr. von Opel—So it did, honey. Everything was all set when the darned rocket blew up and carried me way past my station.

Mrs. von Opel—What do you fool around in that old rocket for, anyhow? Why don't you get something we all can ride in?

Mr. von Opel—You don't seem to understand. If it is successful, it will revolutionize transportation.

Mrs. von Opel—It's already revolutionized our home life. I wish you'd give it up and settle down like other husbands.

Mr. von Opel—You knew I had a rocket when you married me.

Mrs. von Opel—Yes, but I didn't know you were so attached to it. Really, it's like being married to a Roman candle.

Mr. von Opol: It's going to make a great man of me.

Mrs. von Opol: It's going to make a great fire-cracker out of you that's what it's going to do.

Mr. von Opol: Now, dear, be reasonable.

Mrs. von Opol: You've got to choose between me and that rocket.

Mr. von Opol: Now, dear, listen, there's one thing I want to do and then I'll give it up.

Mrs. von Opol: What's that?

Mr. von Opol: I want to make a trip to the moon.

Mrs. von Opol: Ah, I thought so. Another woman!

REAL WORMS.

If any one wishes to angle for whales, he should go to Australia for his bait, says the New York Times. Earthworms averaging from four to six feet long are reported from that continent. One specimen was discovered which measured nine feet. The account can hardly be set down as the yarn of a "nature faker," for it appears in the British scientific magazine Nature, which is careful about what it publishes.

Some constituent should present President Hoover with one of these Fafners for use the next time he goes fishing. They would have delighted Darwin, who wrote a book on worms, drawing attention to the extraordinarily clever way in which they drag leaves down their holes, by the tip instead of by the stalk, so that the leaf rolls up naturally.

The Australian worms have greenish, translucent eggs, with horny shells. They are said to make "loud, gurgling noises when they retire into their burrows on the approach of an enemy." But what animal would deliberately elect to antagonize such a creature? And why should nine-foot worms run away from anything? Perhaps they are too proud to turn.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ups and Downs Have No Effect on Real Owners of Dividend Paying Stocks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have a feeling that fewer persons are affected by the stock market drop than one would infer from the figures, just as fewer persons were affected by the previous rises. I am judging by my own situation. Among the stocks I happen to own are some that suffered the greatest losses last week, such as Telephone & Telegraph, American Tobacco, Union Pacific and Western Union, but my income from them remains the same as before.

As far as I am concerned, a group of men, technically known as the Stock Exchange, gets together and decides that my Telephone & Telegraph stock is worth $310 a share, and I experience a momentary glow of elation. A few days or weeks later they get together and decide that it is worth only $232, and I have a feeling of disappointment, also momentary. It is unlikely that the slump will affect the continued use of the telephone or that the company will be unable to continue to pay the $9 a share. I bought my stock at an average price of $98 a share, so even at the present low—or high, according to the point of view—it is worth more than double what I paid for it.

Doesn't it seem probable that mine is the situation of a great majority of holders of this and other good stocks? That they have merely lost some of their spectacular gains, but their stocks are still quoted at and worth more than they paid for them?

It seems to be the practice to compute the total loss in such a recession, and multiply it by the total number of shares outstanding, and imply that somebody or the country has lost that vast amount. Headlines last week said that the loss was about $4,000,000,000. In Monday's market only 87,100 shares of Telephone & Telegraph were traded in. That is a very small percentage of the 13,203,093 shares outstanding. How many of the holders of these shares have actually lost anything? I am just where I was a few weeks ago. When Telephone & Telegraph first crossed 232 I thought that was pretty good, and I still think so now that it has receded to 232, and I felt the same about American Tobacco when it first touched 196, Union Pacific when it first touched 240, and Western Union when it first touched 191. My profits the last few weeks have been paper profits, and my losses last week are paper losses, and one cancels the other.

It reminds me of the farmer who told a neighbor that Josh Stebbins had offered $200 for his horse.

"Josh Stebbins ain't got $200."

'Yes, I know, but ain't it a good offer?"

Law Should Prevent Banks From Sending Money to Wall Street.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When a law went on the books creating the Federal Reserve Board and its twelve regional banks in and out of the Congress it was said:

"Now our local bank deposits will be held in our home banks to loan to our business men and to finance approved local enterprises, and not be sent to New York City correspondent banks, as heretofore, to be loaned out as call money at 10, 20, 30 per cent on the New York Stock Exchange."

Had the regional banks lived up to what the Congress and their depositors had the right to expect there would not have been a 16,000,000 plus sale of stocks in one day on the New York Stock Exchange and a minus change in values of $25,000,000,000 in stocks.

Congress should at once amend the act creating our present Federal banking system (even if it is locking the door after the horse is stolen), so that no bank of the Federal Reserve system shall send its depositors' money to be gambled on the New York Stock Exchange.

New Jersey Law as to Senatorial Vacancies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Reading with interest your editorial, "New Jersey's Senatorship," quoted by the Portland (Maine) Press Herald, September 19, I note the sentence: "Whoever may be chosen for Mr. Edge's unexpired term will not have a walkover in the elections to choose a senator for the full term beginning March 4, 1931."

For your information I may say that the New Jersey law does not permit an appointment to fill out an unexpired term in case of a vacancy. The only appointment which can be made (if any) is until the next election. You may refer to paragraphs 33 and 403 of the New Jersey election law.

STEP ON IT.

One of the real novelties in the "new" traffic rules promulgated by the State authorities is that which empowers officers to get after "road mopes," says the Boston Transcript. In the early days of motoring and, in fact, until within the last few years, the main effort of the police has been to stop over-speeding. Maximum speed limits were designated, with this end in view, but the regulations never took account of the slow poke; the wheezy flivver that could go only fifteen or paterfamilias and the brood who ambled along at a snail's pace to enjoy the scenery. Both had their rights on the highways, but such is the evolution of motor traffic, they must now get off to one side or seek the less traveled roads. The law prescribes no minimum rate of speed, and hitherto the police had no authority to speed up the slackers. Now they have it; and while it may be a question of nice judgment as to who is driving too slowly, the leisurely motorist may find it safe to "step on it" when the officers tells him to do so and do his arguing afterward.

Mr. Stimson Lunch Host To Mexicans

Envoy Attends Function Given for Waterways Commission.

The Ambassador of Mexico, Senor Don Manuel Tellez, was a guest at the luncheon given yesterday by the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, for the members of the International Waterways Commission of Mexico and the United States. The Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel, is at the Ritz Tower, in New York, for a brief stay.

The Roumanian government has purchased from Dr. and Mrs. William Thornwell Davis the house in Twenty-third street which adjoins its handsome legation property. Whether the new Minister of Roumania, Mr. Carol Davilla, proposes to remodel the new property is a matter of surmise, but probably it will be used as an annex to house the legation offices, or as quarters for members of the staff. A red brick house of the mid-Victorian era, it is in striking contrast with the handsome legation building. Col. Robert M. Thompson, who long made his home in the legation proper, used frequently to rent the house next door to entertain the overflow from the large house parties he was fond of giving.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson Will Entertain at Tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson will entertain at tea on Monday afternoon in their new residence at 1331 Eighteenth street in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reed. Before her marriage Mrs. Reed was Miss Caroline Story. Mr. Reed, who has been serving as third secretary of the United States Embassy in Brussels, has been transferred to Havana and he and Mrs. Reed are to make a brief visit in the Capital on their way to their new post. They will reach town on Monday.

Mrs. James M. Thomson, who has been visiting in Washington since her return from Europe, will leave today for Bolling Green, Mo., to visit her mother, Mrs. Champ Clark. She also will be the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, in St. Louis, for a few days before rejoining Mr. Thomson at their home in New Orleans. Mrs. Thomson, who was Miss Genevieve Clark, is the daughter of the late Representative Champ Clark, long Speaker of the House.

Miss Leonebel Jacobs, of New York, portrait painter, who was a guest of President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House in the early days of the administration, is again in town, this time staying at the Carlton. She is to paint portraits of the President and Mrs. Hoover and is at present working on a portrait of the Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good. While he was in office, Miss Jacobs made a portrait of President Coolidge and she also painted one of Mrs. Coolidge, which now hangs in the White House.

The former United States Ambassador to Spain, Mr. Ogden H. Hammond, is at the Mayflower.

Mr. Edward H. Loftus, retired Counselor of the Legation of Siam, left last night for Charlottesville, Va., having been received by President Hoover yesterday in his farewell official visit to the White House. Mr. Loftus, who retired from diplomatic service on September 30, will pass the winter at Charlottesville, where his son, Mr. Reginald A. Loftus, is enrolled for special courses at the University of Virginia. At the close of the academic year Mr. Loftus and his son will return to Washington.

Mr. Frank Hitchcock, of New York, former Postmaster General during the Taft administration, is in Washington for several days and is at the Willard.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Elmer Bacon, of Cathedral avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Bacon, to Ensign William Eager Howard. The wedding will take place in the late spring.

Maj. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman and Mrs. Saltzman have returned to Washington from The Hague, where Gen. Saltzman served as chairman of the American delegation to the International Radio Conference.

Mrs. Arthur James Davis is passing the week-end at West Point, having motored up to visit her son, Mr. Elisworth Ingalls, a cadet at the United States Military Academy. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Frances Ingalls Davis, and Miss Sally Phinney.

Dr. and Mrs. Rene de La Valette, of Cuba, are spending a week at the Mayflower, having arrived here yesterday from New York, where Dr. de La Valette attended the meetings of the Pan American Medical Association. He is a member of the staff of the Hospital for the Insane in Mozorra, Cuba, and also director of the Perez-Vento Sanatorium for Women, in Guanabaca, near Havana, which was established by Mrs. de La Valette's father.

Ambassador of Chile Sails for This Country.

Yesterday marked the sailing from Lima, Peru, of the United States Ambassador to Chile, Mr. William S. Culbertson, and his daughter, Miss Junia Culbertson, for the United States. Mr. Culbertson was special ambassador at the inaugural of the new President of Peru. A farewell reception was given the ambassador and his daughter Thursday at the County Club, with President Augusto B. Leguia attending.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman entertained 16 guests last evening at the Halloween dinner given by the club. The guest of honor was Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, Minister of Defense of the Irish Free State. Others who had guests for dinner at the club last evening were Mrs. Lester J. Pollock, Mrs. Rose Yates Forrester, Mrs. Imogene Howell and Miss Caroline Reilly.

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua has gone to New York to attend the annual reunion of the First Division. He was accompanied by Mrs. Fuqua, who went on to West Point to be with their son, Cadet Stephen O. Fuqua. Maj. Gen. Fuqua will join his family at West Point for the week-end.

The company will afterward attend the dance which Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes and Mrs. P. Lee Phillips will give that evening at the Willard in honor of the debutantes.

Mrs. John C. Boyd and her daughter, Mrs. A. Camp Stanley, are in New York for a visit and are at the St. Regis Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Townsend have returned to town from Memphis, Tenn., where they went to attend the recent meeting of the American Bar Association. They were absent a fortnight, making the trip by motor and making a series of visits in Tennessee, Mr. Townsend's home State.

Mrs. Emma Schoonmaker Tenney has returned to the Rochambeau from New York, where she was the guest of her brother, Mr. Lansing Schoonmaker, host also to their sister, Countess van Krackow, of New York and Berlin. Mr. Schoonmaker occupies an interesting old house, built 200 years ago by his ancestors and inherited in the direct male line. Mrs. Tenney has the original patent from Queen Anne.

Although title and author are still unknown and the book not off the press, Mrs. Florence Jackson Stoddard will include one of the excellent new publications of the year in her talk on "Great Story Tellers" at her studio in the Hotel Portland Tuesday evening. Other literary items of interest will receive attention during the evening.

The romance of early American history, expressed in fascinating figures and fine old houses, will be woven into a tapestry of lectures this season by Miss Mary E. Lazenby,

CONFEDERATE CHIEF SPURNS G. A. R. IDEA

WILL REJECT INVITATION

Oklahoma City, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Declaring that Edwin J. Foster, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, had "completely blown himself out of water" by a proposal that the Confederate veterans march with the Union veterans without displaying the Confederate flag, Gen. R. A. Sneed, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, said here today that he would reject the invitation.

The invitation, contained in a letter from the G. A. R. commander to Sneed, reads:

"So far as I know, there can be but one condition which stands in the way of our coming together, and that is for you, as head of your organization, to pledge to us that the Stars and Bars, your Confederate flag, shall have no place in the parade, * * * but that you will march under the Stars and Stripes."

The tall, white-haired Confederate commander, who also is State treasurer, asserted that he would take his time in replying, and that he would tell the G. A. R. chief that the South did not propose to be dictated to.

Gen. Sneed sent a message to the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Portland, Me., proposing a joint meeting with the Union veterans. The proposal was rejected.

Besides making known his condition, Foster said in his letter:

"In regard to the action of the Grand Army of the Republic regarding a reunion of the Blue and the Gray, which has caused so much criticism from our Southern friends, I believe such a reunion is possible.

"The boys in blue always have been ready to extend the hand of fellowship to our Southern friends and never more than now.

"To the end that a happy result may be obtained, I will say I shall be glad to meet you in Washington or Boston and confer with you on the question of a joint parade."

Indiana Standard Oil To Pay Extra Dividend

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The list of corporations declaring extra, increased, special or initial dividends this week was swelled today by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, Consolidated Gas of New York and several others. The oil company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a common share, while Consolidated Gas put its stock on a $4 annual basis, against $3 previously, by declaring a quarterly disbursement of $1.

Directors of Southern Pipe Line announced a payment of $10 a share to be made from the capital stock reduction account. Directors of the New Jersey Zinc Co. declared an extra dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable December 10, to stock of record November 20.

Rum Ship Sinks in Crash With Coast Guard Boat

New London, Conn., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The British vessel James B., suspected rumrunner, sank within fifteen minutes after her stern had been cut off by the Coast Guard patrol boat Cahoone, 30 miles off the coast of Long Island, last night. The crew of eight was picked up and is being held pending inquiry by customs, immigration and Coast Guard authorities.

Boatswain A. M. A. Haines, commander of the Cahoone, said the accident occurred because the James B., running without lights, crossed the bow of the Coast Guard patrol boat.

Mount Vernon Boats Suspend.

Fred H. Mertens, general manager of the Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall Steamship Co., announced that the daily schedule of two sailings to Mount Vernon has been discontinued for the winter months. The last sailing was at 2 o'clock yesterday.

You can always start the day with a smile if you turn to the page of comics in The Washington Post. Some of America's most famous cartoon characters have their laughable adventures there every day.

Worker Charges Hospital Waste

Federal Inquiry Is Asked by Former Employe of U. S. Institution.

An investigation of the United States Veterans Hospital, No. 49, Philadelphia, and its management by J. S. Covery have been asked by Joseph Piggott, former laundry foreman there, on the grounds that "the hospital is wasting the taxpayers' money." He has already enlisted the aid of Vice President Curtis, he said yesterday, and the Veterans' Bureau has promised to conduct an inquiry.

"The hospital is a disgrace to the Veterans' Bureau," he said. "In the four days that I was there I never saw so much Government property destroyed in all my 25 years of laundry experience. When I reported it to Mr. Covery, he laughed at me."

Unless immediate steps are taken to remedy the situation, Piggott said, he will carry the matter to Congress. The laundry foreman, a veteran of two wars, says that he has no desire to get another job from the Government, but only wants to "put a stop to the waste."

Home Buyers Hit; Need Moratorium

Philadelphia, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Trust companies of Philadelphia that handle many mortgages on small properties have been asked to grant an extension of time or moratorium for six months to help out small but needy home owners. The request was made today by Philip N. Arnold, president of the Philadelphia Real Estate Board, and was the result of a meeting held a few days ago with representatives of trust companies.

Sheriff's sales of small houses have increased greatly recently and real estate men felt it necessary to take some action to save the homes of persons of small means who are honestly striving to meet their obligations.

The plight of some of the small home owners was brought about by the lenders of money demanding the payment of first mortgages because of changed values in real estate.

Goossens to Direct on Air In Afternoon

Will Conduct Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra Over WRC at 3:15. Damrosch at 11 A. M. Gala KDKA Program.

One of the most impressive daytime schedules of music to be heard in a long time will make up WRC's program. The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, under the baton of Eugene Goossens, will be broadcast over a National Broadcasting Co. network at 3:15 o'clock from Rochester.

One of the great musical classics, Beethoven's "Seventh Symphony in A," holds the center of the program. The work was published in 1812 and produced in Vienna the following year. Goossens opens the program with the overture to "Euryanthe," by Weber. Wagner's "Idyll" follows. The program will close with Ottorino Respighi's "Roman Festivals." The work of this modern Italian composer was first introduced to this country by Arturo Toscanini and was recently presented at Carnegie Hall, New York, by the same conductor.

Walter Damrosch will again conduct the Music Appreciation Hour at 11 o'clock this morning. Program details follow:

First half hour: From minuet to scherzo—minuet from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," Lully; minuet from "Symphony in D," Haydn, and minuet (scherzo) from "Symphony, No. 1," Beethoven.

Second half hour: Rounds and canons—three old rounds; andante from "Symphony, No. 1," Beethoven, and the finale from "Sonata" for the piano and violin, Franck, played by Walter Damrosch and Michael Gusikoff.

The Evening Star's program, to be heard at noon, introduces Mary Hopple, contralto, and Darl Bethmann, barytone. The program will be dedicated to WKY, Oklahoma City.

Tonal variety ranging from the emphatic measures of Saint-Saens' "Marche Militaire" to the crooning softness of Kreisler's "Liebeslied" marks the concert which the Pasadena Little Symphony will broadcast from the San Francisco studios at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Rosario Bourdon, conductor, and Merle Johnston, saxophonist, take the limelight in the Cities Service concert when special arrangements of standard favorites are heard at 8 o'clock. Selections range from the classical "Ave Maria" to the jazz of the moment.

The Salon Singers and the Schradertown Band will occupy the hour from 9 to 10 o'clock, when the Planters Pickers take a musical journey through sections of the old South. Billy Artz and his novelty orchestra will be assisted by the Hallelujah Singers in the program.

Jan Garber and his orchestra will be featured in an hour's program from Station WMAL beginning at 11 o'clock. This program will be preceded by a grand opera concert.

Several local features will be heard during the early evening hours, including Bob Carbauh and Edith Reed

A gala program, celebrating nine years of broadcasting by Station KDKA, is scheduled to go on the air at 8:30 o'clock this morning and to continue on the air for 60 consecutive hours. A feature of the celebration will be the announcement of programs in fifteen different languages, and the transmission of the presentations to all the countries of the world by means of short-wave stations.

An hour of dinner music will be presented by WOL, beginning at 7 o'clock, followed at 10 o'clock by a two-hour dance program.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

NOVEMBER 1.
"SCORPIO."

IF November 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:45 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

You will reach important crossroad on life's journey on this date. Read the signs carefully, as you need not make any mistakes! Avoid overwork and worry, and guard your health!

The child born on this November 1 will be moody and impressionistic. It will tread through life along the lines of least resistance. It will be very fond of pleasures and the so-called luxuries of life. It will be emotional, but not very affectionate.

You are not in any way a genius, and you have no outstanding talents—you do, however, possess courage. It is the possession of this one quality which enables you to soar out of the deepest pit of dejection and disappointment, with renewed hopes and fresh plans. Courage is the power which urges you to act and to think and the force which enables you to endure. You are not afraid of life, and you do not shy from its difficulties. You are not rash, and you do not act upon blind impulse. You know your own strength, and you study your pathways before you venture forth. You never go unprepared.

You possess two unusual traits—appreciation and gratitude. You do not take the people and things around you for granted. You are grateful for the comforts and services that surround you day after day, and the kindnesses, hospitality, and affections that are repeatedly shown you. You do not take all these things as rights, for which no special recognition is needed. You try to make returns in some way for everything that you receive.

If a woman, you are a fortress to your husband or friends when the world assails them. You love to "mother" any one or anything, if you feel that they need it.

Charles F. Pidgin, author and statistician.

Stephen Crane, author.

Mme. Albani, operatic star.

Cheiro, famous astrologer.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Discouragements of Youth."

"IF a boy loved you dearly for two years, then asked you to wait for him one year, and then when the year was up, told you to go out with other fellows what would you think?"

This is Elsie speaking, and Elsie goes on to say that the boy works for a big elevator construction company, where advancement is very slow in the beginning. All of this the boy explained two years ago to a very eager Elsie. Now it seems, advancement, though sure, is so very slow that marriage is just a future dream.

However, Elsie thinks that he is tired of her, and Elsie's mother thinks he is only a bookworm anyway. So poor Elsie with her heart so full it seems ready to burst does not know what to do.

"It's so hard today to know when a boy means things. I have had a dozen boys tell me they could never love any one but me—and then in a year be married to somebody who was not me at all. Of course, I never loved any of them, so it did not matter, but this is different. We have known each other seven years and have loved each other for three years. He has never been late, or cross or mean. Only the last few months a little discouraged—acting glum and never jolly. But he has been just as loving as ever, but I know that is no sign, for boys today love and kiss a girl as if she were the only girl on earth, when they don't care a rap about her. How can I know whether he is tired of me and taking a polite way out, or whether he is just ashamed that he can't marry me this year as we planned?"

It seems unbelievable that two humans speaking the same language, planning to unite in the closest of unions imaginable and, having loved and embraced for three years, should be, in their first crisis, as utterly alien to each other, as far apart spiritually as if they had never met. But that is exactly what these two helpless lovers are. They are that, whether he is tired of her—or whether he didn't. The point is that looking into his eyes the girl does not know whether she sees boredom or anguish, whether the boy wants to fling himself down one of the elevator shafts, or find a new girl friend. And these are the well-meaning souls who essay marriage, achieve parenthood and somehow or other sometimes manage to be buried side by side.

Are there no unmistakable evidences of love for these bewildered ones? Married, how do they manage to comprehend each other in the complications that marriage presents? But while we philisophize, Elsie waits. What to tell Elsie, when we have never won a smile from Elsie's lover's eyes, never asked him of what he was thinking on a blue summer's day, never watched storms gather on his brow or kissed his cares away.

We can only tell Elsie that knowing how ghastly are the discouragements of youth it is our guess that the boy feels as if one of his elevators had given way at the top floor of a 40-story building and was well on its way to the cellar with no stops. And if the boy were our boy we would coax the truth from him or die in the attempt. Life isn't all music and roses and dreams coming true. Its radios and heartaches and discouragement, and dreams that refuse to come true, and dreams that come true too late to matter. And that's where love steps forward and says, "What do we care?" And somehow all of a sudden we don't care—we are happy anyway. Step forward Elsie, and see what happens!

Big Contributors Aid Community Chest Fund

Donors of $100 or more to the Community Chest in the 1929 campaign accounted for two-thirds of the total subscribed, according to analysis just made at chest headquarters. This fact, according to Elwood Street, director, indicates that the success of the next campaign, January 27 to February 5, will depend largely on the big contributors.

The number of subscribers in the last campaign was 64,864. An even larger goal will be set for the next drive.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 1.

THIS is the birthday of Laura La-Plante, motion picture star, born this day, 1904, in St. Louis, Mo. Her first appearance in motion pictures was in a leading role in Charley Ray's "The Old Swimmin' Hole." Beauty and a piquant personality soon elevated her to stardom. Pictures in which she has starred include "The Fast Worker," "Young Ideas," "The Dangerous Blond," "Excitement," "The Teaser," and the talking picture, "Hold Your Man."

Emma Albani, one of the greatest dramatic sopranos of her generation, was born this day, 1852, near Montreal. She studied in Milan. Before coming to the United States she scored triumphs in London, Berlin and St. Petersburg. Albani frequently sang before Queen Victoria and other crowned heads of Europe. In 1897 she received the gold Beethoven medal from the London Philharmonic Society as a mark of appreciation of her "exceptional genius and of her musical attainments and of her generous and artistic nature." She published her memoirs under the title, "Forty Years of Song."

WORK'S BRIDGE

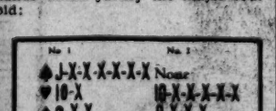
CONTRACT BRIDGE.

IN previous articles we have covered the question of take-outs of partner's bids of one and two No Trumps. This leaves only the overcalling of a bid of three No Trumps to be considered.

When the partner of a three No Trump bidder has some such major suit as Ace-Queen-x-x-x, or King-Queen-x-x-x, it is not advisable for him to bid that suit with the idea that he will thereby be giving the three No Trumper a valuable option between playing at the suit named or rebidding the No Trump, because such option is not needed.

An original bid of one No Trump may have been made with a defenseless suit, and when partner has a strong five-card major there may be game in the major and not in the No Trump and it is important to show the major and give the No Trumper the choice; but when three No Trumps is bid originally, every suit is stopped and a strong five-card major, with or without side support, merely ensures the making of the three No Trumps and there is no point in trying to make four of the major in preference, or of forcing the partner to bid four No Trumps unless the suit-bid be made with slam intent—a subject to be discussed tomorrow.

Inasmuch as we are not bidding four of a major over partner's three No Trumps to show strength in the major, we can put the four-bid to another and much more important use; namely, to show a six-card or longer weak major suit. Either of these two hands would justify the major four-bid:



The bid of three No Trumps has announced strength in every suit and a minimum count of 21; and so there can be little doubt of game at Spades with hand No. 1, or Hearts with No 2. On the other hand, a holding like either of these might fall utterly to render assistance to the No Trumper and, if allowed to play at his bid, he might be set.

So four of a major over three No Trumps denies strength, but affirms length; it practically bars a rebid of the No Trump or a jump of the major suit. It says to the No Trumper: "Let me play it at my bid of four."

Royal Wedding May Be Postponed.

Brussels, Oct. 31 (A.P.). — The newspaper Independence Belge says today that the marriage of Princess Marie Jose to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy may be postponed until February. It has been previously thought that the marriage would take place earlier.

Jane Claire INTERPRETS the MODE

SOME of the high lights in the Lucien Lelong collection we have already described for you. We might go on almost indefinitely. Skirts, for instance, are fairly long, and are circular or pleated. Blouses, when worn, are tucked inside the skirt.

Yokes build the skirt tightly about the hips, and a particularly attractive idea is to take this yoke and tie it into a bow, usually in the back but sometimes in the front—a truly adorable touch. Sometimes these yokes are rather long, bringing the bow low in the back—below or almost below the hips. Some skirts are even hemmed, some dip in several points.

• • • •

Evening gowns are built on the same general plan, though more elaborate. Hips are tight in every case. Rounded petals are used in great numbers. Another attractive skirt treatment is to take a length of chiffon, wrap it tightly about the hips, then swing it down in a large puff, caught up underneath, then down another foot for another puff, and so on, finishing off with hanging ends in the back. One such gown had a tiny black velvet short jacquette, with ermine cuffs.

A new paillette treatment consists in taking triangular paillettes and sewing them into a sort of fish-net effect. Another brilliant effect is embroidered eyelet chiffon. This comes in lovely evening shades, and tiny strass is sewn around the eyelets. This serves as a long cuirass, onto which chiffon is sewn to make the long, soft, clinging skirt.

Some of the evening coats have circular flounces, and many have bands of the material looped over to break the waistline, as do many dresses.

• • • •

A lovely thing to make for any Christmas, something lovely and unusual and very personal! Send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which tells you how to decorate a set of jars for a lovely lady's dressing table! Also how to make art candles, to cover plain wooden and cardboard boxes in a way to make them art boxes! And how to make a beautiful book beautiful outside as well as in.

• • • •

We have struck the black and white note in the evening mode quite often recently in the Dare column, haven't we? Again today a very elegant evening gown from Phillipe et Gaston offers black and white in a different manner—simple, solidly trimmed white georgette frock with black pearls and glittering them with a strass border.

This was hard to illustrate, but actually it was very chic—as your good taste can not but point out to you.

• • • •

You hear a lot about black gloves these days, but you never see any?

The wearing of black gloves is something that must be given very serious consideration. There is just a shade between having them be ever so chic and having them be just plain dowdy.

For instance, when worn with sheer gowns and dinner hats for restaurant dining, they are delightful. Also, when worn with black tailored suits or as the single black color note of an ensemble.

The Christmas Box.

You've heard me chat enough about mandarin coats lately to realize that it is a hobby with me. I admit that I'm my most enthusiastic self on this subject and since I've told you how to make them and where to buy them—all that's on my mind now is—(in a loud whisper)—why not give her a mandarin coat for Christmas

• • • •

Then, as we think we've told you before, the weekly Dare fashion letter appears each Sunday in The Washington Post. Surely, you're looking for it regularly.

FORREST CROSSMAN, an old trouper with 25 years' service on the road, playing tank towns and one-night stands of the early eighties and now doing only the big cities, since the drama is confined to centers of population, writes from Baltimore: "We—meaning the Earl Carrol 'Vanities'—will be in your fair city the week of December 8, and don't let 'em tell you anything different. Yes, sir, we are on the way—and though we love Boston, and other cities where we have played, the gang wants to see Washington, the prettiest of the lot, and the only city I'd live in if I could settle down, and get off the time-tables."

CONSTITUTION HALL, the new home of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will make its formal public bow as Washington's newest auditorium at a gala opening concert tomorrow evening. No less than five great artists will appear on the same program—count 'em, five!—the first attraction in Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Saturday evening concert series. Here, the quintet: Efrem Zimbalist violin virtuoso; Anna Case, American soprano; Cornelia Otis Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, stage star; Sophie Breslau, contralto, and Hans Barth, pianist. As Mr. Earl Dorsey writes in to say, "Boys, this is a galaxy!"

MR. JIMMY LAKE, the genial manager of the Gayety, believes you must never look a gift horse in the face. "However," says the sage of Ninth street, "the old adage doesn't apply to stockings—and especially silk stockings." So the grand old man of burlesque, knowing that many a good lass who played the stock market and lost might want to have an extra pair of stockings or so has instituted what he calls "Silk Stocking Day" at the Gayety. This, it seems, is every Monday—when, through some sort of ticket billing, the lucky ladies are enabled to save their husbands or fathers the price of a pair.

FRANK BEASTON, the young actor who plays the lead role in "She Walked Home"—he being the fellow whose car the young lady took so she wouldn't have to hike over the hills—is well known in this parish where he once was an acolyte. 'Twas in the dear, dead days of the old Belasco stock company that Frank got his start, in a play by the beloved Prince Bibesco—an opus called, "His Wife's Other Husband," or something like that. Then Frank branched out as an aspirant for higher theatrical honors. Later, he appeared here as the reporter in "The Gorilla" and made stage history by being the first actor ever to play a repertorial role without a note-book and pencil.

AT a little dinner party to Clifford Brooke, stage and screen director, here with Anne Nichols' new play at Poli's, some one managed to make Cliff divulge his plans for the future. He is not going to remain on Broadway this year, but is going back to the Coast—and soon after he gets there his first big all-talking picture will be released. It is called "Devil May Care." If plans go through there will be a preshowing for Washington friends of Mr. Brooke at the National Press Club, with Nelson Bell master of ceremonies.

"AND now," writes one who signs himself or herself, "A Lover of the Theater," "if Justice Gordon would only send about half a dozen dramatic critics to jail for 45 days or a year all would be serene along the lovely banks of the Potomac." Maybe so. Or if some one, preferably an actress, would produce a stiff uppercut to the chin of one of our local tribe perhaps that, too, might furnish a bit of joy to "A Lover of the Theater." From this vantage spot it looks as if the party is getting a little rough.

MISS NATALIE BOISCLAIR, who has the part of Fernaldo in Brock Pemberton's "Seven Years Love," now playing at the National, is a Wisconsin University girl who has just come East to make her initial appearance on the professional stage. Miss Boisclair has adopted her mother's name for her present role. She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in June as Miss Bernadine Flynn. For eight years she played leads in nearly all amateur theatricals at Madison. In her high school days she appeared as the Touchstone in "As You Like It," and as the Shadow of the Leaf in "Sherwood." In her freshman years at the university she played the lead in "Joan of Arc." She had the part of Princess Alexandria in "The Swann," Ann in "The Dover Road," Sister Joanna of the Cross in the "Cradle Song," Julie in "Lilliom" and Ann in "Outward Bound." In her junior and senior years at Madison Miss Flynn had the leads in the summer repertoire of the University of Wisconsin players. Now, all she wants to do is play the same parts on the professional stage. Those who have watched her work believe she has great possibilities.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

TOBACCO AND ITS EFFECT.

DR. W. M. JOHNSON has a report of a clinical study of smokers which is rather more favorable to tobacco than most others have been. Dr. Johnson is from a tobacco growing State, but he pleads as an offset that he does not use tobacco himself and is not an advocate of its use.

His conclusions are as follows:

1. Tobacco smoking apparently has no permanent effect on the blood pressure.

2. If it affects blood pressure at all it temporarily reduces it.

3. It is doubtful whether tobacco plays a major part in causing angina pectoris.

4. The effect of tobacco smoking is chiefly local, exerted principally on the pharynx.

5. There is no foundation for the popular belief that smoking decreases the weight of an individual.

Some of the observations bearing on these conclusions were: "As to its effect on the nervous system, I am inclined to think that the average highly nervous man smokes to excess because he is nervous rather than that he is nervous because he smokes to excess. In the average individual the effect of a smoke seems to be more soothing than stimulating." A nervous man, feeling impelled to do something with his hands, smokes as an outlet for his motor energy.

Dr. Johnson found no evidence that a pregnant woman who smoked harmed her baby. The same held true of nursing women. That nausea, vomiting and sometimes diarrhea are caused by acute tobacco intoxication has been noted by every one who has gone through the pangs of learning to smoke. But once tolerance has been established, Dr. Johnson finds that tobacco has no effect on the alimentary tract. It neither promotes nor harms appetite, improves or interferes with digestion, nor has it any laxative action except it be some indirect psychic effect. He finds no proof that the use of tobacco causes ulcer of the stomach or interferes with its cure.

It will be objected that these are not the objections of a physiologist. Dr. Johnson sets us right on that. He observed a group of smokers as they went about their work, as a practicing physician might do. He compared what happened to them with the health histories of a like number of nonsmokers living under about the same circumstances.

RELIEVING HEAD NOISES.

Mrs. W. R. W. writes: Recently I noticed a letter in which a person asked what he could do to relieve head noises and you said little could be done and the sufferer should forget them. I wonder if my experiences would in any way assist this party in securing relief.

Some time ago I experienced this same trouble, having to listen all day to what felt like the sound of waves, then again a steam engine, &c. While this was very noticeable all during the day, when I tried to go to sleep and things were quieter, I thought I would go insane. Luckily an eye, ear and throat specialist found a soft ball of wax imbedded in the ear. After this was washed out and the ear properly cleaned all noises left. About a month ago a dozen carpenters seemed to be using their hammers in the other ear. I lost no time in consulting the doctor again and found the same thing was causing the trouble. And I thought I knew how to clean my ears by this time. It is worth trying, anyhow.

REPLY:

That possibility of cure should be looked into always. You were lucky as well as wise.

Purposes of Deep Sea Diving.

MANY sea divers go down for sponges, but divers who wear regular suits are likely to have other purposes.

Sometimes there is a breakwater to be repaired. Sometimes there is work to be done for the foundation of a dam across a deep river.

More romantic is the work of studying the bottom of the sea, or of seeking sunken treasure. During the World War thousands of merchant ships were sunk—some of them in fairly shallow water. A diver sometimes works on commission. If he finds treasure he can keep part of it for himself.

The deep sea diver usually works at depths of from 40 to 100 feet. He can remain under water for two hours at a depth of 40 feet. When he must work more than 100 feet under the surface he seldom remains down longer than 20 minutes at a time. The high pressure of great depths may cause air bubbles to pass into the heart, causing death.

When a diver is pulled up from a great depth he must be pulled slowly. Otherwise he may be seized with "diver's palsy."

Several new inventions have been made in recent times to help man to reach great depths of the sea. There is a "castle tower" in which a man may be let down to a depth as great as 500 feet. This is lowered and raised by a derrick.

Moving pictures have been taken at the bottom of the sea. This has been done where the sea is fairly shallow. There are places where the ocean is 4 or 5 miles deep. No man has ever gone down that deep, and it is not likely that any one will do so for a long time to come. It is quite possible, however, that means will be found to let down movie cameras to a depth of more than a mile, with lights which will brighten up the inky depths and give us pictures of the fish which live down there.

Jeers Greet Boess In German Capital

Lord Mayor of Berlin and Wife Hissed Returning From America.

Berlin, Oct. 31 (A.P.). — Gustav Boess, Lord Mayor of Berlin, returned tonight from his American tour and was greeted with jeers and hisses, both at the railway station and again as he and Frau Boess entered their home. The demonstration here echoed one which took place as he debarked from the steamer Bremen at Bremerhaven earlier in the day.

The manifestations of displeasure resulted from a scandal over contracts in the city administration. This came to a head while the lord mayor was visiting points in California, but he ignored resolutions by the Berlin city council requesting his early return and refused to curtail his trip.

Both in this city and at Bremerhaven police were forced to disperse the demonstrators. At the railway station in Berlin the lord mayor and his wife were hurried out through a private exit so that they would not have to face the crowd, but they found another gathering in front of their home.

The social news in The Washington Post is unparalleled in interest because it concerns those people about whom one wishes most to know.

Nobel Prize Split In Medical Award

British and Dutch Doctors to Share Distinction in 1929 Group.

Stockholm, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The Nobel prize in medicine for 1929 has been divided between Dr. Frederick Gowland Hopkins, professor of biochemistry at the University of Cambridge, England, and Dr. C. Eijkmann, a professor at the University of Utrecht, Holland, the Caroline Institute of Stockholm announced tonight.

Dr. Hopkins was born in 1861 and has been one of the pioneers in the study of vitamines and is a member of the English vitamine committee.

Prof. James B. Sumner, of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., now is regarded as the most likely candidate for the Nobel prize in chemistry, the winner of which will be announced by the Swedish Academy of Science on November 12. He came to Stockholm last July to explain to Swedish chemists his method for the isolation of enzymes, the agencies which cause fermentation in yeast.

Dr. Simon to Talk on Book.

Dr. Abram Simon, rabbi of the Washington Hebrew Congregation Temple, will give an interpretation of Edmond Flagg's newest book, "Why I Am a Jew," at 8 o'clock tonight.

CONFEDERATE CHIEF SPURNS G. A. R. IDEA

WILL REJECT INVITATION

Oklahoma City, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Declaring that Edwin J. Foster, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, had "completely blown himself out of water" by a proposal that the Confederate veterans march with the Union veterans without displaying the Confederate flag, Gen. R. A. Sneed, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, said here today that he would reject the invitation.

The invitation, contained in a letter from the G. A. R. commander to Sneed, reads:

"So far as I know, there can be but one condition which stands in the way of our coming together, and that is for you, as head of your organization, to pledge to us that the Stars and Bars, your Confederate flag, shall have no place in the parade. * * * but that you will march under the Stars and Stripes."

The tall, white-haired Confederate commander, who also is State treasurer, asserted that he would take his time in replying, and that he would tell the G. A. R. chief that the South did not propose to be dictated to.

Gen. Sneed sent a message to the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Portland, Me., proposing a joint meeting with the Union veterans. The proposal was rejected.

Besides making known his condition, Foster said in his letter:

"In regard to the action of the Grand Army of the Republic regarding a reunion of the Blue and the Gray, which has caused so much criticism from our Southern friends, I believe such a reunion is possible.

"The boys in blue always have been ready to extend the hand of fellowship to our Southern friends and never more than now.

"To the end that a happy result may be obtained, I will say I shall be glad to meet you in Washington or Boston and confer with you on the question of a joint parade."

Indiana Standard Oil To Pay Extra Dividend

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The list of corporations declaring extra, increased, special or initial dividends this week was swelled today by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, Consolidated Gas of New York and several others. The oil company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a common share, while Consolidated Gas put its stock on a $4 annual basis, against $3 previously, by declaring a quarterly disbursement of $1.

Directors of Southern Pipe Line announced a payment of $40 a share to be made from the capital stock reduction account. Directors of the New Jersey Zinc Co. declared an extra dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable December 10, to stock of record November 20.

Rum Ship Sinks in Crash With Coast Guard Boat

New London, Conn., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The British vessel James B., suspected rumrunner, sank within fifteen minutes after her stern had been cut off by the Coast Guard patrol boat Cahoone, 30 miles off the coast of Long Island, last night. The crew of eight was picked up and is being held pending inquiry by customs, immigration and Coast Guard authorities.

Boatswain A. M. A. Haines, commander of the Cahoone, said the accident occurred because the James B., running without lights, crossed the bow of the Coast Guard patrol boat.

Mount Vernon Boats Suspend.

Fred H. Mertens, general manager of the Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall Steamship Co., announced that the daily schedule of two sailings to Mount Vernon has been discontinued for the winter months. The last sailing was at 2 o'clock yesterday.

Worker Charges Hospital Waste

An investigation of the United States Veterans Hospital, No. 49, Philadelphia, and its management by J. S. Covery have been asked by Joseph Piggott, former laundry foreman there, on the grounds that "the hospital is wasting the taxpayers' money." He has already enlisted the aid of Vice President Curtis, he said yesterday, and the Veterans' Bureau has promised to conduct an inquiry.

"The hospital is a disgrace to the Veterans' Bureau," he said. "In the four days that I was there I never saw so much Government property destroyed in all my 25 years of laundry experience. When I reported it to Mr. Covery, he laughed at me."

Unless immediate steps are taken to remedy the situation, Piggott said, he will carry the matter to Congress. The laundry foreman, a veteran of two wars, says that he has no desire to get another job from the Government, but only wants to "put a stop to the waste."

Home Buyers Hit; Need Moratorium

Philadelphia, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Trust companies of Philadelphia that handle many mortgages on small properties have been asked to grant an extension of time or moratorium for six months to help out small but needy home owners. The request was made today by Philip N. Arnold, president of the Philadelphia Real Estate Board, and was the result of a meeting held a few days ago with representatives of trust companies.

Sheriff's sales of small houses have increased greatly recently and real estate men felt it necessary to take some action to save the homes of persons of small means who are honestly striving to meet their obligations.

The plight of some of the small home owners was brought about by the lenders of money demanding the payment of first mortgages because of changed values in real estate.

Goossens to Direct on Air In Afternoon

Will Conduct Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra Over WRC at 3:15. Damrosch at 11 A. M. Gala KDKA Program.

One of the most impressive daytime schedules of music to be heard in a long time will make up WRC's program. The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, under the baton of Eugene Goossens, will be broadcast over a National Broadcasting Co. network at 3:15 o'clock from Rochester.

One of the great musical classics, Beethoven's "Seventh Symphony in A" holds the center of the program. The work was published in 1812 and produced in Vienna the following year. Goossens opens the program with the overture to "Euryanthe," by Weber. Wagner's "Idyll" follows. The program will close with Ottorino Respighi's "Roman Festivals." The work of this modern Italian composer was first introduced to this country by Arturo Toscanini and was recently presented at Carnegie Hall, New York, by the same conductor.

Walter Damrosch will again conduct the Music Appreciation Hour at 11 o'clock this morning. Program details follow:

A First half hour: From minuet to scherzo—minuet from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," Lully; minuet from "Symphony in D," Haydn, and minuet (scherzo) from "Symphony, No. 1," Beethoven.

Second half hour: Rounds and canons—three old rounds; andante from "Symphony, No. 1," Beethoven, and the finale from "Sonata" for the piano and violin, Franck, played by Walter Damrosch and Michael Gusikoff.

The Evening Star's program, to be heard at noon, introduces Mary Hopple, contralto, and Darl Bethmann, barytone. The program will be dedicated to WKY, Oklahoma City.

A Tonal variety ranging from the emphatic measures of Saint-Saens' "Marche Militaire" to the crooning softness of Kreisler's "Liebesliled" marks the concert which the Pasic Little Symphony will broadcast from the San Francisco studios at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Rosario Bourdon, conductor, and Merle Johnston, saxophonist, take the limelight in the Cities Service concert when special arrangements of standard favorites are heard at 8 o'clock. Selections range from the classical "Ave Maria" to the jazz of the moment.

The Salon Singers and the Schrachertown Band will occupy the hour from 9 to 10 o'clock, when the Planters Pickers take a musical journey through sections of the old South. Billy Artz and his novelty orchestra will be assisted by the Hallelujah Singers in the program.

Jan Garber and his orchestra will be featured in an hour's program from Station WMAL beginning at 11 o'clock. This program will be preceded by a grand opera concert.

Several vocal features will be heard during the early evening hours, including Bob Carbauh and Edith Reed

A gala program, celebrating nine years of broadcasting by Station KDKA, is scheduled to go on the air at 8:30 o'clock this morning and to continue on the air for 60 consecutive hours. A feature of the celebration will be the announcement of programs in fifteen different languages, and the transmission of the presentations to all the countries of the world by means of short-wave stations.

An hour of dinner music will be presented by WOL, beginning at 7 o'clock, followed at 10 o'clock by a two-hour dance program.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

NOVEMBER 1.
"SCORPIO."

IF November 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:45 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

You will reach important crossroad on life's journey on this date. Read the signs carefully, as you need not make any mistakes! Avoid overwork and worry, and guard your health!

The child born on this November 1 will be moody and impressionistic. It will tread through life along the lines of least resistance. It will be very fond of pleasures and the so-called luxuries of life. It will be emotional, but not very affectionate.

You are not in any way a genius, and you have no outstanding talents—you do, however, possess courage. It is the possession of this one quality which enables you to soar out of the deepest pit of dejection and disappointment, with renewed hopes and fresh plans. Courage is the power which urges you to act and to think and the force which enables you to endure. You are not afraid of life, and you do not shy from its difficulties. You are not rash, and you do not act upon blind impulse. You know your own strength, and you study your pathways before you venture forth. You never go unprepared.

You possess two unusual traits—appreciation and gratitude. You do not take the people and things around you for granted. You are grateful for the comforts and services that surround you day after day, and the kindnesses, hospitality, and affections that are repeatedly shown you. You do not take all these things as rights, for which no special recognition is needed. You try to make returns in some way for everything that you receive.

If a woman, you are a fortress to your husband or friends when the world assails them. You love to "mother" any one or anything, if you feel that they need it.

Charles F. Pidgin, author and statistician.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Discouragements of Youth."

"IF a boy loved you dearly for two years, then asked you to wait for him one year, and then when the year was up, told you to go out with other fellows what would you think?"

This is Elsie speaking, and Elsie goes on to say that the boy works for a big elevator construction company, where advancement is very slow in the beginning. All of this the boy explained two years ago to a very eager Elsie. Now it seems, advancement, though sure, is so very slow that marriage is just a future dream.

However, Elsie thinks that he is tired of her, and Elsie's mother thinks he is only a bookworm anyway. So poor Elsie with her heart so full it seems ready to burst does not know what to do.

"It's so hard today to know when a boy means things. I have had a dozen boys tell me they could never love any one but me—and then in a year be married to somebody who was not me at all. Of course, I never loved any of them, so it did not matter, but this is different. We have known each other seven years and have loved each other for three years. He has never been late, or cross or mean. Only the last few months a little discouraged—acting glum and never jolly. But he has been just as loving as ever, but I know that is no sign, for boys today love and kiss a girl as if she were the only girl on earth, when they don't care a rap about her. How can I know whether he is tired of me and taking a polite way out, or whether he is just ashamed that he can't marry me this year as we planned?"

It seems unbelievable that two humans speaking the same language, planning to unite in the closest of unions imaginable and, having loved and embraced for three years, should be, in their first crisis, as utterly alien to each other, as far apart spiritually as if they had never met. But that is exactly what these two helpless lovers are. They are that, whether he is tired of her—or whether he didn't. The point is that looking into his eyes the girl does not know whether she sees boredom or anguish, whether the boy wants to fling himself down one of the elevator shafts, or find a new girl friend. And these are the well-meaning souls who essay marriage, achieve parenthood and somehow or other sometimes manage to be buried side by side.

Are there no unmistakable evidences of love for these bewildered ones? Married, how do they manage to comprehend each other in the complications that marriage presents? But while we phillisophize, Elsie waits. What to tell Elsie, when we have never won a smile from Elsie's lover's eyes, never asked him of what he was thinking on a blue summer's day, never watched storms gather on his brow or kissed his cares away.

We can only tell Elsie that knowing how ghastly are the discouragements of youth it is our guess that the boy feels as if one of his elevators had given way at the top floor of a 40-story building and was well on its way to the cellar with no stops. And if the boy were our boy, we would coax the truth from him or die in the attempt. Life isn't all music and roses and dreams coming true. Its radios and heartaches and discouragement, and dreams that refuse to come true, and dreams that come true too late to matter. And that's where love steps forward and says, "What do we care?" And somehow all of a sudden we don't care—we are happy anyway. Step forward Elsie, and see what happens!

Big Contributors Aid Community Chest Fund

Donors of $100 or more to the Community Chest in the 1929 campaign accounted for two-thirds of the total subscribed, according to analysis just made at chest headquarters. This fact, according to Elwood Street, director, indicates that the success of the next campaign, January 27 to February 5, will depend largely on the big contributors.

The number of subscribers in the last campaign was 64,864. An even larger goal will be set for the next drive.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 1.

THIS is the birthday of Laura La-Plante, motion picture star, born this day, 1904, in St. Louis, Mo. Her first appearance in motion pictures was in a leading role in Charley Ray's "The Old Swimmin' Hole." Beauty and a piquant personality soon elevated her to stardom. Pictures in which she has starred include "The Fast Worker," "Young Ideas," "The Dangerous Blond," "Excitement," "The Teaser," and the talking picture, "Hold Your Man."

Emma Albani, one of the greatest dramatic sopranos of her generation, was born this day, 1852, near Montreal. She studied in Milan. Before coming to the United States she scored triumphs in London, Berlin and St. Petersburg. Albani frequently sang before Queen Victoria and other crowned heads of Europe. In 1897 she received the gold Beethoven medal from the London Philharmonic Society as a mark of appreciation of her "exceptional genius and of her musical attainments and of her generous and artistic nature." She published her memoirs under the title, "Forty Years of Song."

WORK'S BRIDGE

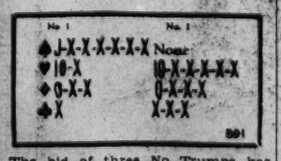
CONTRACT BRIDGE.

IN previous articles we have covered the question of take-outs of partner's bids of one and two No Trumps. This leaves only the over-calling of a bid of three No Trumps to be considered.

When the partner of a three No Trump bidder has some such major suit as Ace-Queen-x-x-x, or King-Queen-x-x-x, it is not advisable for him to bid that suit with the idea that he will thereby be giving the three No Trumper a valuable option between playing at the suit named or rebidding the No Trump, because such option is not needed.

An original bid of one No Trump may have been made with a defenseless suit, and when partner has a strong five-card major there may be game in the major and not in the No Trump and it is important to show the major and give the No Trumper the choice; but when three No Trumps is bid originally, every suit is stopped and a strong five-card major, with or without side support, merely ensures the making of the three No Trumps and there is no point in trying to make four of the major in preference, or of forcing the partner to bid four No Trumps unless the suit-bid be made with slam intent—a subject to be discussed tomorrow.

Inasmuch as we are not bidding four of a major over partner's three No Trumps to show strength in the major, we can put the four-bid to another and much more important use; namely, to show a six-card or longer weak major suit. Either of these two hands would justify the major four-bid:



The bid of three No Trumps has announced strength in every suit and a minimum count of 21; and so there can be little doubt of game at Spades with hand No. 1, or Hearts with No 2. On the other hand, a holding like either of these might fail utterly to render assistance to the No Trumper and, if allowed to play at his bid, he might be set.

So four of a major over three No Trumps denies strength, but affirms length; it practically bars a rebid of the No Trump or a jump of the major suit. It says to the No Trumper: "Let me play it at my bid of four."

Royal Wedding May Be Postponed.

Brussels, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The newspaper Independence Belge says today that the marriage of Princess Marie Jose to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy may be postponed until February. It has been previously thought that the marriage would take place earlier.

Jane Interprets the Mode

SOME of the high lights in the Lucien Lelong collection we have already described for you. We might go on almost indefinitely. Skirts, for instance, are fairly long, and are circular or pleated. Blouses, when worn, are tucked inside the skirt.

Yokes build the skirt tightly about the hips, and a particularly attractive idea is to take this yoke and tie it into a bow, usually in the back but sometimes in the front—a truly adorable touch. Sometimes these yokes are rather long, bringing the bow low in the back—below or almost below the hips. Some skirts are even hemmed, some dip in several points.

• • • •

Evening gowns are built on the same general plan, though more elaborate. Hips are tight in every case. Rounded petals are used in great numbers. Another attractive skirt treatment is to take a length of chiffon, wrap it tightly about the hips, then swing it down in a large puff, caught up underneath, then down another foot for another puff, and so on, finishing off with hanging ends in the back. One such gown had a tiny black velvet short jacquette, with ermine cuffs.

A new paillette treatment consists in taking triangular paillettes and sewing them into a sort of fish-net effect. Another brilliant effect is embroidered eyelet chiffon. This comes in lovely evening shades, and tiny strass is sewn around the eyelets. This serves as a long culrass, onto which chiffon is sewn to make the long, soft, clinging skirt.

Some of the evening coats have circular flounces, and many have bands of the material looped over to break the waistline, as do many dresses.

• • • •

A lovely thing to make for any Christmas, something lovely and unusual and very personal! Send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which tells you how to decorate a set of jars for a lovely lady's dressing table! Also how to make art candles, to cover plain wooden and cardboard boxes in a way to make them art boxes! And how to make a beautiful book beautiful outside as well as in.

• • • •

We have struck the black and white note in the evening mode quite often recently in the Dare column, haven't we? Again today a very elegant evening gown from Phillipe et Gaston offers black and white in a different manner—simple, solidly trimmed white georgette frock with black pearls and glittering them with a strass border.

This was hard to illustrate, but actually it was very chic—as your good taste can not but point out to you.

• • • •

You hear a lot about black gloves these days, but you never see any?

The wearing of black gloves is something that must be given very serious consideration. There is just a shade between having them be ever so chic and having them be just plain dowdy.

For instance, when worn with sheer gowns and dinner hats for restaurant dining, they are delightful. Also, when worn with black tailored suits or as the single black color note of an ensemble.

• • • •

The Christmas Box.

You've heard me chat enough about mandarin coats lately to realize that it is a hobby with me. I admit that I'm my most enthusiastic self on this subject and since I've told you how to make them and where to buy them—all that's on my mind now is—(in a loud whisper)—why not give her a mandarin coat for Christmas

• • • •

Then, as we think we've told you before, the weekly Dare fashion letter appears each Sunday in The Washington Post. Surely, you're looking for it regularly.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

TOBACCO AND ITS EFFECT.

DR. W. M. JOHNSON has a report of a clinical study of smokers which is rather more favorable to tobacco than most others have been. Dr. Johnson is from a tobacco growing State, but he pleads as an offset that he does not use tobacco himself and is not an advocate of its use.

His conclusions are as follows:

1. Tobacco smoking apparently has no permanent effect on the blood pressure.

2. If it affects blood pressure at all it temporarily reduces it.

3. It is doubtful whether tobacco plays a major part in causing angina pectoris.

4. The effect of tobacco smoking is chiefly local, exerted principally on the pharynx.

5. There is no foundation for the popular belief that smoking decreases the weight of an individual.

Some of the observations bearing on these conclusions were: "As to its effect on the nervous system, I am inclined to think that the average highly nervous man smokes to excess because he is nervous rather than that he is nervous because he smokes to excess. In the average individual the effect of a smoke seems to be more soothing than stimulating." A nervous man, feeling impelled to do something with his hands, smokes as an outlet for his motor energy.

Dr. Johnson found no evidence that a pregnant woman who smoked harmed her baby. The same held true of nursing women. That nausea, vomiting and sometimes diarrhea are caused by acute tobacco intoxication has been noted by every one who has gone through the pangs of learning to smoke. But once tolerance has been established, Dr. Johnson finds that tobacco has no effect on the alimentary tract. It neither promotes nor harms appetite, improves or interferes with digestion, nor has it any laxative action except it be some indirect psychic effect. He finds no proof that the use of tobacco causes ulcer of the stomach or interferes with its cure.

It will be objected that these are not the objections of a physiologist. Dr. Johnson sets us right on that. He observed a group of smokers as they went about their work, as a practicing physician might do. He compared what happened to them with the health histories of a like number of nonsmokers living under about the same circumstances.

RELIEVING HEAD NOISES.

Mrs. W. R. W. writes: Recently I noticed a letter in which a person asked what he could do to relieve head noises and you said little could be done and the sufferer should forget them. I wonder if my experiences would in any way assist this party in securing relief.

Some time ago I experienced this same trouble, having to listen all day to what felt like the sound of waves, then again a steam engine, &c. While this was very noticeable all during the day, when I tried to go to sleep and things were quieter, I thought I would go insane. Luckily an eye, ear and throat specialist found a soft ball of wax imbedded in the ear. After this was washed out and the ear properly cleaned all noises left. About a month ago a dozen carpenters seemed to be using their hammers in the other ear. I lost no time in consulting the doctor again and found the same thing was causing the trouble. And I thought I knew how to clean my ears by this time. It is worth trying, anyhow.

REPLY:

That possibility of cure should be looked into always. You were lucky as well as wise.

FORREST CROSSMAN, an old trouper with 25 years' service on the road, playing tank towns and one-night stands of the early eighties and now doing only the big cities, since the drama is confined to centers of population, writes from Baltimore: "We—meaning the Earl Carrol 'Vanities'—will be in your fair city the week of December 8, and don't let 'em tell you anything different. Yes, sir, we are on the way—and though we love Boston, and other cities where we have played, the gang wants to see Washington, the prettiest of the lot, and the only city I'd live in if I could settle down, and get off the time-tables."

CONSTITUTION HALL, the new home of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will make its formal public bow as Washington's newest auditorium at a gala opening concert tomorrow evening. No less than five great artists will appear on the same program—count 'em, five!—the first attraction in Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Saturday evening concert series. Here, the quintet: Efrem Zimbalist violin virtuoso; Anna Case, American soprano; Cornelia Otis Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, stage star; Sophie Breslau, contralto, and Hans Barth, pianist. As Mr. Earl Dorsey writes in to say, "Boys, this is a galaxy!"

MR. JIMMY LAKE, the genial manager of the Gayety, believes you must never look a gift horse in the face. "However," says the sage of Ninth street, "the old adage doesn't apply to stockings—and especially silk stockings." So the grand old man of burlesque, knowing that many a good lass who played the stock market and lost might want to have an extra pair of stockings or so has instituted what he calls "Silk Stocking Day" at the Gayety. This, it seems, is every Monday—when, through some sort of ticket billing, the lucky ladies are enabled to save their husbands or fathers the price of a pair.

FRANK BEASTON, the young actor who plays the lead role in "She Walked Home"—he being the fellow whose car the young lady took so she wouldn't have to hike over the hills—is well known in this parish where he once was an acolyte. 'Twas in the dear, dead days of the old Belasco stock company that Frank got his start, in a play by the beloved Prince Bibesco—an opus called, "His Wife's Other Husband," or something like that. Then Frank branched out as an aspirant for higher theatrical honors. Later, he appeared here as the reporter in "The Gorilla" and made stage history by being the first actor ever to play a repertorial role without a note-book and pencil.

AT a little dinner party to Clifford Brooke, stage and screen director, here with Anne Nichols' new play at Poli's, some one managed to make Cliff divulge his plans for the future. He is not going to remain on Broadway this year, but is going back to the Coast—and soon after he gets there his first big all-talking picture will be released. It is called "Devil May Care." If plans go through there will be a preshowing for Washington friends of Mr. Brooke at the National Press Club, with Nelson Bell master of ceremonies.

"AND now," writes one who signs himself or herself, "A Lover of the Theater," "If Justice Gordon would only send about half a dozen dramatic critics to jail for 45 days or a year all would be serene along the lovely banks of the Potomac." Maybe so. Or if some one, preferably an actress, would produce a stiff uppercut to the chin of one of our local tribe perhaps that, too, might furnish a bit of joy to "A Lover of the Theater." From this vantage spot it looks as if the party is getting a little rough.

MISS NATALIE BOISCLAIR, who has the part of Fernaldo in Brock Pemberton's "Seven Years Love," now playing at the National, is a Wisconsin University girl who has just come East to make her initial appearance on the professional stage. Miss Boisclair has adopted her mother's name for her present role. She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in June as Miss Bernadine Flynn. For eight years she played leads in nearly all amateur theatricals at Madison. In her high school days she appeared as the Touchstone in "As You Like It," and as the Shadow of the Leaf in "Sherwood." In her freshman years at the university she played the lead in "Joan of Arc." She had the part of Princess Alexandria in "The Swann," Ann in "The Dover Road," Sister Joanna of the Cross in the "Cradle Song," Julie in "Lilliom" and Ann in "Outward Bound." In her junior and senior years at Madison Miss Flynn had the leads in the summer repertoire of the University of Wisconsin players. Now, all she wants to do is play the same parts on the professional stage. Those who have watched her work believe she has great possibilities.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Purposes of Deep Sea Diving.

MANY sea divers go down for sponges, but divers who wear regular suits are likely to have other purposes.

Sometimes there is a breakwater to be repaired. Sometimes there is work to be done for the foundation of a dam across a deep river.

More romantic is the work of studying the bottom of the sea, or of seeking sunken treasure. During the World War thousands of merchant ships were sunk—some of them in fairly shallow water. A diver sometimes works on commission. If he finds treasure he can keep part of it for himself.

The deep sea diver usually works at depths of from 40 to 100 feet. He can remain under water for two hours at a depth of 40 feet. When he must work more than 100 feet under the surface he seldom remains down longer than 20 minutes at a time. The high pressure of great depths may cause air bubbles to pass into the heart, causing death.

When a diver is pulled up from a great depth he must be pulled slowly. Otherwise he may be seized with "diver's palsy."

Several new inventions have been made in recent times to help man to reach great depths of the sea. There is a "castle tower" in which a man may be let down to a depth as great as 500 feet. This is lowered and raised by a derrick.

Moving pictures have been taken at the bottom of the sea. This has been done where the sea is fairly shallow. There are places where the ocean is 4 or 5 miles deep. No man has ever gone down that deep, and it is not likely that any one will do so for a long time to come. It is quite possible, however, that means will be found to let down movie cameras to a depth of more than a mile, with lights which will brighten up the inky depths and give us pictures of the fish which live down there.

Jeers Greet Boess In German Capital

Lord Mayor of Berlin and Wife Hissed Returning From America.

Berlin, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Gustav Boess, Lord Mayor of Berlin, returned tonight from his American tour and was greeted with jeers and hisses, both at the railway station and again as he and Frau Boess entered their home. The demonstration here echoed one which took place as he debarked from the steamer Bremen at Bremerhaven earlier in the day.

The manifestations of displeasure resulted from a scandal over contracts in the city administration. This came to a head while the lord mayor was visiting points in California, but he ignored resolutions by the Berlin city council requesting his early return and refused to curtail his trip.

Both in this city and at Bremerhaven police were forced to disperse the demonstrators. At the railway station in Berlin the lord mayor and his wife were hurried out through a private exit so that they would not have to face the crowd, but they found another gathering in front of their home.

Nobel Prize Split In Medical Award

British and Dutch Doctors to Share Distinction in 1929 Group.

Stockholm, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The Nobel prize in medicine for 1929 has been divided between Dr. Frederick Gowland Hopkins, professor of biochemistry at the University of Cambridge, England, and Dr. C. Eijkmann, a professor at the University of Utrecht, Holland, the Caroline Institute of Stockholm announced tonight.

Dr. Hopkins was born in 1861 and has been one of the pioneers in the study of vitamines and is a member of the English vitamine committee.

Prof. James B. Sumner, of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., now is regarded as the most likely candidate for the Nobel prize in chemistry, the winner of which will be announced by the Swedish Academy of Science on November 12. He came to Stockholm last July to explain to Swedish chemists his method for the isolation of enzymes, the agencies which cause fermentation in yeast.

Falling Steel Injures Worker.

While unloading steel bars from a car at Fifteenth and B streets northwest yesterday, Ryland Du Puy, colored, 24 years old, of 1666 Thirty-second street northwest, suffered a crushed foot and a possible fracture of the left leg when a piece of steel fell upon him. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

They didn't work so hard- But they worked FAST!

HERE'S a complete education in modern youth, fun-loving, love-loving, thrill-crazy! Never such a glorious entertainment, rippling with laughs, lilting with gay tunes, jazzy with beauty! It's the picture that's being talked about from Coast to Coast as the greatest thus far of the talkies!

MACDONALD PLANS TOUR OF DOMINIONS

Premier, Nearing Home Soil, Hopes to Visit Africa and Australia.

ROUGH SEA MARS TRIP

S. S. Duchess of York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Ramsay MacDonald, having plumbed American thought on naval disarmament and established close contact with the Dominion of Canada, now wishes to visit South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

"In these times of change and evolution," he said today, "I feel the need of closer contact with all the dominions in the British Empire. I wish to go next to South Africa, New Zealand and Austria in order to complete the round."

Mr. MacDonald added that he had no definite plans and could not say at present just when he would be able to make the trip.

Rough Sea Mars Trip.

Before dawn the Duchess of York will anchor off Liverpool and the voyage, which the premier hoped would afford him a much needed rest, will have ended. He had, however, little opportunity for recuperating from the exertions of his activities in the United States and Canada as the passage across the North Atlantic was rough. There was a howling southeast gale and little or no sunshine after the vessel emerged from the protective waters of the St. Lawrence.

The steamer ploughed steadily through the storm, but her deck tilted to all angles when the gale was at its worst. None of the premier's party was confined to a cabin on account of seasickness, but all felt the effects of the rough passage.

Miss Isabel MacDonald and her father managed to tramp the deck daily but she risked dancing only a few times in the salon, the floor of which rose and fell like the waves of the ocean.

Reception Plans Curtailed.

Liverpool, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—A civic reception for Ramsay MacDonald, planned for tomorrow morning when he debarks at this port on his return from his North American trip, has been curtailed in order to give the prime minister opportunity for an early return to parliament.

The Duchess of York, bringing the head of the government back from the New World, was to reach her anchorage in the Mersey at midnight. Tugs will bring her to the docks about 9 a. m. Friday but Premier MacDonald is not expected to come ashore until after breakfast two hours later.

A big popular demonstration is expected when he steps ashore. Special police arrangements were being made tonight to preserve order and handle the crowds.

A short civic reception will follow and then MacDonald will board a train for London. It was said tonight that he might even appear in parliament on Friday evening.

Edward Ferguson, 60, Actress' Brother, Dies

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Oct. 31 (A.P.). Edward Ferguson, 60, prominent mining engineer and brother of Elsie Ferguson, the actress, died suddenly of heart disease today.

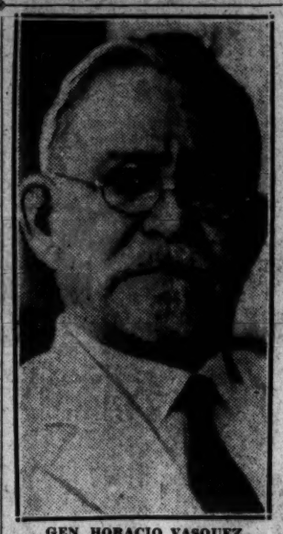
Gen. Vasquez to Entrain For Johns Hopkins; Ailment Mystery.



GEN. HORACIO VASQUEZ.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Gen. Horacio Vesquez, President of the Dominican Republic, on his way to Baltimore for treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital, arrived here at 5:15 p. m., today, aboard a Pan-American liner from Havana. He was accompanied by his wife, his wife's niece, Miss Antonio Moya; his personal physician, Dr. Ramon de Lara; Angel Morales, Dominican Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, and Lieut. Gustavo Guzman, Military Attache at the Dominican Legation in Washington.

Dr. de Lara refused to give his diagnosis of President Vasquez's illness and would only say that he had suffered from a high fever more than a week. President Vasquez is 69 years old. Reporters were not permitted to interview him.

A cot had been placed in the special plane in which he was transported to Miami, but after the plane waited 15 minutes on the runway before the entrance to the Pan-American terminals President Vasquez, meticulously clothed in street attire, followed others of the party from the plane and was immediately taken to a downtown hotel to await the departure for Baltimore by train.

The exact hour of departure is not known, depending on the condition of the president. It was intimated that the start from here might be delayed until tomorrow.

Man and Woman Found Dead of Bullet Wounds

Los Angeles, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Mrs. Pearl Dadnell, 39, a radio entertainer and mother of three children, and Burns A. Gilly, 51, a real estate salesman, were found dead from bullet wounds in an apartment here today.

Police said the couple had been living together and believed Gilly killed the woman and committed suicide after a quarrel.

Portuguese Aviatrix Injured by Smashup

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Maria de Loudres, Portugal's only aviatrix, was injured today when her airplane fell at a village near Lisbon. She was badly bruised and her airplane was wrecked.

Two Aviators Drown As Plane Hits Water

Bremerton, Wash., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Two aviators were drowned when an amphibian plane bound for Seattle from Bremerton plunged into the water near Manette late today. The bodies of both were mangled when the plane crumpled upon striking the water. The body of Al Van Vleet, mechanic, was recovered an hour after the accident, but Naval divers were unable to bring the body of Don Monroe, pilot, up from the wreckage until heavier lifting apparatus was secured. Monroe had been flying about three years, having attended the Rankin School of Aeronautics in Portland. He received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps Reserve a few months ago.

Reynolds Assists Bank Conference

American's Presence Is Hailed as Presage of Nonpolitical Plan.

Baden-Baden, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—J. E. Reynolds, chairman of the conference on the Bank for International Settlements, participated in today's session of the trust agreement committee. For weeks this committee's work has been delayed by controversy among Germany's creditors as to the division of reparations payments.

M. A. Taylor, chairman of this committee, is reported to have expressed the opinion that the Bank for International Settlements, as a trustee, must simply be told what to do with funds received and not concern itself with the method of allotment which should be decided by the statesmen.

It was generally believed that Mr. Reynolds' addition to the committee would result in drafting a document from which all political considerations will be removed.

11 Injured by Blast At Fertilizer Plant

Kansas City, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—An explosion at the Pan-American Feed Co. plant late today injured eleven men. Damage to the plant was estimated at $30,000.

The explosion was on the second floor of the plant, where fifteen men were working. A short circuit was believed to have caused the explosion of gasoline used in converting garbage into feed and fertilizer. The plant disposes of the city's garbage.

Market Loss Blamed For Chicago Suicide

Chicago, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Stock market losses were blamed by police for the suicide of a wealthy suburban real estate operator and the attempted suicide of a retired Chicago business man today.

The body of F. J. Kubec, of Cicero, was found hanging in his office when employes returned from lunch. Himan Mendelson, South Side resident, attempted to take his life by inhaling gas, but was revived.

CREDIT STRINGENCY IS DECLARED PAST

Rediscount Rate Reduction and Drop in Brokers' Loans Announced.

STOCKS BOUGHT FREELY

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Reduction of the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate from 6 to 5 per cent and an unprecedented drop of $1,096,000,000 in brokers' loans, announced after the close of another session of swiftly rallying prices on the stock market today, were immediately hailed in leading financial centers as marking the passing of the world wide credit stringency. The lower rediscount rate had been foreshadowed by a reduction in the Bank of England's discout rate, announced this morning.

This far-reaching pinch in credit had been ascribed by most leading bankers abroad and many in America to the enormous absorption of credit by the bull market in Wall street which culminated in the disastrous crash of the past week.

There was almost as wild a scramble to buy stocks today, however, as there was to sell them earlier in the week. John D. Rockefeller's statement that he was buying stocks, and several favorable dividend actions, attracting the public back into the market as honey draws flies.

Rally Felt Justified.

Bankers generally, however, believed that prices of premier stocks had been carried to ridiculously low levels in the frenzy of selling, and felt that a substantial rally was justified. Bear markets are even more inclined to get out of hand than bull markets.

Delay in opening the market until noon resulted in an enormous accumulation of buying orders and prices were bounced up in spectacular fashion in the first few minutes of trading. Total sales for the three hours were 7,149,390 shares, which was the rate of nearly 12,000,000 shares for a full session. Initial gains of scores of leading stocks ran from 10 to 30 points, but these were generally cut in half before the close through profit taking by traders who had been lucky enough to buy stocks nearer the bottom of the decline.

Wall street will have three days in which to consider the momentous developments of the week, as the market will be closed tomorrow and Saturday to give brokers a chance to unravel their highly snarled affairs.

August Rate Resumed.

The lowering of the rediscount rate put it back where it was early last August, when the reserve authorities raised it from 5 to 6 in what was widely regarded as a final and desperate action coming as a climax to a series of generally unsuccessful efforts to reduce brokers' loans.

The reduction of more than a billion in loans, which covers the week ending with Tuesday's trading, is by far the largest drop ever experienced in a single week, and compares with a decrease of only $282,000,000 in the week ended May 31. Despite this release of credit, an enormous burd n was thrown upon the New York banks, which were called upon to increase their loans by $992,000,000, while corporations and individuals withdrew $1,380,000,000, and out-of-town banks more than $700,000,000.

This heavy increase in loans by New York banks is believed in a large measure to reflect the operations of the banking group which threw powerful support into the market during the most critical period in the panic of selling. Wall street understood that these bankers organized a fund of $1,000,000,000 to support the market. The New York Federal Reserve Bank's condition statement disclosed, also, that it put its shoulder to the support of the toppling market through releasing some $260,000,000 in credit through rediscounting and purchasing Government securities. The bank's reserve ratio was reduced from 85.7 per cent to 71.8 per cent.

Shifting Was Hoped For.

The large scale shifting of loans from the account of corporations and individuals, or "others," to that of the New York banks, however, is what many leading bankers have been hoping for. It represents a shifting of the recent tendency of the stock market to finance itself through private funds not subject to banking control.

The heavy withdrawals of loans for "others" and out-of-town banks was interpreted as due to various causes, primary among which was the low and less attractive call loan rate of the past few weeks. When it averaged 6 per cent and less, against 9 per cent and above during recent months. Also, there was evidence that investment trusts and corporations withdrew large sums to buy securities at their attractively low levels.

The reduction in brokers loans, enormous as it was, takes the total down to $5,538,000,000, where it was only late last June, and which is but $131,000,000 below the level of loans early last February, when the Federal Reserve Board issued its famous warning against excessive absorption of credit by the stock market.

English Rate Drops.

The Bank of England rate was shaded from 6½ per cent to 6 per cent. It was increased in September from 5½ to 6½, to check the flow of gold to Paris. The Bank of England's difficulties were in a large part laid at the door of Wall Street, however, as the call loan market was believed to have lured a large volume of British funds away from London. Last February the Bank of England raised its rate from 5 to 5½ per cent to check an incipient flow of gold to New York.

Today's rally in stock prices, on top of yesterday's, more than cancels Tuesday's losses, and also regains part of the ground lost in the wide open break of Monday. Auburn Auto rose 57 points, but reduced its gain to 12 in profit taking. Air Reduction, American Rolling Mill, Atchison, Columbian Carbon, Consolidated Gas, and Underwood Elliott Fisher, were tossed up from about 20 to 30 points at the opening, but much of these gains were later lost. Ingersoll Rand closed with a gain of nearly 30 points.

A. T. & T. Gains.

American Telephone, Chesapeake & Ohio, Du Pont, International Telephone, Macy, Missouri Pacific and U. S. Steel closed about 8 to 11 points up. Standard of New Jersey and Radio showed net gains of more than 4 points and Westinghouse and Fox Film of about 10 and 18. A handful of stocks closed lower. American Water Works lost a couple of points, Bordens 6 and Detroit Edison, an erratic issue, dropped 70.

Commodities were inclined to sag. Wheat lost nearly a cent on bearish weather and a drop at Winnipeg, and corn eased a little as result of large offerings. Cotton closed about $1 a bale lower.

Foreign exchanges were quiet. Sterling cables held at $4.87⅛, and the Canadian dollar rallied one-quarter of a cent to 98⅛ cents. The Holland guilder and Japanese yen again reached new 1929 highs.

INVESTMENT BUYING HELPS BOND PRICES

Maintenance of 6 Per Cent Time Money Is Factor in Steady Trading.

LIBERTYS WELL BOUGHT

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Investment buying asserted itself in the bond market today and prices steadied under the favorable influence of heavy trading in the United States Government group and the maintenance of a 6 per cent time money rate for all maturities.

The liquidation in bonds by holders seeking funds during the recent times of stress in the stock market had largely disappeared, and although there was considerable irregularity in the list, the undertone was firm and numerous high grade issues regained the losses they had suffered on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Convertibles scored some broad gains as stocks took an upward swing. Although closing prices of the share privilege issues ruled below the highs for the day, net advances were held in the active issues. American Telephone 4½s finished 13½ points above the previous close; International Telephone 4½s rose 3½; New Haven 6s were up 6½; American I. G. Chemical 5½s improved 6; Public Service of New Jersey 4½s advanced 11¾, and Reading Coal & Iron 6s gained 4.

One Issue Drops 142 Points.

The feature of the trading in convertibles was a drop of 142 points in the inactive Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s on a transaction of $10,000, par value. These debentures were last traded on October 16 and on that day they dropped 63¼.

Liberty Fourth 4¼s were the center of buying in the Government list, holding steady on a turnover of nearly $2,000,000. The 3½s and the first 4¼s also sold in substantial amounts, rising about half a point each. The listed Treasury certificates were strong.

Low coupon rails, freely liquidated during the recent "distress selling," found a rising market today, and prime utilities and industrials regained a generous part of their declines. There was considerable strength, among the carriers, in Central Pacific Guaranteed 5s, Rock Island 4½s, Erie 5s, Nickel Plate first 6s, Northern Pacific General 3s, Pennsylvania General 5s, New York Central 3½s, Southern Railway General 4s and Wabash 4½s. Gains in this list averaged slightly less than a point.

Some Rails Meet Pressure.

Rails that met with some pressure included Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, Boston & Maine 5s, St. Paul 5s, the Great Northern group, Soo Lines 6s and 4s, Long Island Refunding 4s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, and prior lien 4s and the Seaboard Air Line and Seaboard all Florida listings.

Advances of a point or more appeared in American Telephone 5½s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, New England Telephone 5s, Northern States Power 5s, and Utah Power & Light 5s, while there was fractional improvement in numerous other utilities.

In the industrial division, there was notable improvement in Chile Copper 5s, Goodyear Tire 5s, Otis Steel 6s, Inland Steel 4½s, American Sugar 5s and Armour Real Estate 4½s.

Foreign obligations remained easy. French Republic 7½s sold off more than a point, while Argentine and Chilean loans again declined. German Republic 7s were buoyant. Britain 5½s, which weakened yesterday with the rest of the list, advanced nearly a point.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Overenthusiastic profit taking on the part of recent speculative buyers thrust wheat values downward today after a lively fresh upward start. Extra energy of efforts to realize gains was tempted by the fact that at one stage today wheat prices had mounted to 16c a bushel higher than last week's bottom level. Furthermore, some grain trade leaders were urgent in voicing a desire to prevent sudden further soaring that might halt export business in wheat from North America, estimated today as having aggregated 25,000,000 bushels in the last week.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ½ to 1¼ cents lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼ to ⅝ down, with oats unchanged to ⅛ up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 12c.

To a great degree, the wheat trade here was dominated early by knowledge that foreign markets had reflected in full the sharp advance of wheat values which had taken place yesterday on this side of the Atlantic. Fresh speculative purchasing, largely for houses with connections East was stimulated also by indications of continued big export business, as today's pointing to heavy additional amounts of breadstuffs being taken for transatlantic shipment both from the United States and Canada, whereas Argentine wheat exports for the week were figured as totaling only 1,470,000 bushels compared with 4,612,000 bushels the week previous. A specially tonic effect on friends on higher prices for wheat came from announcement that No. 1 Northern wheat available for immediate delivery at Winnipeg had gone to a premium.

It was at about this juncture, however, that selling began to be manifest that some reaction from such a steep advance in wheat values was to be expected. On the ensuing setbacks, nevertheless, the market showed a relatively firm undertone. Helping to steady prices late were statements from influential sources that wheat production south of the equator promises to be 150,000,000 bushels short of last year, and that the peak of breadstuff supplies for Europe either through native harvests or through imports from Argentina appears to have been passed. Action of stock market values today had little or no effect on wheat prices.

Despite wet, mild weather likely to interfere with conditioning and marketing of new corn, late weakness of wheat led to a decline in corn prices. Oats also felt unsettled, advancing early but reacting with other grain.

Provisions kept about steady notwithstanding downturns in the value of hogs. Trade in grain:

RYE—No. 4, 98.

HILLTOP'S HOPES HIT BY INJURY TO CAPT. MOONEY

Good Retains Hope of Grid Peace

Failure of Conference Does Not End Efforts of Officials.

Britten Scores Army's Stand on Eligibility for Contests.

(Associated Press.)

HOPE may be dim but attempts will be continued to bring about a resumption of the annual Army-Navy football clash.

Discussing the failure of the conference between the superintendents of the Military and Naval Academies to effect an athletic reconciliation, Secretary Good said yesterday he would continue his efforts in that direction. He did not know whether they would take the form of conferences with Secretary Adams.

Meanwhile on Capitol Hill, Chairman Britten, of the House naval affairs committee, censured the position taken by the West Point authorities of not changing their rules of athletic eligibility in not adhering to the three-year rule of participation, and expressed hope that the Government officials "would direct West Point to get together with Annapolis and reach a compromise on the regulations for the participation of athletes."

Navy Handicapped Says Britten.

He added that under the present rules the Naval Academy was "handicapped" in its athletic contests with West Point.

The position of Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military Academy, in maintaining the previous conditions of eligibility was characterized by the House naval committee head as "showing that West Point is afraid to meet Annapolis unless given a favorable handicap." Britten said that if West Point maintained its present position it would mean there would be no winter or spring sports competition between the two academies.

Secretary Good Supports Army Stand.

Secretary Good supported the position of the Military Academy on eligibility. He said that one avenue remained open—in the decision of the Naval Academy on the latest proposal of West Point for a resumption of contests under the same rules of eligibility as existed two years ago at the time athletic relations between the two academies were severed.

Mrs. Keefer Is Winner In Service Club Golf

Mrs. Frank R. Keefer wife of Gen. Keefer, U. S. A., yesterday came through as victor in the final round of the championship flight of the Women's Club championship golf tournament at the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Club, defeating Mrs. J. T. O'Rea, 3 and 2. The decisive match, however, will not be played until next week when Mrs. Keefer will meet Mrs. J. M. Hodges, Middle Atlantic woman champion, who was the medalist in the qualification round with a card of 84. Instead of participating in the earlier rounds of match play Mrs. Hodges remained out of the tournament in order to play against the winner of the first flight.

The second flight was won by Mrs. W. H. Hale, who defeated Mrs. A. B. Chebonier, while the third flight was won by Mrs. M. J. Garber, with Mrs. W. N. Porter runner-up. The winner of the fourth flight was Mrs. O. B. Spalding, who defeated Mrs. R. R. Glass in the final round. The winners of the consolation flight were as follows: First, Mrs. W. A. Angwin; second, Mrs. W. D. Kildruff; third, Mrs. C. B. Gardner; fourth, Mrs. R. T. Thinney. In the semifinal round of the first flight Mrs. O'Rea defeated Mrs. A. K. B. Lyman, while Mrs. Keefer defeated Mrs. E. L. King.

SEEK COURT FOES.

Ensign Walsh, U. S. S. Wyoming, is seeking games with strong basketball teams in this section for the coming season. The Wyoming Five captured the Scouting Fleet title last winter. Communications should be addressed in care of the postmaster at New York City.

Fresh Outbreak of Football Squabbles Follows Hard After Foundation Report

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Football seems to be experiencing a fresh outbreak of family squabbles, especially in the East and South.

Relations have been abruptly broken off in two cases, one involving West Virginia and Davis and Elkins, the other Centre College and the University of Kentucky.

Meanwhile the Army and Navy, in spite of the latest peace efforts, appear farther apart than they were when athletic relations were broken in 1927.

The battered condition of its varsity forces has compelled a Florida institution, Rollins College, to cancel two of its scheduled games.

Developments Follow Carnegie Report.

At two other schools, Alabama Poly and the University of Washington, head football coaches have been forced to withdraw under fire, following a succession of defeats for their teams.

These developments, coming on top of the findings of the famous Carnegie report, indicate the great intercollegiate sport is still suffering from "growing pains."

Like the University of Iowa, West Virginia apparently has made a determined and consistent effort to lift its athletic standards to a higher level. In the Carnegie report reference was made to the outright subsidizing of 25 to 30 Mountaineer football players, out the same report published this statement from the West Virginia president, John R. Turner, dated April 23, 1929:

"We have altogether discontinued the practice of subsidizing athletes. • • • I do not say, as in my judgment no college president can say, that no alumnus is making any contribution to the support of a member or members of our athletic teams. I must say, however, that after careful inquiry I have learned of no case where a student is receiving support because he plays on one of our athletic teams."

The break between West Virginia and Davis and Elkins was contributed to, according to Mountaineer authorities, by the presence in the Davis and Elkins line-up of three men who had played four previous years of varsity football at Haskell Institute.

Davis and Elkins has been a giant killer for at least two seasons, beating the Navy last year, West Virginia twice in a row and last week tying the hitherto-unscored-on Fordham Eleven in New York.

List of Breaks in East Grows Rapidly.

The list of athletic breaks in the East alone has grown rapidly in recent years. To such comparatively ancient gridiron ruptures as Yale-Boston College and Pennsylvania-Princeton have been added Syracuse-Army, Columbia-New York University, Harvard-Princeton, Pittsburgh-Pennsylvania.

The Carnegie report, without finding any specific reasons for these breaks after investigating most of them, nevertheless generalized:

"In every instance the immediate cause was bad feeling between the partisans of the institutions. In almost every instance its origin appears to have been an overwhelming desire for victory and the reputation that victory is supposed to bring."

Carnegie Will Release Second Sports Bulletin

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Carnegie Foundation's already famous "Bulletin No. 23," on college athletics, will be followed before the first of the year by "Bulletin No. 24," a second voluminous report on the same general subject, Dr. Howard J. Savage, staff member of the foundation, announced today.

Entitled "The Literature of American School and College Athletics," the new bulletin will approach in bulk the 383-page volume which caused a stir in the college world a week ago with its charges of widespread recruiting and subsidizing of athletes. Its contents, however, are not expected to prove so sensational.

Bulletin No. 24, now being prepared for the presses, will contain excerpts from 1,030 articles on college athletics, some of which have not hitherto appeared in print. It will contain a preface by Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the foundation, whose preface to Bulletin No. 23 aroused considerable comment.

Street Signs to Pilot Cards for One Year

St. Louis, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Charles "Gabby" Street, veteran catcher who served last season as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, today signed a one-year contract to manage the Cardinals in 1930.

Street will be the seventh man in six years to manage the Cardinals. The series of changes began in 1925 when Branch Rickey was deposed in favor of Rogers Hornsby and since then there has been at least one manager a year. Like four other managers picked by Breadon, Street has had no previous experience as a Major League manager except to serve as acting manager on several occasions last year in the absence of Southworth and McKechnie.

"Street is just the type of man we have needed," Breadon said. "He is a man who knows the game from his long experience as a player and Minor League manager. He is a hustler and one who will have the respect of his men. He is well liked by the players and should get the Cardinals back where they belong—in the thick of the pennant fight."

Purdue Works on Attack For Wisconsin Battle

Chicago, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Purdue dashed through an offense drill in rain and mud before leaving, 34 strong, for Madison, where it will risk its championship chances against the Badgers Saturday. Woerner was at the end vacated by Eb Caraway's injury, while Trimble worked at Stears' guard spot, although the latter is expected to be in shape to start against the Badgers. A big demonstration was held as the squad left Lafayette.

Coach Thistlethwaite drove the Badgers through a long defensive session against Purdue plays. Rain and mud failed to shorten the drill, Wisconsin's last before it attempts to upset the rampaint Boilermakers.

Rockne Apologizes to Ga. Tech For Inadvertent Scouting Trip

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Explanation of an apparent violation of a football scouting pact between Georgia Tech and Notre Dame was made today in a telegram from Knute Rockne, coach of the South Bend Ramblers, to W. A. Alexander, gridiron mentor of the Yellow Jackets.

The telegram was in the form of an apology from Notre Dame for having a scout present last Saturday at the Tech-Tulane game in New Orleans. Rockne said confusion caused by his illness had resulted in the scout's being sent to New Orleans by mistake, and he assured Alexander that the information gathered there was not used in preparing for the game here this Saturday.

Rockne's telegram read:

"In stress and strain of illness past three weeks, got mixed up, and Mills went to New Orleans and scouted you. However, assure you stuff not used. Looks like I will be in bed another three weeks, more or less. It's a tough situation. Hope we have nice game Saturday. I apologize for Mills going to New Orleans. Was entirely my fault, due to confusion. Kindest regards.

"KNUTE K. ROCKNE."

The Georgia Tech coach wired immediately in reply:

"Thanks for telegram. I figured the situation as it happened. Kindest regards, and my best wishes for speedy recovery.

"W. A. ALEXANDER."

West Virginia Blamed for Break

Upholds Haskell Trio on Team in Calling Off Grid Game.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Jennings Randoph, director of athletics at Davis and Elkins College of West Virginia, on arrival here tonight said that the reason why Davis and Elkins severed football relations with West Virginia University, announced today, was the "unfair attitude" of the latter on player eligibility.

Announcement of the split came from H. A. Stansbury, director of athletics at West Virginia, on receipt of a telegram from Randolph which said that Davis and Elkins "did not care to negotiate further for football games with West Virginia."

Stansbury said West Virginia objected to permitting Elijah Smith, Simon Gurneau and Albert Hawley in the Davis Elkins line-up because they had played four years with the Haskell Indian team at Lawrence, Kans.

Deeper Reason for Break Hinted.

Answering the West Virginia athletic director, Randolph declared the three players named are "unquestionably eligible," and that perhaps there was a deeper reason for West Virginia's attitude. He called attention to the fact that in the last eight athletic contests between the two schools Davis and Elkins had won seven.

"Participation in football at Haskell Institute is no good reason for barring its athletes from other college teams," Randolph said. "Haskell gives no work above high school grade and so the years that Smith, Gurneau and Hawley spent there are not additional college years as West Virginia intimates."

Thus disposing of the cases of the three Indians on the Davis and Elkins team, Randolph turned his attention to several members of the West Virginia line-up and to a general attack on athletics at that university.

"Davis and Elkins is a member of the West Virginia Athletic Conference which subscribes to the transfer rule. West Virginia University is not a member of any conference," Randolph said.

Questions Eligibility of Mountaineer Men.

The Davis and Elkins athletic director then compared the cases of the three Indians with Lewis, a star guard on the West Virginia team, and Dotson, captain of the West Virginia freshmen team.

"Both Lewis and Dotson played football at Glenville Normal School in West Virginia between the time they graduated from high school and entered West Virginia University," Randolph said, "and Glenville Normal gives college courses, whereas Haskell institute does not."

Randolph alleged that West Virginia's athletic director wanted to play Davis and Elkins "under special West Virginia rules." He said the severence of relations by Davis and Elkins was because these rules were "unfair" but more particularly that the reason was "to halt now, rather than later, the domineering spirit which Stansbury has led and to which Davis and Elkins has been subjected."

Randolph was in Cleveland as advance guard of the Davis and Elkins team which plays John Carroll University here tomorrow night.

Howley Signs Doolan, Former Phil, as Coach

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Mike Doolan, former Philadelphia National League shortstop, was signed today by Dan Howley, Cincinnati Reds manager, to coach the Rhinelanders next season.

Howley said he soon would obtain another coach on a parity with Doolan. Doolan succeeds Ivy Wingo, former Red catcher and later manager of the Columbus American Association Club.

Rosenbloom and Okun Matched at New York

New York, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Maxie Rosenbloom and Yale Okun, both New York light-heavyweight boxers, were matched today to meet in a 12-round semifinal to the Phil Scott-Otto Von Porat heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden December 9. Rosenbloom and Okun were among the four men named recently by the New York State Athletic Commission as leading contenders for the vacant light-heavyweight crown.

Booth's Climb to Stardom No Surprise in New Haven

Albie Booth's spectacular rise to a place among the football greats of all time was no shock to his home town admirers who have watched him perform since his grammar school days.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. Oct. 3 (A.P.).—Albie Booth, Yale's sensational sophomore, who faces Al Marsters in the Dartmouth game Saturday, didn't step into the national spotlight until his brilliant three-touchdown spurt against Army, yet he is an old story here in New Haven where he has been a gridiron hero since grammar school.

New Haven, seat of Yale, in the past has supplied relatively few athletes to the Elis, but its contribution now in Booth seems of the highest order for as a football player he is mentioned in the same breath with Hinkey and Heffelfinger and Coy and other Yale immortals.

Albie's first toy was a football and he has been playing since he first was able to toddle. He put the Ivy street school on the map locally in the public school league. Later he played on the boys' club teams coincident with his attendance at Hill House high school.

For the local school boy hero Yale was the logical school, but there were certain barriers yet to be hurdled in the way of college board of examinations. He spent a year at Mildford school preparing for those and entered Yale last fall.

Booth captained the Frosh gridders. He played basketball, was elected captain of that group and when last spring he was named baseball captain he achieved what had never before occurred in a school where tradition has an especially strong play—captained three teams in the same year.

Booth is 21. He weighs 144 pounds and is a trifle under 5 feet 7 inches tall. That's nothing to boast of when it comes to size but few of them can do more tricks on the football field than this great little welterweight.

Tulane Risks Record Today In Contest With Georgia U.

By EDDIE BRIETZ,
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

THOSE erstwhile surprising Georgia sophomores and the Big Green Wave of Tulane University fire the opening gun today in a stirring football week-end which may see three more crack elevens join the rapidly mounting list of Southern Conference also rans.

Georgia, already defeated in the conference, hoped to jolt Tulane out of the running with a victory today. If the Greenies win they are given a good chance to come through their season undefeated.

A crowd of 12,000 is expected to witness the game which will pave the way for another series of high explosives tomorrow.

Headlining the Saturday program is the Alabama-Vanderbilt clash at Nashville in which pennant aspirations of Vanderbilt are at stake and the Clemson-Kentucky test at Lexington, Ky., in which two powerful undefeated elevens, both in the thick of the championship milling, get their first real test of the season.

Injuries Take Toll At Kentucky.

Ordinarily Kentucky would rule a heavy toll of Wildcat regulars. Clemson, on the other hand is en route to the Blue Grass State with every member of Coach Josh Cody's big squad in prime condition for a gruelling tussle.

None of the other games inside the conference, except the Auburn-Tennessee contest which Tennessee is favored to win, have a bearing on the championship. North Carolina State meets North Carolina and Washington and Lee and Virginia Poly tie up in engagements which may affect the title races in the two States, while Virginia battles Maryland and Sewanee and the University of Mississippi square off at Oxford.

The other conference teams meet outsiders. Virginia Military is scheduled with Davidson, Louisiana State with Arkansas and Mississippi A. & M. with Mississippi College.

While the fur is flying inside the conference walls, there will be plenty going on without. No less than six Dixie teams cross swords with foes far and wide.

Alligators at Best for Harvard Game.

Topping the list is Florida's appearance against Harvard at Cambridge. Flushed with their decisive triumph over Georgia last week, the Alligators are at their best form of the season and are confident of getting somewhere against the Easterners.

Notre Dame, minus Knute Rockne, invades Atlanta 84 strong to try to hand Georgia Tech its third licking of the season and at the same time get revenge for last year's pasting at the hands of the Golden Tornado. The odds are against the Atlanta team, but Coach Bill Alexander says he will shoot the works.

Duke is at Boston to make its fourth straight stand against an Eastern team when it squares off against Boston College. Oglethorpe meets the undefeated Villanova outfit at Philadelphia, the Haskell Indians are on the warpath and bound for New Orleans to play Loyola, and Little Hampden-Sidney is due at Hamilton, N. Y., to give Colgate a workout.

G. U. Leader Suffers Cut Over Eye

By JACK ESPEY
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Georgetown University football hopes underwent a severe shock this afternoon in the final practice scrimmage staged on the Hilltop when Capt. Jim Mooney, giant tackle and punter extraordinary, suffered a cut above his left eye which required four stitches to close and threatens his participation in the New York University game here Saturday.

Mooney's injury, virtually on the eve of Georgetown's major battle of the season thus far, looms calamitous to the Hoyas' cause unless he receives permission to play by college physicians. Doctors today declared that Mooney might play if a special protecting headguard were devised, but that his removal from the game would be necessary if the injury were aggravated.

Coach Lou Little, who led his band of 33 gridmen into the metropolis tonight, was plainly worried over the set-back to the big captain, whose punting game last year was the greatest single factor in averting defeat by the big Violet eleven. He announced tonight that Mooney doubtless would start the contest, but expressed fear that he would not be able to play for long.

Hilltoppers Eager for Metropolitan Bow.

Fit and ready for the best, with the exception of Mooney, Georgetown's football huskies tonight were eager for their 1929 metropolitan bow. If Mooney is not in the game, the Georgetown kicking will be delegated to Quarter Back Johnny Scalzi.

Forgotten is that 7-0 defeat with which Western Maryland shocked these same Hilltop stalwarts almost a month ago, a defeat that shattered dreams of an undefeated season. The season still holds much hope for Lou Little's warriors and they are bent upon successfully opening a hard November drive in the clash two days hence. There is much prestige to gain by uprooting the Violets, the Fordham blotch on the latter's record notwithstanding.

Metropolitan critics sound a warning that the Violets are on the upgrade and in all likelihood will hit top speed against Georgetown. If such is the case Saturday, Yankee Stadium will witness not one but two speedy, hard charging elevens, for Georgetown also is improving with every practice and at present is better equipped for strong opposition than ever before this fall.

Triumph Long Goal Of Hilltop Team.

The Hilltoppers are fortified mentally, too. This clash has been the sole subject of their thoughts for more than a month. "Beat New York U. again!" has been their battle cry. Lou Little's players respect the Violets, but do not fear them. They have unbounded confidence in themselves to mach the mightiest efforts of their foes. For many days they have familiarized themselves with New York plays and formations on information brought by their scouts. The last four New York games have been watched intently by representatives of the Hilltop.

New York scouts also have visited Georgetown's games, but it is safe to say Chick Meehan's advisers did not obtain as valuable information as did the Hoya scouts. The Violet has had to uncover most of its best plays in three of its last four games on account of the powerful opposition it has met. On the other hand, Georgetown has been able to win all of its contests since the Western Maryland tilt without using more than five simple plays. Even against Western Maryland, the Blue and Gray did not "open up."

Violets Groom Kickers To Oppose Mooney.

New York has been taking advantage of the recent rain and soft turf conditions to practice the handling of a slippery ball, not wishing to repeat its costly fumbling of the 1928 encounter. Coach Meehan also has

FIELD OF 17 NAMED FOR PIMLICO FUTURITY TODAY

Flying Heels Looming as Favorite

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31—The $40,000 added Pimlico Futurity, the richest stake run in Maryland, will be featured by the Maryland Jockey Club tomorrow when the eleven-day fall meeting will be ushered in at the famous Old Hilltop course.

Out of the vast number of eligible 2-year-olds comes seventeen acceptances, but it is doubtful if all programmed go to the post. If they do the Futurity will have a gross value of $71,320. The Futurity, a dash of 1 1-16 miles, is a real test. Among the seventeen named are some of the best of the younger division. Nothing stands out and the race should bring out a real good contest. New York is sending down Spinach, Flying Heels, Red Rag and Quarter Deck, while Galaday is here from Kentucky. The remainder of the field have been racing on the Maryland tracks this fall.

At the present writing the track at Pimlico is heavy, but a little wind and sunshine works wonders on this course, and it is possible that the going tomorrow may be fast.

Flying Heels, Kelsey Up, Is Ready.

Henry McDaniels arrived yesterday with Flying Heels and W. Kelsey is coming over to ride. The Cochran horse is certain to have a large following, as is also Spinach, who has improved greatly with racing this fall. In some of his races he has beaten all-aged fields. Flying Heels, a colt highly regarded by W. S. Vosburg, was assigned 127 pounds in the Ardsley Handicap and was asked to concede 8 pounds to Spinach. Red Rag's chances are not improved any by having R. McNamee as pilot. It is little wonder that a more capable rider was not given the mount in so important engagement.

Galaday's race in the Selina Stakes, when she finished second to Khara, gives her a good chance. No rider has been named for this filly through the entry box. The Coe Stable has named both Black Majesty and Caruso and it is more than likely that the former will be withdrawn after his hard race in the Spaulding Lowe Jenkins Handicap at Laurel on Wednesday.

Sun Craig, Khara, Brown Admiral and Crossbones also started in this stake. Crossbones came out of that race lame and report had it that he had spread his foot. If that is true it is hardly probable that he will start in the Futurity.

Whitney Names Mad Kiss And Murky Cloud.

The Whitney stables have elected to start two, Mad Kiss and Murky Cloud. Robertson will have the mount on the former while Workman will ride Murky Cloud. Trainer Creech has named Inzelone to pilot Caruso, but no rider was named on the entry slip on Black Majesty. L. Fator will be astride Khara and L. Morris will be in the saddle on Jimmy Moran.

At the present writing it looks as if Flying Heels will be the public choice. Before coming here he worked a mile at Belmont Park in 1:43 and with a past master like Henry McDaniels training him he is sure to be a fit horse, ready to give his best effort. The Futurity will be run as the fourth race.

Track Spends $85,000 On Improvements.

Since the close of the spring meeting the Maryland Jockey Club has spent something like $85,000 in improvements. Two new stables have been erected which will accommodate 100 horses. This brings the total number of stalls at Pimlico up to 1,200. During the eleven days of racing one stake will be programmed each day.

The list of events run at the meeting include, besides the Futurity, the Riggs Handicap, $25,000 added; the Pimlico Weight for Age, $4,000; the Helpful, $2,500; the Bowie, $10,000; the Master of Foxhounds $42,500; Pimlico Graded Handicaps, run in three divisions, $1,500 each; the Walden, $10,000; the Manley Memorial Steeplechase, $10,000; the Baltimore Handicap, $3,500; the Pimlico Homebred, $2,500; and the Pimlico Cup, $10,000.

A gold cup valued at $500 will be presented to the owner of the winner of the Master of Foxhounds Steeplechase, the Manley Memorial Steeplechase and the Pimlico Cup, and a gold cup valued at $1,000 to the owner of the winner of the Riggs.

Trainer of Each Winner To Receive $50.

The club will present $50 to the trainer of the winner of each race run during the meeting. In the Pimlico Cup to be run on the closing day of the meeting the trainer of the winner will receive $1,500; of the second horse, $500; of the third, $300; and the fourth, $200.

The many friends of Lester (Tex) Dean were pained to learn of his death at the South Maryland General Hospital last night. Since taking up the duties as starter. Dean acted in an official capacity at many of the Canadian and Western tracks. He has done the starting at Oriental Park, Cuba, for several years past and was an efficient man at the barrier. His body will be sent to Dallas, Tex., for interment. With him when he died was his mother and his 11-year-old daughter.

It is reported that Battleship Grey spread his foot in his last race at Laurel. This was responsible for the decision in retiring the Glen Riddle horses into winter quarters instead of shipping them to Pimlico as first planned.

Busy Handball Season Under Way at Y.M.C.A.

CLEORA was hustled into the lead at once, shook off PRINCE BULBO approaching the turn and, opening up a big advantage, held it to the end. TANNIC broke fast but, outrun first half mile, came with a good burst of speed near end to outfinish STAR FORWARD. Latter raced forwardly, saved ground on both turns, but weakened slightly near end. ASHBURNE, far back and racing wide first half mile, closed resolutely final three-sixteenths. PRINCE BULBO, under pressure throughout, tired badly in the drive. ACIROMA ran out on stretch turn.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JAMES M., $32.18, $11.86, $5.88; CHATTERING, $3.44, $3.48; FIG LEAF, $2.90.

JAMES M., a keen factor from start and slipping through between leaders at head of the stretch, assumed the lead to draw out decisively near the end. CHATTERING, also forward from start, but forced wide on both turns, closed gamely through stretch, but could not threaten leader. FIG LEAF saved ground into stretch, held on strongly under punishment, but could not improve position. PIKE'S PEAK raced into a long early lead, saved much ground on both turns, but faltered badly when put to a drive. BLACK IMP retired after three-eighths. WILD OLIVE stopped badly after racing forwardly to well into stretch.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:58. Off at 2:59. Winner, A. and J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KENTUCKY ACE, $7.88, $4.76, $3.26; BLACK THUNDER, $3.40, $2.48; TONY JOE, $3.58.

KENTUCKY ACE began fast, held sway under steadying restraint, swerved badly to inside entering stretch, but then responded gamely when straightened thereafter. BLACK THUNDER raced under stout restraint for five-eighths, moved up swiftly when called upon and, although holding on courageously, could not seriously threaten winner. TONY JOE was taken back while in close quarters first half mile, came again when taken to outside entering stretch, but was tiring badly at sixteenths. YORKTOWN, used up in early stages, weakened after reaching stretch. J. A. WEIL raced wide most of the trip.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JUEL JEAN, $81.78, $30.44, $17.24; LEE COOPER, $11.48, $7.20; HAPPY HANLY, $4.16.

JUEL JEAN, away well, but taken back and reserved until reaching stretch where, slipping through on inside, closed strongly to take command and draw far out near the end. LEE COOPER had usual early speed and, swerving when tiring last eighth, just lasted long enough to outfinish HAPPY HANLY. The latter, in run outside, forced back at head of the stretch, but came again stoutly when clear. DAR FUR, closer up than usual in early running, moved up menacingly midway of the stretch, but suffered slightly when LEE COOPER came over. JOE ADAMS, much spent forcing the pace, had nothing left when the test came. LATCH KEY, fractious at the gate, could never reach a contending position. KUBLAI KHAN quit after five-eighths.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Halloween. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:48. Off at 3:49. Winner, C. W. Heilinger's ch. g. (2), by Last Coin—Green. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $227; third, $118. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:51, 1:18 2-5, 1:46 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALVIN RANSHAW, $2.96, $2.42, $2.10; TISHYBO, $2.96, $2.44; PLAY CHILD, $3.60.

ALVIN RANSHAW, much the best in the going, was sent into a long early lead and, continuing gamely through stretch, won as rider pleased. TISHYBO, badly outrun to last turn, gradually disposed of GLYCINE and, although holding on courageously, could not threaten winner. PLAY CHILD, far back for five-eighths, moved up steadily through stretch on inside and easily held others safe. GLYCINE went well for first half mile, then began dropping back. CHEROKEE'S RIDGE was done after first half mile. HARAMSADA showed what done when in close quarters on first turn.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. The Johns Hill. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:14. Off at 4:16. Winner, F. Swain's b. c. (4), by Lucky Hour—Rainbow Division. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:51 1-5, 1:19 2-5, 1:47 2-5, 1:52 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRANK FULLEN, $10.68, $5.46, $3.30; HIGH STORM, $3.86, $2.86; DUELIST, $2.50.

FRANK FULLEN, away slowly, moved up stoutly when hard urged rounding far turn, disposed of FLORIDA GOLD midway of the stretch, but was tiring badly near the end and just lasted long enough to hold HIGH STORM safe. DUELIST, steadiest while saving ground, moved up with a rush entering main stretch and, closing strongly on outside, would have won in another stride. DUELIST was well up throughout and, when seemingly done for, came again near the end to outfinish BRUSH. Latter closed an impressive rush on inside. FLORIDA GOLD and BRUNO each other tiring submission.

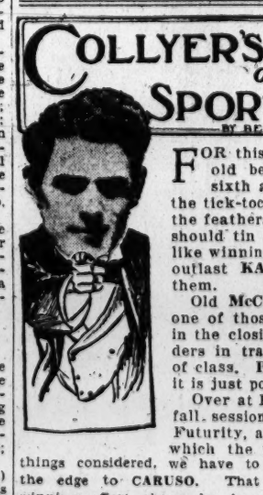
Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILLY BASIL, $15.40, $7.82, $4.86; PADONA, $8.84, $6.68; JEFF O'NEIL, $3.24.

BILLY BASIL, prominent from start and responding gamely when ready entering stretch and, although taken a trifle wide through stretch, gradually wore PADONA down. Latter opened up a big advantage first half mile, held on stubbornly when challenged, but tired a sixteenth out. JEFF O'NEIL suffered from lack of racing room most of the trip and could not improve position. MISS LEE, taken on inside where she could not get through. PANOREL, under pressure throughout, tired badly after reaching stretch. BROOKDALE MISS was knocked out of contention on first turn.



COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

FOR this aft, I am shooting both barrels to the old beezer of WICKER, which goes in the sixth at Latonia. Now, the boys who fondle the tick-tock clocks, when most of us are warming the feathers, slip me this gab, "has a wide call and should tin can; stable is very sanguine." Sounds like winning chatter to me. HUMMING BIRD may outlast KATY McCOOK. In this order I fancy them.

Old McCULLOUGH, which was the medium of one of those three-way sales, is again well placed in the closing dash. This is one of the best mudders in training. Better still, he possesses a bit of class. PRINCESS DONNA is long overdue and it is just possible the stable will unlimber here.

Over at Pimlico the gee gees take on the annual fall session with the big headliner, the Pimlico Futurity, at one and one-sixteenth miles, and for which the management has added $40,000. All things considered, we have to give the edge to CARUSO. That last winning effort shows he has held his speed well; also he is fit and ready. BROWN ADMIRAL is the sleeper. His race of closing day at Laurel was even better than cold dope would indicate, with JIMMY MORAN and KHARA right bang up.

Just possible, however, that JIMMY MORAN will be withdrawn from here and go in the sixth, where he has a considerable call. As a matter of fact, he is a standout, with FLYER and CHLO BOY figuring in the order named.

GALADAY RATED BEST OF 2-YEAR-OLDS IN FUTURITY

Caruso Seen Contender In Stake

Red Rag Also Named as Possibility in Collins' Selections.

Mabla Boasts Foot of Party in Opening Number.

By LEONARD W. COLLINS.

SEVENTEEN of the fleetest two-year-olds now in training have been named as potential starters in the running of the $40,000 added Pimlico Futurity, richest of all juvenile stakes in Maryland. While it is hardly likely that all will start the field will in all probability number not less than twelve.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $1,300; for 3-year-olds.

1 Topkick ..... 116 | 6 Buckeye Poet ... 116
2 Culloden ..... 116 | 7 Pious 113
3 Chimney Sweep 116 | 8 Mabla 113
4 Particular ..... 116 | 9 Scared o' Nothin 116
5 Trapland ..... 105 |

MABLA compiled quite an enviable record during the early part of the New York season and after a three-month let-up the On Watch filly was undoubtedly in need of a run the last time out. She has the foot of the party and anything that takes the track from her will win. CULLODEN has but to race to best form to be the contender, while CHIMNEY SWEEP should experience litlite difficulty in saving the show.

SECOND RACE—One mile and 70 yards; purse, $1,300; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1 *Listerine ..... 110 | 6 Begin Over ... 108
2 Golden Arrow .. 117 | 7 *Moscow 109
3 Nae Breeks .... 108 | 8 *Russet 108
4 Final ..... 108 | 9 *Baston 107
5 Ruby Keller .... 115 | 10 *Croyden 113

MOSCOW has closed ground in several of his races in a manner that indicates the son of Stefan the Great can carry his speed over a route. He is in well under 109 pounds and this way rigged has better than an even chance. BEGIN OVER shapes up best of the others, but will have RUBY KEELER as a contender for the place. CROYDEN pulled up lame Wednesday and may not start.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $1,300; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1 *The Doctor .... 107 | 7 Conjurer 108
2 Spear Rock .... 112 | 8 *Estelle Marie. 100

SPEAR ROCK ran extremely in his only appearance under colors at Laurel which would lead one to believe that it was a qualifying effort. If really intended the Spear colt could win. REFORM has but to race to best form to save the place. VOYAGE will have no excuses for not being somewhere in the money.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $40,000 added; the Pimlico Futurity; for 2-year-old colts and fillies.

1 *Mad Kiss ..... 114 | 10 Brown Admiral. 119
2 Spinach ..... 119 | 11 †Murky Cloud. 116

9 Flying Heels ... 117 |
†H. P. Whitney entry.
‡W. R. Coe entry.

GALADAY'S race in the Selima was a 10-pound better effort than the charts show. She has a pull in the weight assignment and will be favored by the required 11-16 miles. Barring bad racing luck, the Western entrant will be the one to beat. CARUSO figures to be a contender in any two-year-old company. The son of Polymelian has been through a rather intensive campaign, but seems to thrive on work. We can not see him any farther back than second place. RED RAG has never been over three-quarters of a mile. If he sticks he may prove troublesome to all concerned. FLYING HEELS will be in the picture if any of the top ones falter. CROSSBONES pulled up lame at Laurel and will not start.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $1,300; the country Club; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1 Balko ..... 117 | 6 Passing By 112
2 Port Harlem .... 111 | 7 Streamline 112
3 Donnay ..... 114 | 8 Erin Queen 110
4 Spanish Prince. 110 | 9 Penn's Pride 110
5 Crystal Domino. 120 |

BALKO took the measure of a band the last time out every bit as good as what he meets today. The Omar Khayyam colt is at the peak of form and should never leave the issue in doubt. DONNAY has won his last three starts, and a race back to either of those outings will find him as good as second. STREAM LINE has a 2-point call over anything else entered here.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $1,300; the Tasker (second division); for 2-year-olds.

1 Sunburn ..... 113 | 6 Skirl 116
2 King Kelly ..... 108 | 7 Jimmy Moran.. 116
3 Chilo Boy ..... 116 | 8 Piver 116
4 Night Signal .. 115 | 9 Zeal 115
5 Ping Coates .... 116 | 10 Wrack Royal. 108

NIGHT SIGNAL seems to have found her speed since taking up quarters in the Bradley barn. Her third to Khara in the Selima was a splendid effort, and if repeated here would find her the winner. SKIRL has a high flight of early speed and one of his best races will find the Whitney entrant close up. CHLO BOY is an in and outer, yet in a field of this kind has some chance.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $1,300; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1 *McCulloch ..... 110 | 7 Lee Cooper 108

Old Kickapoo Triumphs In Final Aurora Feature

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The fall meeting of the Exposition Park Jockey Club wound up the racing hereabouts today under dismal conditions, rain falling throughout the afternoon, making the track a sea of mud. The Moveaway Handicap, a sprint of 5½ furlongs for all ages, the feature attraction, was won by O. L. Foster's Old Kickapoo with Trieze, from Lewis and Ramp's stable a close up second and Old Dutch from J. D. Fergurson's string third. Gold Mint saved his entrance fee when he finished fourth, only six started.

4-CORNERED CUP SERIES LOOMS

Marine-Guards Fray May Bring Other Elevens Out.

LEARNING that more than 1,000 uniformed Marines would be on hand to cheer the Devil Dog huskies in the President's Cup football game at Griffith Stadium tomorrow, the Coast Guard Eleven's faithful followers decided to be on hand also and some 200 men will accompany the team here today from New London to witness the first clash between the teams for the coveted trophy.

The showing of the Coast Guardsmen tomorrow will be watched with interest in military and naval circles, as it is probable that a three or four cornered battle for the President's Cup may develop within a year or two.

The Navy and Third Corps Army elevens still retain the right to compete for the trophy, it is pointed out, and it is possible that they may be induced to enter teams in a series in the future.

Coast Guard Squad Arrives Today.

The Coast Guard team, with its corps of followers, is scheduled to arrive in Washington about noon today and will drill at Griffith Stadium at 2:30 o'clock. Additional Coast Guard rooters will come here from Baltimore and nearby points along the Atlantic seaboard.

Neither of the rival coaches, Lieut. Baker, of the Coast Guards, nor Tom Keady, of the Marines, has made any prediction as to the outcome of this first meeting of the two teams.

G. W. Swimmers Use New Ambassador Pool

In accord with the new regulation at George Washington University, which requires all male students to pass a satisfactory test of their ability to swim fifty yards before receiving their diplomas, Director of Athletics Pixlee has arranged for the use of the swimming pool in the new Ambassador Hotel, Fourteenth and K streets. Tests were held on Monday and Wednesday by Max Farrington, one of the G. W. coaches, and freshmen and sophomores unable to pass the test were required to enroll for the swimming classes.

These classes are expected to serve as a nucleus for the Colonial swimming team for the coming season, which is expected to draw several men from the instruction courses. It will be the first year in the sport for the downtown school, but Farrington is hoping to make it a successful one.

Report of Browns' Sale Denied in St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Both officials of the St. Louis Browns and the Missouri Pacific Railroad denied reports from Toronto that the local American League Club had been sold or that negotiations to that end were under way.

A. B. Sharp, secretary to A. D. Bell, passenger traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific, issued the following statement:

"Mr. E. H. Reynolds, assistant to President Baldwin, of the Missouri Pacific, stated there must be some mistake in the story and emphatically denied that the Missouri Pacific or any official of it is interested in the sale or acquisition of the Browns or any other baseball club."

At President Ball's office his secretary declared there had not been any talk of selling the Browns.

UNBEATEN CAPITAL CITY ELEVENS CLASH SUNDAY

St. Stephen's, Brookland In Feature

Senior Leadership at Stake on Silver Spring Field.

Palace and Columbia to Meet; 4 Other Games Listed.

TWO unbeaten elevens are to meet in the headline attraction of the Capital City Football League schedule Sunday with the senior class lead as the probable reward of the victor. The St. Stephen's A. C. and Brookland A. C. Elevens, neither defeated in two previous starts although the latter engaged in a scoreless tie with the Mohawk Preps, are to come to blows on the Silver Spring field at 3 o'clock.

The fact that the Brookland team was unable to score on the Mohawk Eleven does not weaken its claim to victory Sunday, as the Mohawk Preps are the defending champions and were favorites to humble the Brookland lads in that opening contest. The fact that the Brooklanders held the defending champs scoreless is a strong point in their favor.

Mohawk Preps Meet Marions.

While the two unbeaten clubs are grappling for the upper hand, the Mohawk Preps will be clashing with the Marions at Seat Pleasant in a preliminary to a game between the Waverlys and Fort Myer Soldiers. The Friendships, contenders for the senior honors, will engage the Petworth Pennants in a preliminary to the Saint-Brookland tussle.

Four promising contests are slated for 135-pound title aspirants. The Palace Team tackles the Columbias on No. 2 Monument field in one of the top notchers, while the Mardfeldts are facing the Brentwood Hawks; the Wolverines are battling the Janneys and the Notre Dame Preps are entertaining the Meridians.

Palace and Columbia Undefeated.

Neither the Palacians nor Columbias have tasted defeat to date, but the former has romped through three contests without a loss, while their foes of Sunday have a deadlocked issue chalked against them.

All teams in the 125-pound class will wage independent battles this week-end as no league contests are scheduled.

The schedules for Sunday and the standing of the teams follow:

Fast Florida Gridmen Show Wares at Hilltop

A swift-moving, fast-passing and hard-charging University of Florida football team put on a snappy drill on the Georgetown field yesterday during a brief stop here on its way to New York, where the Gators will tomorrow make a bid for victory over the Crimson of Harvard.

Most impressive among the Southerners are three young men being mentioned for all-America and all-Southern recognition. Dale Van Sickle, Clyde Crabtree and Red Bethea are just about as versatile and capable in the back field as to be desired. Jimmy Steel, stalwart guard, and Capt. Rainey Cawthon, plunging full back, are also sensations in their line. Crabtree is rated the best chance of gaining top honors, as he has displayed a brand of kicking, passing and running that ranks with the best in the country.

ordered his kickers, Charlie Marshall and "Jinx" O'Herin, to spend plenty of time booting a wet, muddy ball. He aims to send a toe artist into the game able to match the lengthy kicking of Mooney, who amazed the crowd a year ago with 50- and 60-yard punts with a mud-laden oval.

Ken Provincial, hero of the 1928 battle, is another whom the Georgetown director is confident will come through. This will be Provincial's first game since Western Maryland was met and he is tugging at the leash, so to speak. The tall end also is spurred by memories of that 87-yard run to the only touchdown last year and is anxious to do something equalling that feat.

500 Hilltop Students Off for New York Game

Approximately 500 Georgetown students went to New York yesterday to attend the New York University-Georgetown game tomorrow. The majority of the remaining students and many of their friends will leave by train today at 1 o'clock.

William and Mary Cubs Play Emerson Today

Emerson Institute's football team, eighteen strong, was scheduled to leave Washington this morning at 7 o'clock for Williamsburg, Va., where the strong freshmen team of William and Mary is to be met this afternoon. The reports emanating from the Indians' camp are far from encouraging to the hopes of Coach Sanborn's men, and they are set to play the battle of their lives in order to return with a triumph.

With one of the strongest teams in years at the prep school, however, Sanborn was expecting great things of his men in today's game. The Virginia team is reputed to be about on the same level as the Catholic University freshmen, who defeated the Emerson team, 12-6, one week ago Emerson looked not at all bad in that game, though, and hopes to succeed at Williamsburg, where it failed at Brookland.

Sanborn announced last night that he would start practically the same team against his hosts that he used in his last game. Two changes will be made, however, with Simonton going to center and Albert, a new man, being given a trial at guard. With these exceptions, the team will start in its regular formation. Cabell, Lewis, Trilling and Kilroy will be in the back field again, with Forney, an end, coming back to do the punting.

Crosland, Hines Play In Pinehurst Net Final

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Robert Crosland, of Charlotte, defending titleholder, and Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., won their way to the finals of the Mid-South tennis tourney today. Both were taken to four sets by their semifinal opponents.

Crosland got off to a slow start against Grady Frank, Duke University, and dropped the first set 2—6, but came back to take the next three by scores of 6—1, 6—2, 6—3. Hines, University of South Carolina, outlasted Herbert Vail, Glen Cove, Long Island, veteran, to win 7—9, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

Mrs. J. C. Butner, of Fort Bragg, the defending champion, will meet Miss Louise Gunning, of Philadelphia, in the women's singles finals. Mrs. Butner drubbed Miss Ann Lacy, of Pinehurst, 6—2, 6—1, and Miss Verner Reed, of Brookville, Long Island, 6—0, 6—2, today to enter the finals. Mrs. Gunning was carried to three sets in her semifinal match with Miss Katherine Wright, of Santa Barbara, Calif., but won 4—6, 7—5, 6—2.

In the men's doubles Crosland and Vail reached the finals by trimming William Merritt, of Chapel Hill, N. C., and E. D. Yeomans, of Washington, 6—1, 2—6, 6—2, 6—1. Merritt and Yeomans had reached the semifinals by beating Paul Dana, Philadelphia, and Edward King, New York, 6—3, 6—2, in the only other match played in the men's doubles.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 31.—The Episcopal High School Junior Varsity Football Team defeated the Swavely Junior Varsity Team, of Manassas, yesterday, 20 to 0, on Hoxton Field, the stamping grounds of the Episcopalians. The winners scored almost at will, and the result would have been even more onesided except for the fact that Episcopal used many substitutes after the game was safely tucked away.

The annual classic of the local scholastic world, the meeting of Alexandria High School and George Mason High School, will take place at Baggett's Stadium tomorrow afternoon, the game starting at 3:30 o'clock. The student bodies of both schools are expected to attend and root for their respective teams. Coach Reynolds, of the Alexandria High, and Coach Wilson, of the Masonites, have been pointing their charges for this game, which is considered by both schools to be their most important contest of the district series.

ON VIRGINIA GRIDIRONS

(Associated Press.)

MARYLAND is holding workouts under the arc lights in an effort to line things up for victory over Virginia, College Park reports say. Because of a somewhat dismal season so far, Coach Curley Byrd is little heartened by last week's brighter showing against the Cadets and by night practice he hopes to give the Cavaliers a real battle.

When Hampden-Sidney journeys to Hamilton, N. Y., this week-end for its game with Colgate, four regulars, including Ralph Willis, ace of the back field, will be left at home. Besides Willis, who sprinted 55 yards for a touchdown against Cornell and accounted for two of the tallies in the game with Roanoke, Franklin, Powell and McCann will not make the trip. The four regulars are being left in Death Valley because Coach Bernier feels that he must conserve strength for future Virginia Conference engagements. The Cubs who replace this quartet will have the pleasure of a week-end in New York City.

Albert Lewy, one of the workhorses in the Virginia back field, came into the limelight Saturday when he intercepted a forward pass and ran 50 yards to score a touchdown against St. John's. The big full back, who comes from Cleveland, Ohio, is one of the least sensational of the Cavalier backs, and at the same time one of the best. A time or two in a game he may get away for a 10 or 12 yard gain, but usually he smashes the line for three or four yards. These mass plays don't usually arouse much enthusiasm in the stands, but they delight the players and coaches who know that Lewy can be counted on to add a few yards when they are needed. Lewy backs up the line on defense, for he is a deadly tackler.

In a series of 26 games since 1895, Virginia Tech has vanquished the Generals, of Washington and Lee, 13 times. Eleven games are credited to Washington and Lee and two resulted in ties. The Techmen won the first game 34 years ago and have also won the last two. The Generals, however, had their winning season between 1911 and 1926 when all but three were chalked up to the Lexington team's favor. The Gobblers are favored this season.

Changed Navy Line-Up Ready for Penn Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 31.—When the Navy Eleven enters the arena of Franklin Field, Philadelphia, for its battle with the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday, some few changes will be noted in the line-up, compared to more recent games, according to announcement made by Head Coach "Bill" Ingram, tonight, following the last hard practice scrimmage.

Most important of all in the Ingram announcement was that Johnny Gannon, veteran back, who has had little or no opportunity to show himself this season because of a bad charleyhorse, will be seen at left half back. His running mate will be Jack Castree. Art Spring will direct the team as quarter back, and Harold (Joe) Bauer, passer, punter and field goal kicker, besides being a strong defensive player, will be at full in place of Clifton. The latter suffered a slight injury to the shoulder and bad body bruises in the Princeton game. Clifton has improved rapidly, however, and will be available for use if necessary, but will not start, Ingram said.

Virginia Tech Lineman Suffers Serious Injury

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 31.—On the eve of the first batle for the Virginia State title with Washington and Lee, Virginia Polytechnics Eleven today lost the services of Red Jones big 6-foot guard.

Jones slipped in the mud and injured his shoulder and will be out of the line-up for at least three weeks and probably for the remainder of the season.

Jones had recently copped a regular guard position and had put new life into Andy Gustafson's green line.

Roy Dunn, V. M. I.'s star full back, hurt once before this season, received injuries in the game with Maryland Saturday which will keep him from playing against Davidson this week-end. He is expected to be back in the line-up, however, when the Cadets meet Clemson in Norfolk November 9.

ROMP TODAY FOR CENTRAL EXPECTED

Business Aims to Keep Down Score; Brandt Will Not Play.

CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL'S football team will be leaderless when it runs on the field against Business this afternoon at 3:30 in the Mount Pleasant Stadium because of the death of Capt. George Brandt's grandfather, which will keep the stellar end out of the line-up, but it is hardly likely that the absence of the Blue and White captain will prevent his teammates from doing just about as they please against Lynn Woodworth's light and inexperienced eleven.

And the fact that today's game marks the last day of the present advisory led Coach Ty Rauber to make a decision last night which speaks even less for the chances of the Business Team this afternoon. Fearful that several of his present first-string regulars may become ineligible after the marks are turned in on Monday, Rauber stated that he may permit all of his stars to perform throughout the greater part of the game and allow them to run up as high a score as possible.

If the players, themselves, should be apprehensive of the fact that their appearance this afternoon would be the last of the series, it is assured that every one of them would give his all to make their farewell the best possible.

Central to Use Two Teams.

However, the Central mentor may decide at the last moment to shoot in his reserves at the start just to see what they can accomplish. At any rate, it is a sure bet that two complete Blue and White teams will be in the game today before the final whistle blows.

One thing is certain. Larry Pinckney, ace of the Mount Pleasant team, will retain his eligibility. Rauber ascertained that fact yesterday when he personally interviewed each of Pinckney's teachers who assured him that the big fellow was in no danger of flunking the present term.

Although expecting to gain quite a few capable performers when the records are released, Rauber has an inkling that his losses will offset the gains and he is not at all encouraged by the knowledge that the first six weeks of school is ended. However, the former Washington and Lee star let it be known that only Capt Brandt, Eicholtz, Lamond and Murray would be lost to the team next year through graduation and that he would be left with seven regulars and a generous gathering of strong reserve material.

Business Eleven Is Outweighed.

It will be just too bad for the Woodworth warriors if Rauber does decide to start his first-string combination. Coaching one of the lightest teams ever to participate in the annual series, Woodworth has little hopes of even holding the Centralites to a respectable score. The stronger and huskier Mount Pleasant line is likely to play havoc with the 135-pounders in the Stenog forward wall permitting Pinckney, Hinkle, Collela and Sabatini to crash through with ease.

Today's game should tell another tale, however, which would be entirely irrespective of the score. The Eastern-Western fray of Tuesday was finished in semidarkness with the lights of the surrounding streets already lighted as as final quarter was being played. If the Central-Business teams do not play any faster, which hardly seems possible, than their colleagues performed on Tuesday, the suggestion made some time back to equip the field with flood lights would probably not be amiss. For there are five more games to be played, and the days are not getting any longer.

Host, Fisher Up, Wins Galloping at Empire

Empire City Race Track, N. Y., Oct. 31 A.P.).—A. W. Wentzel's Host, admirably ridden by H. Fisher, scored easily in the Fordham Claiming Stakes, the featrue of the card here today. The race was hun exactly to Host5s liking. It was a small field, only four starting. Host was allowed to rate back of the pace and was never punished at any part of the journey.

H. Fisher rode to instructions, trailed the field for 7 furlongs and came around the leaders when ready. Host was taken to the outside where he would be clear of interference, ran into the lead at the furlong pole and won by a half length easily. Turf Writer was second by fuor lengths over Joe Marrone 3d., with Indian Scout, coupled with Turf Writer, fourth. The race was worth $2,270 to the winner.

Virginia Eleven Outweighs Maryland for Clash Here

one of Maryland's dependable backs. The former Eastern High star is a demon on the defense. He is a three-letter man, starring in basket ball, baseball as well as football.

Vanderbilt - Alabama Meet Tomorrow in Dixie Feature.

MARYLAND and Virginia will be evenly matched in the experience of their players in the Southern Conference battle at College Park tomorrow afternoon, but the Cavaliers will have close to nine pounds to the man in weight on the Old Liners, a comparison of statistics reveals.

Coach Curley Byrd of Maryland will send six seniors and five sophomores on the field at the outset of the home-coming day contest while Virginia's starting array of gridders will include five seniors, two juniors and four sophomores. This gives a total of 23 years of Varsity football experience for the players of each eleven.

When it comes to poundage a different situation exists, as the Cavaliers will have an advantage of more than nine pounds to the man in the line and slightly more than eight pounds to the man in the back field. It is in the tackle position, though, that the Virginians have the main edge, with Day tipping the scales at 205 and Whalen at 221. On the other hand, Maryland's heaviest man is Carlis, also a tackle, who weighs 189.

Teams Appear to Be Evenly Matched.

However, both teams are well balanced and despite the discrepancy in weight appear to be so well matched that the "breaks," or even one "break," likely will decide the issue.

Virginia appears to have the cleverest back who will take the field in Bill Thomas, a speedy 175-pounder who hails from Richmond, Va. He is rated along with Hawkins of V. M. I. as being the outstanding backs of the year in the South Atlantic sector. He probably is a better ball carrier than Hawkins, but not quite so valuable all-around performer.

Maryland is likely to have the edge in kicking if Buck Miller, its sophomore back, boots the ball with anywhere near the effectiveness in which he propelled the pigskin at Richmond last Saturday.

Maryland's final heavy workout for the game at College Park yesterday drew heavily upon the floodlights as it was long after the usual dinner hour when Coach Curley Byrd let his charges go.

Byrd Gives Variety Of Practice.

Byrd went over everything in the football repertoire from "soup to nuts" and wound up the day's proceedings with a short scrimmage against the Old Line yearlings who were using Virginia plays as seen by Jack Faber, freshman mentor, at Charlottesville last Saturday.

With the exception of Pease, who will replace the injured Norris at left end, the Maryland Eleven doubtless will be the same as that which started against V. M. I. at Richmond last Saturday.

Brady New Manager Of Cumberland Caseys

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 31.—Owen Brady was elected manager of Cumberland Council No. 586) Basket Ball Team for the coming season, at a meeting of the players and the athletic committee. Brady has had considerable experience in amateur and semipro athletics. Under Gunther's regime the team won two straight Cumberland City League championships, and in 1927-28 was recognized as Maryland State champion.

With the apparent disbanding of the city league, the Caseys will play independent basket ball this season and count on placing an even more formidable quint on the court than that which represented them last year.

RIVAL PREPS SCORELESS IN GAME

St. John, G. U. Prep Elevens in Even Struggle.

ST. JOHN'S and Georgetown Prep Teams battled to a 0-to-0 tie yesterday at the Garrett Park Stadium in as closely contested game as has been waged between scholastic teams this season. The game was an even affair all around and the threats of both elevens to score see-sawed throughout the four quarters.

Pauly Byrne's cadets were the first to threaten, carrying the ball straight down the field in the second quarter for what seemed a sure score. However, a fumble on the 10-yard line cost the St. John's Eleven its chance and it never came as close to the G. U goal again.

The Georgetown lads tried gamely to push across a decisive marker in the late stages of the game, but a similar fumble hurt the Garrett Park Team as it had injured the chances of its opponents.

Each team made eleven first downs and made use of three substitutions.

Abell Delays Selection Of Squad for Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 31.—Virginia's varsity candidates put plenty of fire and fight into practice this afternoon. It was because Earl Abell, head coach, was watching to select the 30 men who will make the trip to play Maryland, in College Park, on Saturday.

After two workouts in the rain the squad enjoyed practice in the sunshine this afternoon. If plays click Saturday as they did this afternoon the Cavaliers will avenge their defeat at the hands of the Old Liners last fall and will bring back the silver football.

A dummy scrimmage followed a short drill in fundamentals, as light work grew rougher a regular scrimmage developed, but with the ball brought back to the same position after each play. Teams B and C had defense drill against a daffodil team coached in Maryland tactics.

Taylor at center, Butts and Lankford, guards; Day and Whalen in tackle; Turner and Peyton on ends, Faulconer at quarter back, Thomas and Bryant at half backs, and Lewy at full back, went through signals together on team B.

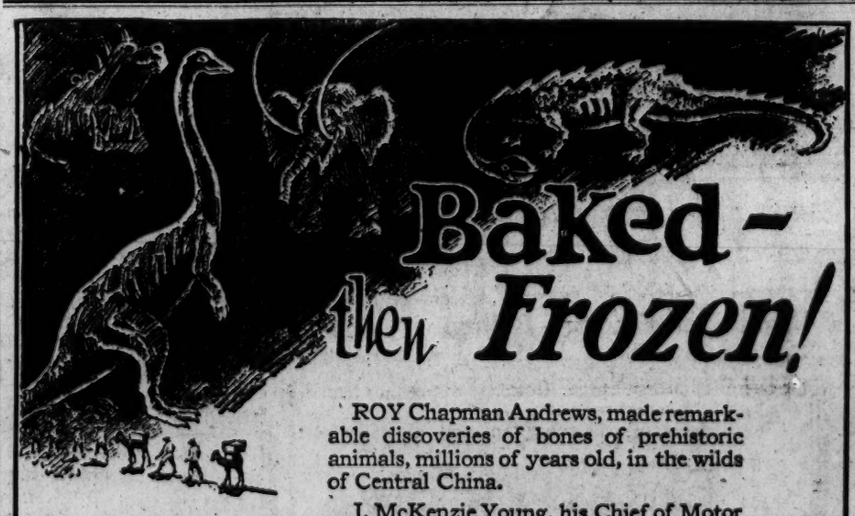
Then Byrd took Peyton's end position. Bunn replaced Lankford at guard and Sippley had a turn at calling signals. This team was sent to the showers half a hour before the remainder of the squad. Much attention was given to passing practice, with all four men in the back field taking turns at tossing. Team B was given 20 minutes of defensive play against the air attack of the regulars.

Coach Abell will not announce his selections for the Washington trip until after the short final workout tomorrow.

Cumberland Caseys Hold Second Ring Show

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 31. — The Knights of Columbus boxing committee announced today that its second amateur tournament of the season would be held in K. of C. Hall Wednesday, November 13. More than fifteen local amateur boxers have been working out at the Casey gym for the past week, and the indications are the local entries will be in top shape.



ROY Chapman Andrews, made remarkable discoveries of bones of prehistoric animals, millions of years old, in the wilds of Central China.

J. McKenzie Young, his Chief of Motor Transport, writes of Exide Batteries:

"—In temperatures varying from 40 degrees below zero to 120 degrees above they have always responded. In terrific blizzards, mud, snow and rain, they have never failed to act."

You can select an Exide for your car with the same confidence that Roy Chapman Andrews and other daring explorers have shown in choosing it for their hazardous trips into the unknown.

Regular inspection of your battery, regardless of its make, at our service station, will pay you in longer battery life. Come in—our time is your time—any time.

NOVEMBER 1, 1904.

Today was the 150th anniversary of the founding of Old King's College, Columbia University. Two thousand alumni were present and were addressed by President Butler.

The stock market, which was thought to have recovered from the disastrous drop of last week, took another slump today causing those who bought on the margin to lose out.

Jimmy Britt, of California, lost the lightweight championship of the world when he fouled Joe Gans, of Baltimore, in the fifth round of their fight in San Francisco.

About 200 horses are now quartered at the Pimlico Race Track, ready for the seven-day meet which begins next Saturday. Dick Bernard, at 15 to 1, easily won the Richmond Handicap at Jamaica yesterday, causing the ring to lose heavily on the long odds given on him.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

PROGRESS IS NOTED IN ILLITERACY FIGHT

Virginia Educational System Proves Worth, Report of Hart Reveals.

VOLUNTEER WORK CITED

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Stating that illiteracy among persons of educable age was reduced more than 50 per cent between the census of 1920 and the census of 1925, Harris Hart, State superintendent of public instruction, today declared that efforts had been made to effect a proportionate decrease in the period 1925-30.

Although, he said, the public schools were only remotely responsible for adult illiteracy, a campaign is under way to reach as many adult illiterates as possible.

Superintendent Hart's statement was made in connection with preparations of the Virginia Department of Education to conduct the 1930 census. "The law requires such a census every five years," said Hart. Correspondence is being held with superintendents with reference to this matter and forms for the census enumerators are being prepared.

Superintendent's Hopes Stated.

"It is hoped," he continued, "that the census of 1930 will show proportionately as large a reduction in the illiterates from 10 to 20 years of age as was disclosed by the school census of 1925, as compared to that of 1920.

"In 1920 the number of illiterates from 10 to 20 for the counties was 26,904," Hart said; "for the cities, 1,552, or a total of 28,456. The census of 1925 showed illiterates between 10 and 20 for the counties, 13,492; for the cities, 592, or a total of 14,084.

"Within this five-year period, therefore, the number of illiterates within the school age was reduced a little over 50 per cent.

Improvement Is Noted.

"Many of the superintendents have reported that such marked improvement has been made in enrollment and average daily attendance that the number of illiterates to be reported in 1930 ought to show an even greater reduction than in the former five-year period.

"The reduction of white illiteracy in the counties was encouraging during the previous period. In 1920, 12,466 white illiterates between the ages of 10 and 20 were reported for the counties; in 1925 the number had been reduced to 5,843, or a reduction of about 54 per cent.

During the same period Negro illiterates within the ages above were reduced from 14,438 to 7,649, or approximately 47 per cent.

Volunteer Service Cited.

"While the adult illiterate does not come within the range of public school education and for them the schools are more remotely responsible, yet the Department of Education and the division superintendents are undertaking this session a campaign to reach as many adult illiterates as it is possible to instruct.

"No money is available for this undertaking, so the program must be operated purely on a voluntary basis.

"Superintendents have been requested during the month of October to have their teachers make as careful a canvass as possible to find out the adult illiterates in their several communities. Local and civic clubs, school leagues, parent-teacher associations, the church and the local press have been asked to cooperate in this movement.

Illiterates Offered Tutors.

"After the adult illiterates have been found and reported on special census sheets, superintendents have been urged to secure those teachers prepared for the work and willing to undertake it as an extra school activity to meet small groups of illiterates two afternoons or two evenings a week in order to give them the rudiments of reading and writing.

"Of course, this program is handicapped by lack of funds and also by the fact that many adult illiterates are not willing to take advantage of the training offered.

"The machinery has been set up, however, and the opportunity has been offered for all groups of adult illiterates to receive such training as the public school teachers can offer."

SHENANDOAH GAME SANCTUARY OPENS

Deer Park Is Included in the Limits of Preserve in Mountains.

BEARS MAY BE HUNTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 31.—A 1,000-acre game sanctuary has been established in the Shenandoah Mountains, of northwest Rockingham, near the West Virginia line, by Game Warden Wade Fawley, in an effort to replenish the stock of deer, wild turkeys, pheasants and other game which formerly frequented the region.

The Shenandoah National Forest furnished part of the wooded land in the tract, while individuals turned over the other part of the area.

The sanctuary includes the 50-acre "deer park" which was established in the Shenandoah Mountains five years ago by private citizens and which now contains nearly 100 deer. Hunting in the entire area is strictly forbidden and those in charge of the game projects hope to increase the deer. This animal was extinct in its former favorite haunts before five deer were placed in the fenced-in enclosure in 1924.

Bear are reported as plentiful in the area, and permits may be obtained to hunt them in the game preserve. The same is true of wildcats. Four bear already have been killed by mountain huntsmen after the animals raided flocks of sheep. The hunting clubs are now organizing for a busy winter season. The sport is a strenuous one, however, the last bear killed giving the men and dogs a nine-hour chase, which covered 15 miles of rugged mountain country.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 31.—A. B. DeWitt and W. W. Burks, of Bedford County, Saturday shot and killed a 127-pound bear at Apple Orchard, that county. The bear, dressed, weighed 91 pounds and was sold to a meat dealer here.

ARLINGTON ZONING LAW PLANS AIRED

Engineer Explains Proposal at Public Hearing of County Board.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Meeting in the county courthouse last night, the Arlington Zoning Commission held a public hearing on the zoning ordinance as affecting Rosslyn and sections of the Lee highway as far as Park Lane and the Potomac River.

Allen J. Saville, of Richmond, zoning engineer, gave a comprehensive outline of the proposed ordinance. He stated at the outset that the objective of zoning is to make a study to determine what use can be made of vacant land and to so plan that a county or city will develop along a uniform line.

The ordinance, as explained by Saville, shows the county divided into six classes, or districts, as follows: A, residence district; B, residence district; C, local business district; D, general business district; E, light industrial district, and F, heavy industrial district.

The ordinance, as drawn, does not in any way affect business as now established, even should it be in a residential district, he said, but it was pointed out that should the property be destroyed by fire or become vacant for a period of one year it could not again be used for business without permission.

It was pointed out that the zoning does not reduce the values of property, but on the other hand tends to advance values.

While the meeting was attended by a large number of residents of Mackey's Hill, the section over which the county board of supervisors overruled the zoning commission and granted a permit to the Sun Oil Co. to erect storage tanks for gasoline and oil, no objections were raised as the ordinance was explained, but many questions were asked.

Saville stated that numerous public hearings will be held covering every section of the county and that before the ordinance is submitted to the county board of supervisors changes may be made.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club yesterday in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon, Walter K. Handy, member of the Lion's Club of Washington, stressed the valuable work that service clubs throughout the country are doing for the benefit of delinquent children.

Courts in many sections of the country are now turning over delinquent children to service clubs and it has been found by close investigation that this is among one of the greatest services rendered by a service club. Handy, a resident of Arlington, congratulated the local club on the work it is doing.

Secretary P. P. Woodbridge, who has just returned from a trip through New Jersey, reported on aiding in organization of several new clubs.

Assurance was given yesterday by Supervisor B. M. Hedricks, of Arlington District, that plans were being considered to take care of the sidewalk situation along Wilson boulevard that developed since the widening of the boulevard. The boulevard is closed at Picketts Hill. Motorists are using the Lee highway.

In a statement yesterday, Hugh Reid, Democratic candidate for reelection to the Virginia House of Delegates, dispelled any thought that the recall legislation proposed by the Arlington County Civic Federation would become an issue this year.

Reid, in his reply to a letter received from the Arlington County Civic Federation, asking his views on the resolution adopted by the federation for the recall legislation, said:

"I need not inform you personally that I believe in the recall, as I do in the initiative and referendum, and am familiar with its history and operation. I am at present, however, concerned with the wisdom of taking on any more controversial subjects in the next General Assembly."

Continuing, Reid pointed out that the constitution of the State provides that county and district officers shall hold office for a term of four years, except the county clerk, who is elected for a term of eight years. This, he said, appears to end the subject, as far as any special act is concerned, as it would be unconstitutional.

Looking at the subject from another standpoint, Reid states, a measure of this kind would involve strong opposition with boards of supervisors throughout the State. "As I see it, all the force that we can command should be waged to save the gasoline tax in the next session of the Legislature," he wrote.

"No hard-surfaced roads have been built in recent years except from the revenue derived from that tax. Arlington County would be in a most serious condition should there be any change in the present plan for distribution of that fund."

The Arlington - Fairfax - Alexandria Real Estate Board will hold its monthly luncheon meeting today at the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria.

Plans looking to the perfecting of an aggressive organization to carry on the work of the annual roll call under the auspices of the Arlington County Chapter American Red Cross are being completed. County Chairman George A. Collier announced last night. Collier announced that the campaign will start Monday, November 11.

The Cherrydale Firemen's Hall was filled to capacity with citizens attending the annual Halloween carnival and dance there.

The bowling team of the Arlington Fire Department will hold its weekly scheduled games in the Arlington-Fairfax Firemen's Bowling League tomorrow night at the Rosslyn alleys.

The Men's Bible Class of the Clarendon Baptist Church will hold a banquet at the church Monday night. Dr. William E. Martin, president of the Arlington Hall College for Girls, is announced as the principal speaker.

The meeting of the Ballston Improvement Association, scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed one week.

The Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club announces a card party to be held in the Boulevard Bakery Monday night.

PARK LAND SOUGHT IN FREDERICKSBURG

U. S. Commission Moves to Condemn Battlefield Area in Court.

PRICES HELD TOO HIGH

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 31.—Initial steps by the United States Government to acquire land for the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania National Battlefield Park through process of condemnation were taken this week by publication in a local newspaper of formal notice against four Spotsylvania County property owners of its intention to proceed through the court to obtain the land desired. Several tracts of land have already been secured by purchase where the price asked by the property holders was considered satisfactory to the Park Commission.

Land Near City Limits.

In the four cases now pending, the commission felt that the figure asked by the owners was in excess of the actual market value. Failing to reach an agreement on the price to be paid, proceedings were instituted in the United States District Court presided over by Judge D. Lawrence Groner, to have the property taken by condemnation.

Application will be made to the court on November 29 for the appointment of a jury to appraise the land and set the price to be paid by the Battlefield Park Commission. The land in question is located close to the city limits, being part of that fought over in the Battle of Fredericksburg in 1862.

It is the plan of the commission to take over such property as may be necessary to restore the principal battle lines of this encounter and to mark the principal points in the battle with monuments, to be connected with artistic driveways.

Other Fields Surveyed.

Survey work in connection with the Fredericksburg area has been completed and engineering parties are now engaged in locating the battle lines of Spotsylvania Courthouse, the Wilderness and Chancellorsville, preparatory to preserving and marking these battlefields also. The Battlefield Park Commission, of which Col. Tenney Ross is chairman, maintains offices in Fredericksburg and meetings are held weekly.

Byrd Makes Plea For Party Ticket

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 31.—Gov. Harry F. Byrd arrived here late this afternoon en route to Hopewell, where tonight he made a spirited address in the interest of the Democratic nominees. He was met by a large delegation of prominent Hopewell officials and other citizens. Headed by a band, the delegation escorted the governor to the Corporation Court room where he spoke.

He was introduced by Dr. D. Lane, Elder, Mayor of Hopewell. The chief executive of the State discussed the issues involved in the gubernatorial campaign and declared it would be a calamity to the State for the Democratic ticket not to win on Tuesday next. He added, however, that he had no fear of the ticket's defeat. The governor told what the Democratic party had done for Virginia and what it was still doing. He then asked what has the Republican party done for the Commonwealth. He referred to the many alleged misstatements that had been made by Republican party leaders in this campaign. His address was interrupted by applause.

On his arrival in Petersburg Gov. Byrd was met by a delegation of leading business men, who escorted him to the Hotel Petersburg, where he was the guest of honor at a supper given by the board of directors of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce. Gov. Byrd spent about two hours in Petersburg.

Fatal Fight Ends In Man's Arrest

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 31.—Whether or not Ben Brooks, 45 years old, was murdered here this afternoon by Lindsey Witt, or whether he died from natural causes, had not been determined this evening, though Witt was held in jail.

The two men came to grips in a fist fight, police report, over a quart of liquor, and there was a rough and tumble fight on the sidewalk, first with one man on top and then the other. Both were separated and stood up, then Brooks walked a few paces and fell to the ground. A physician found him still breathing, but he soon died. Dr. John Hawkins, who examined Brooks, said that the indications were that he died of heart failure induced by his exertions and not by a blow on the head.

The dead man had a scar on the temple. Eyewitnesses said the men fought with their fists and without weapons.

DEMURRER HEARING SLATED FOR TODAY

B.&O. BUYS STATION LAND

Hearing on the demurrer filed by the State Roads Commission to the injunction proceedings seeking to restrain the commission from constructing the Lincoln avenue overhead bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Kensington is scheduled for today before Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville.

Nine residents of Kensington are seeking a restraining order to prevent construction of the overhead bridge, claiming that the commission arbitrarily abused its powers when it ordered the bridge located at that point and claiming that their property will suffer if the bridge is erected.

The State Roads Commission filed a demurrer denying that any of the residents have any equitable interest in the location of the bridge. The roads commission is represented by Assistant Attorney General Robert Archer and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, who represents the county commissioners.

The plaintiffs are: Edgar W. Moore, former mayor of Kensington; Frank P. Welsh, Harry M. Corrick, John A. Feeney, C. M. Dyson, Frank S. Shipley, William A. Chapman, Charles D. Phillips and Joseph C. Murray. The defendants named are: G. Clinton Uhl, Howard Bruce, John K. Shaw and the State Roads Commission.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has contracted to purchase an acre of land immediately north of the present Silver Spring station of the railroad for use as a site for its North Washington freight terminal. The land is the property of Griffith and Perry, coal and fuel merchants of Silver Spring, who have contracted to purchase a two-acre tract from E. Brooke Lee for the continuation of their business.

A 40-car terminal can be built on the property contracted for by the B. & O. and additional trackage is available on the north half of the present station site. The railroad intends the immediate improvement of the site, it is understood. The acre purchased has a 160-foot frontage on Georgia avenue and extends west to the main line of the metropolitan branch of the B. & O.

Included in the sale agreement is a covenant which provides that the railroad is to improve the Georgia avenue frontage by erecting a face brick wall at least ten feet in height to screen tracks, bumpers and freight cars, the railroad company to leave only such openings as are necessary for driveways.

The new Griffith and Perry site is located north of the East-West highway and immediately east of the main line of the B. & O. and has a 200-foot frontage on the East-West highway. The coal company has agreed to erect a two-story brick front similar to the store frontages of the Silver Spring area.

A meeting of the Montgomery County Courthouse building committee will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the courthouse at Rockville. The committee will discuss the new plans for the courthouse and jail building which is to be erected in Rockville to house the county business and to protect the county records.

The meeting was authorized by the Montgomery County commissioners Tuesday.

The nominating committee of the Montgomery County Civic Federation yesterday announced the slate which will be presented for approval at the next meeting of the federation, November 11, at the Takoma-Silver Spring High School.

The nominations announced follow: R. E. Bondy, president; Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, vice president; W. B. Armstrong, recording secretary; O. M. Kile, corresponding secretary, and J. J. Miller, treasurer. Col. A. B. Barber, the retiring president, is slated for the executive committee, with Oliver Owen Kuhn, Emory H. Bogley, and Stephen James. J. Bond Smith is chairman of the nominating committee.

In addition to the election of officers, the meeting of the federation November 11 will discuss an important question, the extension of Massachusetts avenue from the District line to River road, according to O. M. Kile, the corresponding secretary.

Action on a request for reconsideration of the disapproval of an application for a permit to build a store at Glen Echo, filed by Charles W. Balenger, was postponed last night by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission at a meeting in the Tower Building, Washington. The request was turned over to Montgomery County members of the commission for study.

The commission also postponed action on a petition asking for the opening of Elm street, Bethesda, to Wisconsin avenue by the residents of the street. The end of the street is blocked by a lot owned by William G. Counselman, who is asking a permit to erect a store on the lot. The commission decided to postpone action on both petitions until after an inspection of the situation.

Members of the commission, Montgomery County Commissioners and planning commission engineers will inspect the situation Monday, if arrangements can be made to have Counselman present.

The commission disapproved a petition for reclassification of property on Georgia avenue, Woodside, from residential A to commercial D, asked by E. C. Thomas. The commission points out that there is considerable vacant commercial property in that section already, including several empty stores.

LINDBERGH'S MAYA FLIGHTS ATTACKED

Explorations Are Useless Scientifically, Asserts Virginia Professor.

SCOUTS IDEA OF DANGER

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 31.—Dr. James C. Bardin, professor of Spanish in the University of Virginia and student of the Mayan civilizations, in a talk this morning before students of the romantic languages declared that Col. Lindbergh's airplane explorations of Maya ruins have no scientific value whatever.

In pointing out the need for "debunking" much that has been done and said in the name of American archeology, Dr. Bardin told of several trips he made to Yucatan to study Mayan languages. He described his trips to Tuluum, Coba and other ruined cities photographed by Lindbergh and represented as having been previously undiscovered by the white man or not visited by him in generations.

"The flight of Lindbergh was in one way very useful," said Dr. Bardin, "for it was the first attempt to employ a plane in the Mayan field, but published emphasis placed upon it has been such as to destroy its value by producing an erroneous idea of just what the flight means.

Flight Called Publicity Stunt.

"Apparently the flight was undertaken not primarily as a scientific enterprise, but as a publicity stunt for an airplane company. The season of the year chosen was the worst possible for taking aerial photographs. It was at the end of the rainy season, when the vegetation is thickest. Such a flight might have been successful in March or April."

Lindbergh's photographic equipment was totally inadequate for the work he was attempting, Dr. Bardin pointed out, and he told why it was impossible for the flier to spot ruins with accuracy on any existing map, as he is reported to have done.

Dr. Bardin is a reserve officer with the geographic division of the Military Intelligence Service. He recently spent six months in Washington working on new maps, among them one covering the territory in which lie the Maya ruins. It will be completed in about eighteen months, he said.

Air Notations Worthless, Claim.

"Notations made from the air on existing maps of the Yucatan peninsula or of the Peten district of Guatemala would be worthless," he insisted. "They would probably be 100 miles off.

"In any aerial survey, visual or photographic, there must be a definite procedure, and you must be able to locate yourself after getting a base line. Whatever data were obtained on Lindbergh's flight have no scientific value."

Franz Blom, head of the department of middle American archaeology in Tulane University, has already projected an aerial survey of the Maya area and has been drawing up plans for a splendid scientific procedure, Dr. Bardin asserted.

Stories of Danger Scouted.

Stories of danger to travelers in the Maya country were characterized by Dr. Bardin as "perfect poppycock." In jungle travel the chief difficulty is in crossing streams. In the whole Yucatan Peninsula there are no rivers and few swamps, which can be avoided. The chief difficulty is in finding good drinking water. Talk of peril and hardships in the Maya country is laughable to any one familiar with conditions of travel there."

Dr. Bardin, who has explored this region several times, deplored the "exaggerated" stories chiefly for the reason that they discourage many who could visit the ruins with little difficulty, and also those who might finance scientific parties.

Explorations have ceased to be the important thing, he pointed out. The real problem is in the study of the Mayan language, ethnology and history. "If the eyes of the public can be turned away from the archaeological circus to the important problems, we can get somewhere," he said in conclusion.

FEDERAL RESERVE REPORT CHEERFUL

Basic Conditions Are Better Than Year Ago in Fifth District, It Says.

TRADE HAS GOOD START

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Fall trade in the Fifth Federal Reserve District in September and October got off to a good start and "basic conditions seem to be better than they were at this time last year," William W. Hoxton, chairman of the district, states in his monthly review of business and agricultural conditions.

"Building construction is in smaller volume at present than in the fall of 1928," according to the review, "but this is about the only definitely unfavorable factor in evidence. Commercial and reserve bank credit in use in the middle of October was practically the same as on the corresponding date last year, and was in moderate volume.

"Debits to individual accounts during the four weeks ended October 9 this year were 3 per cent higher than debits in the four weeks ended October 10, 1928. Business failures were fewer in the Fifth District in September than in any month since the fall of 1920 and aggregate liabilities involved were the lowest in six years.

"Employment conditions are reasonably good. West Virginia's output of bituminous coal is up to seasonal level. The textile outlook, while less satisfactory than that of some other industries, is distinctly better than it was last fall. Prospects for the district cotton production are above those of last year, although cotton prices at present are lower than they were at mid-October, 1928.

"The total tobacco production of the Fifth District is above that of 1928, and this year's prices generally are perhaps running somewhat higher. The yields of most other crops were fair to good, and prices on the whole have not been unsatisfactory.

"Retail trade in September as reflected in department store sales was considerably better than in September, 1928, in the upper half of the district, although in smaller volume in the Carolinas.

"Wholesale trade not only showed seasonal gains in September over August, but exceeded the volume of sales made in September a year ago in four of the five lines for which data are available."
